PORT ARTHUR CAPITULATES

Gen. Stoessel, Convinced of Futility of Continuing Struggle, Writes to Gen. Nogi Asking For Terms Under Which He Can Surrender the Garrison to the Japanese.

Berlin, Jan. 2.—A dispatch to the Lokal Anzeiger from Tokio today, says: "An official bulletin has been posted announcing that Port Arthur has capitulated under conditions honorable to the garrison."

GEN. STOESEL.

The Intrepid and Brave Commander of Port Arthur, Who Has Resisted Fierce Attacks of Japs for Nearly Eleven Months.

NOGI ACCEPTS STOESEL'S OFFER OF CAPITULATION

Tokio, Jan. 2.—Gen. Nogi reports as follows: "At 5 in the afternoon, Jan. 1, the enemy's bearer of a flag of truce came into the first line of our position south of Shuishiyeng and handed a letter to our officers. The same reached me at 9 o'clock at night. The letter is as follows:

"Judging by the general condition of the whole line of hostile positions held by you I find further resistance at Port Arthur useless, and for the purpose of preventing needless sacrifice of lives I propose to hold negotiations with reference to capitulation. Should you consent to the same, you will please appoint commissioners for discussing the order and conditions regarding capitulation, and also appoint a place for such commissioners to meet the same appointed by me.

"I take this opportunity to convey to your excellency assurances of my respect. (Signed) STOESEL."

"Shortly after dawn today I will dispatch our bearer of a flag of truce with the following reply addressed to Gen. Stoessel:

"I have the honor to reply to your proposal to hold negotiations regarding the conditions and order of capitulation. For this purpose I have appointed as commissioners Major Gen. Ijichi, chief of staff of our army. He will be accompanied by staff officers and civil officials. They will meet your commissioners Jan. 2, noon, at Shuishiyeng. The commissioners of both parties will be empowered to sign a convention for the capitulation without waiting for ratification, and cause the same to take immediate effect. Authorization for such plenary powers shall be signed by the highest officer of both the negotiating parties and the same shall be exchanged by the respective commissioners.

"I avail myself of this opportunity to convey to your excellency assurances of my respect. (Signed) 'NOGI.'"

GEN. NOGI.

Japanese Commander Who Has Relentlessly Waged War On Port Arthur and Who Receives Gen. Stoessel's Offer of Capitulation.

Port Arthur has surrendered. Exhausted by months of almost constant fighting, decimated by disease and casualties and hopelessly sealed in its rocky fortress, the gallant garrison has yielded to its gallant besiegers and the end is now written of the most dramatic war incident of modern times.

At 9 o'clock last night, Gen. Nogi, commanding the Japanese army of investment received from the Russian general, Stoessel, a note saying that he found further resistance useless and asking for a meeting to arrange terms of capitulation. The note was simple and direct and the Japanese general immediately named commissioners to confer with representatives of the Russian commander.

They met at noon today to arrange conditions of surrender. The nature of the terms agreed upon is not yet known, but dispatches from Tokio indicate that they will be of the most magnanimous character. The emperor of Japan himself, through the chief of the imperial staff, has given public expression that "Gen. Stoessel has rendered commendable service to his country in the midst of difficulties" and that it is his wish "that military honors be shown him." A dispatch from Tokio quotes military opinion as believing that the entire garrison will be allowed to march out under arms and may be sent to Russia on parole. Late dispatches from Japan have shown that the gallant defense of Stoessel and his men has now been given a finer appreciation than in the hand of his foes, and it is more than likely that Japan will embrace the opportunity to show her magnanimity and admiration of the gallantry of Port Arthur's defenders by allowing them all the honors which war permits a victorious army to bestow upon the vanquished.

London, Jan. 2, 2:55 p. m.—A dispatch to the Japanese legation from Tokio says Gen. Stoessel's proposals for the surrender of Port Arthur have been accepted by Gen. Nogi.

The text of Gen. Nogi's message as received at the legation confirms the Associated Press earlier Tokio advices as follows: Gen. Stoessel's proposal was accepted. The terms and process of surrender are to be negotiated between the respective delegates at noon, Jan. 2."

Tokio, Jan. 2, 1 p. m.—It is understood that hostilities at Port Arthur were suspended today and that the Russian and Japanese chiefs of staff met at noon at Shuishiyeng to discuss terms of surrender.

It is believed here that the Port Arthur garrison has received liberal terms. There is a general disposition to be magnanimous in view of the garrison's marvelous defense. The public has not been informed of the result of the meeting of the capitulation commissioners at noon today but it was believed that the terms had already been agreed upon. In military circles the opinion was expressed that the discussion covered only a few questions including allowing the garrison to march out carrying their guns, permitting the garrison to return to Russia with or without their officers and requiring their parole not to take any further part in the war.

It is possible that Japan will permit the entire garrison to return to Russia with arms upon giving their parole.

SOON OCCUPY CITY. Terms of Surrender Will Be Arranged Rapidly.

London, Jan. 2.—At noon the Japanese legation received an official communication from Tokio repeating the information given out eight hours previously in the Associated Press dispatches from Tokio as to Lieut. Gen. Stoessel's overtures for capitulation. This official communication dispensed of the definite announcement of surrender prematurely published in London by one English paper and one American agency.

No doubt, however, is entertained in competent quarters that terms will be arranged and that the Japanese will soon be in effective occupation of Port Arthur, the magnificent defense of which is the subject of eulogy on all sides. At the Japanese legation, it was said that the negotiations over the terms of surrender might entail considerable communication with Tokio and possibly prolonging the negotiations until Tuesday, but there was a little disposition to doubt that an agreement would be reached. Minister Hayashi expressed relief at the fact that the sacrifice of life on the part of the garrison and the besiegers was about to be ended. The fall of the fortress, the minister added, would mark the close of an important phase of the war and release a large number of troops which would be available for the reinforcement of Field Marshal Oyama, but Baron Hayashi was not in a position to say that the surrender would have any definite, immediate influence in the direction of terminating the war. As to mediation the minister reiterated that he knew of no attempt in that direction. "The legation," he continued, "has nothing confirmatory of the reports of a definite surrender, but our information goes to show that the surrender of the great fortress is imminent. The terms of surrender, of course, come within the province of the generals, but it is very unlikely that Russian troops still at Port Arthur, who are believed to number nearly 20,000 men, will be allowed to reinforce the troops in the field."

Minister Hayashi naturally was elated at the expected surrender and reiterated: "It will at any rate end the terrible slaughter there and I sincerely hope it may in some way facilitate final peace. This depends upon Russia and not upon us. It may strengthen the determination of Russia to continue the war at all costs. Its effect on Japan, however, cannot be doubted. Our fleet is free and the release of the besieging army gives us increased forces available for service elsewhere. Our base becomes more secure than ever."

Baron Hayashi paid a tribute to Gen. Stoessel, saying: "The surrender will in no way affect the glory belonging to him and his men nor our admiration for their splendid defense."

Baron Suematsu, son-in-law of Marquis Ito, and former Japanese minister of the interior, who is now in this city, was asked what effect the fall of Port Arthur was likely to have on the future course of the war, and remarked that in a series of counter attacks to give way there could be no termination of the hostilities.

TORPEDO BOATS DISARMED. Chefoo, Jan. 2, 4:20 p. m.—Three large Japanese destroyers are just entering the harbor. The Russian torpedo boats 6 p. m.—The Russian torpedo boats Skory, Stranul, Vlastul and Serdity, now in port, have been disarmed and the Japanese destroyers which followed them in, have left the harbor. It is reported that there are 15,000 sick and wounded at Port Arthur, and that 5000 able-bodied convalescents man the forts.

REACHES THE PUBLIC. News of Capitulation Given Out at Tokio.

Tokio, Jan. 2, 10:30 a. m.—Gen. Nogi's telegram announcing that Gen. Stoessel was prepared to discuss terms of capitulation reached Tokio early this morning, but was not made public until 10 o'clock. Its receipt sent a thrill of pleasure through the circle of officials who have long awaited such communication. The news is just reaching the general public, and it is expected that they will bring ample evidences of popular joy. Besides the barest announcement of the receipt of Gen. Nogi's telegram, nothing is known about the terms or conditions proposed. The fall of Wanhai, popularly known as Signal Hill, following the loss of Rihung, Sungshu, H. fort and New Panlung, is regarded here as a clear indication that the Port Arthur garrison has lost its power of serious resistance. The facts do not reveal it, but it is probable that the back of the Russian defense was broken when 203 Meire hill was captured. The Russians desperately sought to retake that eminence, and sent infantry and marines against it in a series of counter attacks, fruitlessly losing thousands of men. Following that, the extension of the Japanese right compelled the Russians to fight over an extended front, and made concentration difficult. Despite the lack of knowledge of the contents of Gen. Stoessel's letter, it is confidently believed that there will be no hitch, and that there will be a prompt capitulation, ending one of the most remarkable sieges in history.

MOVEMENTS SUSPENDED. Pending Negotiations For Surrender of City.

Tokio, Jan. 2.—A dispatch from the Japanese army before Port Arthur received at noon today says:

"The enemy's forces occupying Keekwan mountain and Q fort, following an explosion at 230 this morning, opened a sudden and fierce rifle fire, which suddenly stopped. Our scouts were dispatched to the scene and immediately afterwards found the enemy evacuating these places. Our forces immediately occupied these two forts and also the heights known as M and N, south of the forts. This morning almost all the enemy's ships, large and small, were blown up in the entrance and inside the harbor. Our offensive movements have been suspended pending the negotiations."

TOKIO GOES WILD. News of Stoessel's Capitulation Causes Great Joy.

Tokio, Jan. 2, 11:30 a. m.—Tokio is wildly joyous over Gen. Nogi's telegram announcing that Gen. Stoessel had sent a letter relating to the surrender of Port Arthur. Newsboys crying extras were the messengers who carried the news to the holiday crowds in the streets. The people grabbed the papers and repeated the cries. Thus was the news carried throughout the city and within a few minutes the firing of aerial bombs and daylight rockets began in various parts of the city. Bands appeared and a score of small processions formed and surged through the principal streets. Japan has paid a heavy price for the Russian fortress. The prospect of its early possession cheered the people as no other event of the war has done. The emperor's new year reception and audience to the army and navy officers and civil officials continued this morning. The news from Port Arthur gave additional cheer to the general exchange of congratulations.

ENTIRE LINE OF FORTS NOW IN HANDS OF JAPANESE.

Tokio, Jan. 2.—Following the dramatic capture of Sungshu mountain Saturday morning, the Japanese yesterday captured "H" fort and a recently constructed fort on Panlung mountain, which gives them possession of the entire line between Rihung mountain and "H" fort, by way of Panlung mountain. Simultaneously the extreme Japanese right, pressing south along Pigeon bay, captured the heights south of Housanyentau. A telegram received yesterday from the besieging army says: "Part of the center, dislodging the enemy, occupied 'H' fort at 7 o'clock this morning and also captured a new fort on Panlung mountain. Thus the line between Rihung mountain and 'H' fort, via Panlung mountain, fell firmly into our hands. "Part of our right, which commenced a bombardment at 8 o'clock this morning and dislodged the enemy, who resisted stubbornly, firmly occupied height south of Housanyentau at 2 o'clock." NEW YEAR'S DAY AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Usual Brilliant Reception By President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

Thousands of People Swarm Through Historic Old Mansion.

Washington, Jan. 2.—Official and resident Washington today extended New Year's greetings to the president and Mrs. Roosevelt at the White House. The event—brilliant and spectacular as the president's New Year's receptions always are—marked the formal opening of the social season of 1905.

The reception was characterized by true democracy. The portals of the White House swung wide for all the world. All were welcomed to the historic mansion and afforded the opportunity to greet both the president and Mrs. Roosevelt. Thousands embraced this opportunity.

By the president's direction no absolute limit of time was placed on the reception. The reception of guests began shortly after 11 o'clock. An hour or more before that time the lines of callers began to form.

As the callers entered the White House they were greeted by a burst of melody from the Marine band, sixty pieces strong, stationed in the great vestibule, under the baton of Lieut.

Saitelenma, a blaze of color and a breath of perfume from beautiful decorations, and a scent of splendor, the brilliance of which was enhanced by the soft glow from myriads of shaded electric lights.

The floral decorations, while not elaborate, were more profuse than have characterized recent White House receptions. Rare varieties of palms were disposed of effectively about the vestibule and the corridor palms and ferns formed a striking background for the scarlet uniforms of the band.

In the state dining room, in the east room and in the red, blue and green parlors, rare cut flowers were arranged with consummate art and effectiveness, the delicate colors of flowers and orchids being accentuated here and there by a blaze of flaming red or a splash of vivid green.

The beginning of the reception was announced by a flourish sounded by trumpeters from the Marine band stationed near the foot of the main staircase. The fanfare signaled the approach of the president. Preceded by his military aide, Col. Charles S. Brown, and his naval aide, Commander Cameron McR. Winslow, President Roosevelt, escorted Mrs. Roosevelt, descended the stairs, followed by the members of the cabinet and their ladies, constituting the immediate receiving party. The distinguished party crossed the corridor and entered the blue parlor, where the president and Mrs. Roosevelt received their guests. The guests invited to be behind the line, already had assembled in the blue parlor. When the president and Mrs. Roosevelt had greeted formally the members of the cabinet, among whom Secretary Taft, Secretary Morison, Secretary Metcalf and Postmaster General Wynne were participating for the first time in a New Year's reception as the president's advisors, they extended cordial greetings to others in the room, who had assembled to assist them. Both the president and Mrs. Roosevelt, in excellent spirits and joined animatedly in conversations with their guests. The president was attired in a regulation frock suit, and, as usual, wore a turn-down collar and dark-four-in-hand tie. The receiving party was arranged in the arc of a circle, in the south end of the blue parlor, facing the party behind the line. Between the two sections was a lane formed by old gold, silk velvet cord, through which the guests passed from the red parlor to the green parlor. Near the entrance to the red room the president and Mrs. Roosevelt stood. Directly in the door stood a secret service officer, who closely scrutinized every person who entered. An extra detail of police, besides several secret service men, were on duty. Nobody was permitted to carry handkerchiefs or mufflers in his hands, and nobody was permitted to pass along the line with hands in his pocket.

SENATORIAL FIGHT APPARENTLY ENDED

Lack of Union In Opposition to Clapp Gives Him Victory.

Real, Live Candidate Might Have Carried Off the Senatorship.

FROM THE HERALD ST. PAUL BUREAU.

St. Paul, Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—It looked very much last night as though the Clapp managers were somewhat within reasonable distance of the truth when they said the senatorial fight was over.

A lack of union in the opposition to Senator Clapp, and the failure of a real live candidate to make his appearance in the field against him, were the principal factors that led to this condition, though, of course, there were others. A week ago there was the biggest opportunity that ever happened to defeat the incumbent and run in a new man. Had such a man as Frank B. Kellogg, for instance, been led out into the arena and a decently sensible fight made in his behalf, there would have been a very lively contest.

At that time the situation was something like this: Senator Clapp had some pledged votes, but not nearly enough. Judge Gilfillan of Minneapolis had been in the field some little time, and Capt. S. R. Van Sant of Winona had just broken into the game with an announcement—not anywhere near unexpected—that he was going to be a candidate, too.

Gilfillan had most of the Hennepin county bunch, nominally at any rate, and perhaps a few outside. Van Sant did not have much capital, except unlimited assurance and an abundance of complacency over his own worth.

With the exception of the really active Clapp supporters—and it must be admitted that there was a surprising lack of enthusiasm in this direction—and the few tied up to the other two candidates, the field was as silent as the tomb. There appeared to be an atmosphere of waiting, and the earth trembled with warnings of subterranean forces that might burst forth and "start something." This was a bad situation for Clapp, and he and his managers realized it.

Had a real, live candidate, backed by a determined and united dis-

WORK HAS BEGUN

The Duluth Ice Companies
Start Ice-Cutting Operations.

Have 15,000 Tons Left
Summer.

Both the Duluth and East End Ice companies start their winter's cutting operations this week on Spirit lake. The latter this morning had a crew of men begin the work of laying in the season's ice supply, while the Duluth concern will commence operations at the lake tomorrow. Together the two firms will employ from 125 to 150 men at the actual work of cutting, hauling and storing the commodity.

The cut this year will be smaller by one-third or more than it was last, because of the fact that the summer of 1904 was an unusually cold one, reducing the annual consumption of ice in Duluth by about one-third. The Duluth company has 800 tons of ice left over, which will be stored for use next year; and the East End company has 700 tons remaining from last winter's cut which will be held over for use next summer. The annual cut of the Duluth company ordinarily amounts to in the neighborhood of 2,000 tons for its own use, and the East End concern cuts winter stores about the same amount. In addition to this the two concerns cut about 20,000 tons for the packing houses, railroads, etc.

Last year conditions were very nearly ideal for cutting operations. The winter was the coldest in years, and the ice became thirty inches thick on Lake Superior, and remained unbroken for several weeks, affording an exceptional opportunity for laying in a big supply.

Companies were able to start cutting on the lake about the middle of January. Generally they were forced to wait until the middle of February, or later. As a rule, they expect the lake ice to become thick enough between Feb. 15 and 20, although it sometimes happens that it does not attain to that thickness at any time during the year, on account of its being frequently broken up by the wind. Generally ice cutting is done until the ice is twelve inches thick, but on different occasions in the past operations have been started when it measured three inches less in thickness. At present the ice is fourteen inches thick on Spirit lake, and four days on Lake Superior before the ice broke up, and then it was only frozen out as far as Tenth avenue east.

A GRIM TRAGEDY is daily entered, in thousands of homes, as death claims, in each one, another victim of Consumption or Pneumonia. But when Coughs and Colds are properly treated, the tragedy is averted. F. G. Dunlop, of Duluth, Ind., writes: "My wife had the consumption, and three doctors gave her up. Finally she took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and she is well and strong. One dose relieves. Guaranteed at 50c and $1.00 by all druggists. Trial bottle free."

MAKES STRONG STATEMENTS

Prof. C. A. Smith Comments on Ethics in Student Life.

Charles Alden Smith, principal of the Duluth high school, made some strong remarks at the state educational meeting at St. Paul last week in connection with ethics in athletics and the schools generally. The St. Paul Globe said of his talk:

"That high school pupils learn everything but honesty and that the high school athletes, ostensibly overflowing with manliness, are especially honey-combed with fraud, were assertions made yesterday by Professor C. A. Smith, of Duluth, before the high school section of the State Educational association, in a paper upon 'Ethics in Secondary Education.'"

"Although religion cannot be taught in the schools, Professor Smith said, it was certainly possible to inculcate truth, honor, obedience and other virtues. During the high school years this was even more important, for it was then that the children's characters were assuming their final form."

"Yet in high schools the ethical spirit is notably absent at the present time. This is particularly true as to athletes."

"You all know or have heard of this," continued Mr. Smith. "At the Michigan university football players are said to be under hire. At Chicago, Eckersall, who spent but two years in the high school and should be disqualified, is being played on the regular team. At Madison the Cardinal, the students' paper, charges that a number of the football players are receiving compensation from the state government. Charges of like character are made against our own university. All this is most demoralizing and has a terrible effect upon the student body."

"What is true of football is true, declared the speaker, of all other school contests. The spirit abroad is to win at all hazards, to employ all means, fair or foul, in both athletic and debating contests each side tries to secure every advantage in the selection of judges and fair play is forgotten."

"There is also a temptation to dishonesty in the fact that many of the high school organizations have too much money to handle. Individual pupils carry out plans for their personal advantage. In the case of one dramatic entertainment I know of 1,000 was secured from program advertising and was retained instead of being given to the class."

TOWER MAKES HIS NEW YEAR'S CALL ON EMPEROR.

Berlin, Jan. 2.—Ambassador Tower called at the palace yesterday to present his New Year's congratulations to the emperor and empress of Germany. "I desire," said Emperor William, "to send to the president and the people my wishes for a fortunate and a happy New Year. President Roosevelt is leading the American people to an advanced position of power and influence in the world. Germany looks upon the increasing greatness of the United States without concern, because Germany has nothing but friendly feelings toward the people of the United States."

The emperor alluded to the unveiling of the statue of Frederick the Great at Washington.

"Gen. Langewald has told me with what kindness he was treated. He is really overwhelmed by the warmth of his reception and the good will shown him by everyone he meets."

During the conversation, which continued some time, the emperor said: "I wish our universities and deliver courses of lectures each year, and for German professors to go to American universities and study their methods."

Mr. Tower replied that he felt confident the suggestion would be welcomed in America and he assured the emperor that he would be happy to assist in carrying it out.

TALKS TO MEN

Rev. John W. Powell
Gives Eloquent Address to Y. M. C. A.

Urges Need of Higher Ideals For New Year.

"It is a great thing at the end of a year to be able to say that we have kept our honor intact," said Rev. John W. Powell, of the Duluth Methodist church, in addressing the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon on "Facing the Future." His address was a New Year's talk to young men.

"It is so easy in these days of low ideals," he said, "to drag our honor in the dirt. We all admire strength. Most of us physical strength. And we all like to see a man who can stand against pressure. That is why the people all admire Roosevelt. He has the strength to do what he thinks is right."

"This is the day when we should take a new grip on our strength. To be strong means to do right against odds and fight to the last ditch in the defense of our honor. It means having a backbone. We never needed men of strength so much as we do today when so many of us are drifting. I have never lived in a city where social standards are lower than they are here in Duluth. I have said this before to my own congregation and I say it again now to you here. I do not know of any city where the temptation to drink is greater than it is in Duluth. We need men of strength in Duluth. We need men who have convictions and who will stand by those convictions."

"The idea of honoring strength is an old one. The ancients used to crown the man king who could draw the longest bow. But a new and higher ideal of strength is coming into the world. It is now coming to mean service. Our lives are to be used for the service of our fellow men. We should see that he has a fair chance and a square deal in the great battle of life. We should serve him politically. It is our shores and whose vote is sold for country. We should see that our fellow man has a rightness in his government."

"The man who believes every man his price is very apt to have a small one. We should believe in the world of moral law, just as we believe in the world of physical law. The modern man places his trolley on the wire believing in a power that he cannot see. Such a moral law is too high for us. If we believe in a world of moral law, just as the modern man does of the physical force."

"And we must believe not only in our ideals but in ourselves. The old idea that we are worms in the dust is gone. We are sons of God and have a right to stand on our feet and believe in ourselves. Nothing is too high for us. Young men as you face the future face it with Jesus Christ as your friend and master and you can do all things."

Following the regular afternoon meeting, the 6:15 lunch was held, at which Rev. M. S. Rice of the First Methodist church spoke on the subject, "Reasons Why We Should Take a Decided Stand for Jesus Christ."

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

Charles Schmidt, of Cedar Brook, Wis., while visiting the Sunday school at Duluth, was accidentally asphyxiated Sunday. After a night of meriment watching the old year out and the new year in, Schmidt retired in perfect health. Four hours later he was found dead.

For the first time in many years, according to Forester Cox, of the Chicago weather bureau, the weather in Duluth was enjoyed a New Year's day without the temperature at any point through the country falling below zero. The nearest approach to the elmer mark was at Duluth, where the thermometer showed above zero was reported.

Three little girls, Nancy Lanes, aged 10, Hazel Hollis, aged 10, and Myrtle Hollis, aged 14, were drowned near Normandy, a suburb of St. Louis Sunday. They ventured upon the ice of a small pond, and were hurriedly sliding when suddenly the ice broke and fatally plunged them. Their bodies were recovered late in the day.

Robert Warren, of Hammond, Ind., who threatened to commit suicide on the anniversary of the death of his father, Sunday, finally shot himself. Warren claimed that his wife, while on their wedding trip, was a victim of the disaster.

Thomas Morrissey is dead as the result of burns received Sunday at Boston, and Eleanor Morrissey, his wife, who threw a lighted lamp at her husband, is under arrest. The woman claims that she threw the lamp in an effort to defend herself from her husband's assaults. The lamp broke against the wall and the blazing oil splattered upon her husband.

James Cohen, a shipwreck at Victoria, B. C., died Sunday of hydrophobia, resulting from wolf bites. He was attacked by a same wolf while he was in charge of the Northwest mounted police and was bitten on his hands and arms.

The Michigan flyer, southbound on the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railway, Sunday night collided with a northbound freight engineer John D. Meyers, of Cincinnati, was killed and Engineer Chase Lingo, of Cincinnati, fatally injured. Many passengers received slight injuries.

San Francisco experienced a number of earthquakes Sunday. At 2:30 o'clock there were two slight shocks and at 2:50 o'clock a severe one which lasted for six seconds. At 3 o'clock and a few minutes before 5 o'clock last night, other shocks were felt. The plat glass in a few buildings was shattered. One of the small towers on the city hall was twisted.

The remaining two of the five Lake gun-mine boats built at the Newport News shipyards and apparently destined for Russia were Sunday loaded on the steamer Adria.

Harry C. Hopkins, president of the Harry C. Hopkins Printing company, of Chicago, was shot and killed by his wife Sunday night. The woman, who was a few minutes before 5 o'clock last night, other shocks were felt. The plat glass in a few buildings was shattered. One of the small towers on the city hall was twisted.

"The only white sale worth while."

MIRACLE IN DRESS GOODS SELLING.

Tuesday morning, January 3, 1905, we open the year with one of the greatest purchases and sales of fine imported dress goods fortune has ever enabled us to secure. One hundred pieces (6000 yards) of this season's best weaves, most popular fancies, and standard plain woolens, from Europe's leading looms and America's best importers. This is a purchase by our resident New York buyer—one of those magical cash snaps possible only to the largest stores with a patronage warranting big transactions.

59c The price at which we bought gives us one of those happy chances to do a good turn to hundreds of women who want good dress goods. You can actually buy two dresses for less than the price of one, or a single dress for less than half the honest regular price. The materials are plain colors and fancies, strictly all wool, selling from $1.19 to $1.50 a yard, and are all the very latest—just arrived and put on sale. Regardless of actual value we put one low price on the lot and let you have your choice, without limit and without reserve.

SALE ON MAIN FLOOR BARGAIN COUNTER, BEGINNING 8:30 TUESDAY MORNING

18 pieces — $1.25 values —
In excellent Scotch mixtures—all 46 inches wide, and including striking patterns never seen in Duluth before.

12 pieces — $1.19 values —
Fine Vigoroux and fancy mixed and hair suitings, 44 inches wide, all staple colors and good values at the price named.

15 pieces — $1.25 values —
Solid colored Panama cloth and nub mixtures—50 and 52 inches wide—$1.25 is the price at other stores for the equals of these.

13 pieces — $1.39 values —
51 inches wide, hairline stripes, navy and black mixtures, elegant tailor suitings, making up into the best of frocks.

10 pieces — $1.25 values —
44 inches wide—fancy and plain enamines in green, blue, champagne, lavender and cream—wide enough range for any sort of dress.

10 pieces — $1.50 values —
42 inches wide, fancy stripe crepe nub voiles—the best and newest shades of brown, tan, navy and marine blue—excellent values.

SILK REMNANTS

New Year's sale—thousands of yards.

Duluth's finest silk department begins the New Year Tuesday with a grand clearance sale, in which every short length and every odd piece left from our phenomenal fall and holiday silk business goes at one low price, regardless of value.

Remnants are from one yard to ten yards, embracing the entire range of dress, waist and lining silks, which sold for the past four months from 75c to $2.50 a yard, including:

Plain and changeable taffets,
Peau de Soies,
Peau de Levants,
Crepe de Chines,
Peau de Crepes,
All Silk Satins,
Fancy Plaids,
Fancy Pin Checks,
Brocades,
Gun Metal Effects,
Pretty Nubs.

for any remnant in the lot.

$1.19 values
$1.25 values
$1.39 values
$1.50 values

There's going to be a rush for these goods because they are the greatest values at which shrewd buyers will have a chance this season. We suggest that the earlier you get here Tuesday the better for you. The price will be—per yard

Your pick of any piece without limit and without reserve.

An example of the Half price fakes.

The coat was a very ordinary Tourist effect in a medium weight mixture. It was marked $25.00. She was told it was a $25.00 coat and she bought it for $12.50—"no exchanges and no money back allowed, and extra charges for alterations."

Actual comparison showed better values in our stock (not selling at "half price") for $9.98. Better materials, better make and worth more money.

We have warned the ladies against this sort of thing. If you are caught in the net of such dishonorable methods, it is your own fault.

BE SAFE: Your money back without question if you're not satisfied with any purchase made at the Glass Block, whether at regular sale or special sale.

A lady came to our suit department last Friday with her "half price bargain" she had bought at one of the Half price suit sales.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.
LYCEUM—Nankerville's Minstrels.
METROPOLITAN — "The Millionaire Tramp."

COMING ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Thursday, "Human Hearts."

LYCEUM—Saturday, "The Devil's Angel."

NANKERVILLE'S MINSTRELS.

This afternoon Nankerville's minstrels, until now the Haverly show, opened at the Lyceum and the two sat down for a long stay. This season's company, which numbers nearly fifty people, is composed of artists exclusively, all of whom are representatives of the highest class of modern minstrelsy. The famous Billy "the assassin of sorrow" is still the brightest particular star, and as usual will deliver a sensational and humorous story of recent times, while popular Jimmy Wall, the "Beau Brummel," and his peculiarly imported novelty, Supreme, will entertain the audience with a most amusing and profitable variety of songs and dances. The company is a well-known and popular one, and their performance is a most interesting and profitable one.

"THE MILLIONAIRE TRAMP."

Tramps the social outcasts, have figured more or less prominently in the drama ever since the days of Shakespeare. It remained for Elmer Walters to bring the play with the tramp star to the popular eye. It is now enjoyed by the millions of Americans to side with the under dog, and, of course, the tramp is ever "it." Mr. Walters was shrewd enough to see the point, and decided to launch a tramp play. It was such a tremendous success that he launched a second company, which fired equally well. Mr. Walters' play, "The Millionaire Tramp," opened at the Metropolitan this afternoon and will fill the first half of the week.

AT THE GUN CLUB.

Trap Shooters Take Advantage of Warm Weather.

The touch of banana-belt weather tempted the trap-shooters to indulge in their favorite pastime yesterday, and three interesting events were pulled off on the ranges of the Duluth Gun club. The following were the scores:

First event, 25 targets, 9 entries: Fulton and P. J. Storey, 23; F. E. Berry, 20; Holcomb, 18; Clark and Dr. Williams, each 12; Brown, 11; Hugo, 10; R. Schiller, 10; Brown, 10.

Second event, 25 targets, 9 entries: Fulton and P. J. Storey, 23; F. E. Berry, 20; Holcomb, 18; Clark and Dr. Williams, each 12; Brown, 11; Hugo, 10; R. Schiller, 10; Brown, 10.

Third event, 25 targets, 9 entries: Webb, 19; Holcomb, 18; Clark, 17; Bob Lowe, 15; Eschenbach, 12; Brown, 8.

Cleveland, Jan. 2.—Unhindered and unembarrassed by a crowd of the curious, the home-coming of Dr. Leroy S. Chadwick was in diametric contrast to the arrival of his wife three weeks ago. Both were under the charge of the law, but under widely different circumstances.

Dr. Chadwick rode as a man against whom the people have no claim; Mrs. Chadwick rode as prisoner guarded by federal officers. The early hour of the arrival made the fact that few people were about at that time, made the doctor's arrival home quite like that of an ordinary traveler. No one was at the station to meet him, with the exception of Attorney Kerruish. Even his stepson, Emil, failed to see him until 9 o'clock. Young Hoover had planned to board the train at the Euclid avenue station, but the train had come into that station and departed before Emil was aware of the fact.

Sheriff Barry, in whose company Dr. Chadwick was on the trip from New York, chose to come to Cleveland over the Pennsylvania road. The train arrived in Cleveland at 7:30 this morning. Scarcely any of the few at the station knew of the party, and the sheriff and Dr. Chadwick were quickly driven to the county jail, where Dr. Chadwick was registered as a man against whom the law has suspicion but the register was not made a part of the records at once.

A bond provided Saturday evening by Attorney Virgil P. Kline and Attorney Dawley was at the jail on the arrival of Dr. Chadwick and he was soon released.

After the preliminaries in the sheriff's office, Dr. Chadwick was escorted by Sheriff Barry to the room in the new ward, where his wife is held a prisoner. The meeting between the two was unceremonious. Mrs. Chadwick arose when she heard the steps in the corridor, and in a minute was in her husband's arms. Both broke down and wept convulsively for several minutes, while clinging to each other, the sheriff attempting meanwhile to console them. During that time all troubles that have been hanging over the family like a loadstone were lost in the joy of the meeting.

Riddle by little the first shock grew less severe and the two sat down for a while to rest for an hour and a half. There were pleadings and partial responses when the more serious predicament of husband and wife was at length appreciated.

Dr. Chadwick tried to put his all in the operations of his wife and the large independent fortune of his only child has been swept away.

Mrs. Chadwick tried to imbue him with the thought of her innocence of any wrong doing. His only response to these pleas was "I hope so."

The trouble into which both have been plunged was thoroughly discussed. The wife told the story, interspersed by violent weeping, of the other land fraud, all of which Dr. Chadwick joined. There were no apparent evasions, but there was a constant cry of "trust me" on the part of the woman.

"Don't believe these stories which the newspapers are printing about me," she said. "They are all lies; every one of them. I have done nothing wrong. For me, trust me; everything will come out all right in the end and it will be seen that I have been guilty of none of these things the public charges me with. Don't think I deceive you; I will tell you the facts and I want you that all these reports are lies—lies."

"I can only hope so," was the husband's answer. "I have not your mind. It is hard to believe anything; my mind is so confused. This has all been such a terrible shock and I don't understand any of it. I want to think of it. It don't say that I won't believe you, only give me time to collect my thoughts."

"Ever since I heard of this trouble in Paris, I have been bothered and my life has been followed and hunted until I can think of nothing else. I am not the judge. I can only hope that everything will come out all right as you say."

After an hour's conversation, conducted for the most part in a scarcely audible whisper, Sheriff Barry was asked by Mrs. Chadwick to send for her attorney, J. P. Dawley, who was waiting with Attorney Kerruish in the jail office. Mr. Dawley went to Mrs. Chadwick's cell and held a conference with her and Dr. Chadwick, the result of which was said to be the instructing of the two prisoners by Mr. Dawley of their future public appearance with them, both Mr. and Mrs. Chadwick were then taken to their cell.

When he was with them for an hour and a half, Dr. Chadwick rose to leave the jail, Mrs. Chadwick clung to her husband and for a moment he pleaded with him for his confidence. With tears in his eyes he told her she was his confidante until proof is produced to shatter it.

The doctor's confidence for a moment upon reaching the turkey's room. Emil Hoover had arrived at the jail while Dr. Chadwick was in the cell and he was awaiting his stepfather in the office. The man grasped both hands of the doctor and searched his face for a moment before either spoke.

"Emil,"

"Has your regard for Mrs. Chadwick changed since her?" began a questioner

Mrs. Chadwick tried to imbue him with the thought of her innocence of any wrong doing. His only response to these pleas was "I hope so."

office, Dr. Chadwick was escorted by Sheriff Barry to the room in the new ward, where his wife is held a prisoner. The meeting between the two was unceremonious. Mrs. Chadwick arose when she heard the steps in the corridor, and in a minute was in her husband's arms. Both broke down and wept convulsively for several minutes, while clinging to each other, the sheriff attempting meanwhile to console them. During that time all troubles that have been hanging over the family like a loadstone were lost in the joy of the meeting.

Riddle by little the first shock grew less severe and the two sat down for a while to rest for an hour and a half. There were pleadings and partial responses when the more serious predicament of husband and wife was at length appreciated.

Dr. Chadwick tried to put his all in the operations of his wife and the large independent fortune of his only child has been swept away.

Mrs. Chadwick tried to imbue him with the thought of her innocence of any wrong doing. His only response to these pleas was "I hope so."

The trouble into which both have been plunged was thoroughly discussed. The wife told the story, interspersed by violent weeping, of the other land fraud, all of which Dr. Chadwick joined. There were no apparent evasions, but there was a constant cry of "trust me" on the part of the woman.

"Don't believe these stories which the newspapers are printing about me," she said. "They are all lies; every one of them. I have done nothing wrong. For me, trust me; everything will come out all right in the end and it will be seen that I have been guilty of none of these things the public charges me with. Don't think I deceive you; I will tell you the facts and I want you that all these reports are lies—lies."

"I can only hope so," was the husband's answer. "I have not your mind. It is hard to believe anything; my mind is so confused. This has all been such a terrible shock and I don't understand any of it. I want to think of it. It don't say that I won't believe you, only give me time to collect my thoughts."

"Ever since I heard of this trouble in Paris, I have been bothered and my life has been followed and hunted until I can think of nothing else. I am not the judge. I can only hope that everything will come out all right as you say."

After an hour's conversation, conducted for the most part in a scarcely audible whisper, Sheriff Barry was asked by Mrs. Chadwick to send for her attorney, J. P. Dawley, who was waiting with Attorney Kerruish in the jail office. Mr. Dawley went to Mrs. Chadwick's cell and held a conference with her and Dr. Chadwick, the result of which was said to be the instructing of the two prisoners by Mr. Dawley of their future public appearance with them, both Mr. and Mrs. Chadwick were then taken to their cell.

When he was with them for an hour and a half, Dr. Chadwick rose to leave the jail, Mrs. Chadwick clung to her husband and for a moment he pleaded with him for his confidence. With tears in his eyes he told her she was his confidante until proof is produced to shatter it.

The doctor's confidence for a moment upon reaching the turkey's room. Emil Hoover had arrived at the jail while Dr. Chadwick was in the cell and he was awaiting his stepfather in the office. The man grasped both hands of the doctor and searched his face for a moment before

A Sale of Unusual Interest, Scope and Importance.

THIS January sale of all January sales should be the greatest in our history. Plans for it were thoroughly and systematically made long in advance of the event and so competently have the preparations been conducted that the values are better in many instances than those of our very successful sale of one year ago. The stocks greatly exceed any gathered for previous sales of white and are better, finer and more deserving of success than ever before. The tables in both aisles of the first floor have been filled with white sale features. On the second floor are the fine qualities of muslin underwear that every dainty woman takes a pride in having in her wardrobe. We have also secured very ample quantities of the popular priced underwear, and what's more, we offer it at what we believe are the lowest prices ever known in Duluth.

Bought especially for this great White Sale at the lowest price we have ever secured in all our muslin underwear experience and turned over on so fine a margin that it barely pays the freight. Every garment is neatly and substantially made and trimmed with fine tucks, torchon and valenciennes lace and insertion and daintily embroidered. Without reference to size, style or cost we offer the choice of corset covers, gowns, skirts and drawers at this one extraordinarily low price for all, far below the actual worth. Every woman may share in these wonderful values while they last. See the window display.

MOVEMENT OF GRAIN

Receipts In 1904 Almost Two Millions Larger Than In 1903.

Great Increases In Oats and Barley Offset Other Losses.

Receipts of all grains in the Duluth market during the year just closed were nearly 2,000,000 bushels larger than in 1903. This increase was made in spite of a loss of more than 2,500,000 in wheat and 3,000,000 in flax. The total receipts of oats ran 5,000,000 above those of 1903 and of barley about 2,000,000 more.

The receipts of all grains were almost 11,000,000 bushels more than the shipments. The result is that a large amount of grain remains in store in the Duluth and Superior elevators.

The figures for the year are as follows:

NEW LAW WANTED

County Board Would Give Feeding Contract to Sheriff.

Claim Plan Would Be
at Present.

The county commissioners are not satisfied with the prospect before them this year of acting as stewards for the county in the feeding of prisoners in the county jail. Ever since the commissioners have begun to realize the trouble and responsibility that was to be thrust upon them through the arrangement made by the law providing that the county should feed its prisoners at actual cost, they have been sidestepping from the proposition and now, that they are really about to assume their duty in that direction, they are anxious to have the law changed so that the sheriff may feed the prisoners and the county pay for it.

At the meeting of the board held last week the subject received considerable attention and was discussed pro and con by the commissioners. As a result of the deliberations Assistant County Attorney W. G. Crosby was asked by the commissioners to draft a bill to be presented to the state legislators this winter, which if passed, will provide for the feeding of the county prisoners by the sheriff at about 10 cents per head, per meal, or 30 cents a day per prisoner.

During the argument participated in by members of the board it was maintained by all the county would save money in turning the feeding of the prisoners over to the sheriff at about 10 cents per head, per meal. Sheriff-elect W. J. Bates, who also took part in the discussion, thought that 10 cents was a small enough sum to fix for a meal, but when pressed if he would consent to taking the job at 10 cents, he finally admitted that he would be willing to undertake it.

Under the law the county will begin this coming year to feed its own prisoners at actual cost. This means that the county must purchase a large quantity of provisions ahead, by contract, and hire a cook. The board has already, through the sheriff-elect, engaged its cook, but will not award the contracts for the food supplies until the meeting next Tuesday.

The contract which former Sheriff William Butchart had with the county to feed the prisoners will expire tomorrow and Mrs. Butchart, who had assumed her husband's contract at the time of his death, will be asked to turn over such supplies as she may have at hand in order that the prisoners may be fed until the contracts for supplies are awarded. The board has agreed to pay for such supplies as it may use from those which she turns over to it.

Since the commissioners have been figuring over the supplies that will be needed for the jail, they have found that they will be seriously handicapped for room, in fact there will be very little storage capacity for the large quantities of foodstuffs to be purchased.

A number of situations, delicate in nature, have also arisen to make possible trouble ahead. For if the county hires help for the jail kitchen it must provide a place for them to sleep and food different from that furnished the prisoners.

The board has already agreed to give Sheriff-elect Bates the use of the jail residence, except such room as may be needed for county employees, to use until such a time as it may be needed for other purposes, but the arrangement is bound to bring certain duties on the sheriff's family for which there is no compensation provided.

Then, too, there is the question of fuel for the range, in the jail kitchen, which is also the kitchen for the jail residence, and the question of supplies on hand, with the possible scandal in the future if some person should take the notion to accuse the sheriff of using for his own family the supplies the county has purchased.

Mr. Bates is very anxious, before he assumes the duties of his office, to get everything straightened out and working in the best interests of the county and for himself. He does not care to have any loopholes left whereby scandal can in any way be attached to his office. For that reason he is very much in accord with the idea of assuming the contract to feed the prisoners at a minimum amount, providing the legislature will pass a law permitting the county of St. Louis to feed its prisoners on that basis.

If this is done the commissioners, it is claimed, would be relieved of a great deal of trouble and annoyance, the sheriff would have his office removed from a possibility of scandal, and the county would be feeding its prisoners on a much more economical basis than it will under the system about to come into use.

Even as the prospects are, as compared with other counties, the officials have reason to feel greatly encouraged, as one of them expressed it the other day. This county officer said that at a recent investigating trip to Hennepin county disclosed the fact that the sheriff could not tell how much it was costing per head to feed the prisoners. None of his requisitions or bills for feeding prisoners were even verified or certified. This state of affairs is true, it was claimed there, because there was no law requiring the sheriff to make certain verified reports as that official has to do in this county.

Some of the St. Louis county commissioners figure it out that it must cost Hennepin county, under the present system, about 50 to 75 cents per day to feed its prisoners.

WOMEN'S OUTFITTERS

If you find, after making a purchase here, that you could have done better elsewhere—either in price or quality—come back and get your money!

AFTER ALL--THE PEOPLE ARE BEST ABLE TO JUDGE!

And our past week's busy selling to the most discriminating women in the city tells better than printers' ink of the values we are offering.

No trash—no job lots—no passe styles—left over from former seasons—Every garment we offer is absolutely new this season. Everybody knows that the Gidding garments have taken first place in the hearts of the best dressed women at the head of the lakes.

This sale of our entire stock of Tailored Suits at Half price is made at this time to clear our racks of present stocks—so that when our buyers are ready to go East they can get entirely new and fresh lines.

Big and Little Girls' Coats have Joined the Sale at a Third and a Half Off! (None Reserved)

This means that your choice is unrestricted and includes Reefer lengths, "Gretchens" and shoe top lengths—lined with a red or grey flannel, or unlined where the materials are extra heavy weight.

We also include in this sale our lines of the famous "Vassar" coats for girls--

The best and most fashionable girls' garments made in the country! In the plain colors or fancy mixtures—we have ranged them in two lines

One at a third off. Another at a half off.

$4.50 Coats at.....$3.00	$5.00 Coats at.....$2.50
$6.00 Coats at.....$4.00	$7.50 Coats at.....$3.75
$9.00 Coats at.....$6.00	$10.00 Coats at.....$5.00
$12.00 Coats at.....$9.00	$15.00 Coats at.....$7.50

We were first in the field, as usual, to offer such garment bargains—but, 'tis well to keep your eye on the stores that yell "fake" at everything not emanating from them—You know that old saying—"those that yell "thief" loudest usually bear the closest watching!"

Everybody knows that the Gidding advertising stands for everything that is truthful and honorable—just as its label stands for everything that is best—in wearables of every kind for women, misses, girls and children.

And we have built this wonderful garment business up in so short a time because the women of Duluth know this—just as well as they know that everything leaving this store is absolutely correct in style and absolutely faultless in quality!

The sale opens with renewed vigor tomorrow—and we have added to the sale, besides the most beautiful and fashionable high class Suits for women at Half Price, the MISSES' and CHILDREN'S COATS, SUITS and DRESSES AT ONE-HALF AND ONE-THIRD OFF!

Including the famous "Vassar" Coats for girls—the best and handsomest girls' coats made in this country—and for which we are sole agents in Duluth and the head of the lakes—the reductions of a third and a half being governed by the stock on hand.

TITLE IS READY

Judge Ensign Places Deed of Court House Site in Escrow.

County's Property When New Building Is Erected There.

Judge J. D. Ensign, who holds in trust the deed to the present site of the county courthouse, this morning fulfilled his promise to the commissioners by placing in the hands of President A. L. Ordean, of the First National bank of this city, a warranty deed of the property, running to the county of St. Louis and to be delivered over to the board of county commissioners when the county shall erect a new courthouse on the site of the old building.

Even before the suit was brought by the county to determine whether it should obtain an absolute deed to the old courthouse property by reason of having occupied the ground with a courthouse building for so many years past, Judge Ensign stated that he was willing to deed over the courthouse site just as soon as the county board determined that the new building should be erected there.

The title suit has not yet been carried through to a decision, although the court has taken the testimony and has been waiting for the attorneys to file their briefs.

There is a possibility, it is believed, that if the county should this afternoon decide definitely to build the new courthouse on the site of the old building, the commissioners will believe it necessary to prosecute the case any further, and that the turning over of the deed to the county, by Judge Ensign, will be sufficient for all purposes.

In such event it is the intention of the county board to have the title thus acquired thoroughly examined and steps will likely be taken to have the site registered in the county's name under the Torrens system of land registration.

Just what effect Judge Ensign's action will have on the deliberations of the board this afternoon cannot be definitely forecasted, but the talk of the commissioners thus far has been very much in favor of fixing upon the old site for the new courthouse.

Business men and taxpayers generally are expected to appear before the board this afternoon and argue the questions of sites and there are a number of those who predict that the county commissioners will not decide on a site at today's meeting.

RAIL REVIVAL IS PLANNED

Miss Gould to Launch "Tom" Keenan as Evangelist.

New York, Jan. 3.—Miss Helen Gould is sending a missionary to the unregenerate railroad men of the West. "Tom" Keenan is his name, and he left yesterday to preach in Illinois, Indiana and other Western states. This "Moody of the Rails" is an engineer 39 years old, and in his mission he will address his own people in their own tongue. Fifty years of his life were spent in the service of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad. Now he has given up the throttle for the Bible. Miss Gould has taken him under his protecting wing and all his time hereafter is to be given to touring the great railroad systems of the country to preach temperance and religion.

Once Keenan was one of their ardent of drinkers. He is absolutely without polish. He had little or no schooling, and has none of the graces of the orator, but the simplicity of his statements appeals more strongly to the men he addresses than the most fervid eloquence of pulpit orators.

It is because of the power the old engineer has among his fellow railroaders that Miss Gould has become so deeply interested in his work. Keenan returned only a few days ago from a trip over the Gould system of roads which she planned for him. She not only paid all the expenses of his trip, but saw to it herself that he received every facility along his route reaching the greatest number of men.

As a result of the two months' crusade that has just closed, Keenan added 400 men to his list of converts. As a secondary result, he has secured "Eileen Gould's Engineer Evangelist."

JURY NEARLY COMPLETED

Trial of Dr. Koch About to Open in Earnest.

St. Paul, Jan. 3.—A special to the Dispatch from New Ulm, Minn., says: The eleventh jury in the case of the state against Dr. G. R. Koch, charged with the murder of Dr. Gebhardt, was secured today. It is expected that the last jury will be secured this afternoon, in time for the state to present its case before court adjourns. Both sides have been progressing with great caution, making the proceedings rather tiresome.

RICHARDS WANTS

Would Recover $450 Damages From the Omaha Road.

Wants That Much Salvage For His Injured Feelings.

Claiming $450 for the injury done to his feelings in being ejected from a train at Superior, and for the delay caused by the act, Henry Richards has brought suit against the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha road in the municipal court. He also asks that the sum of $47.50, or the amount paid for the ticket he claims to have purchased, be refunded him, together with the costs of the court and his attorney's fees.

Mr. Richards claims to have purchased a ticket from Duluth to San Francisco on December 5. He boarded the train at Duluth and the conductor told him that he would have to pay $5 more. Mr. Richards says that he refused to pay the amount and that the conductor then put him off the train at Superior, refusing to allow him to ride until he had paid the additional sum. The plaintiff also states that the conductor kept the ticket. The matter was laid before the agent at Superior, and Mr. Richards claims that while the men were talking he reached over and secured the ticket again, but that the conductor refused to allow him to continue his journey to San Francisco. He alleges that the car was filled with people at the time and that he was subjected to no little shame and humiliation by the ejection.

In the answer, the company alleges that Mr. Richards had paid $5 too little for the ticket, through a mistake of a clerk in the local office of the company, and that the clerk had telephoned the conductor to collect the additional sum. It is claimed that Mr. Richards left the train voluntarily at Superior and was not ejected by the conductor. It is claimed that Mr. Richards had been informed by the clerk that the fare was $47.50 and knew that he had "short-changed" the company to the amount of $5. Baldwin, Baldwin & Dancer represent the plaintiff in the action and Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell and Pierce Butler the railroad. The case will be tried before a jury in Judge Windom's court on January 9.

Annual Church Meeting.

The adjourned annual meeting of the First Swedish Baptist church was held yesterday and the following members were elected to serve during the coming year: Church clerk, August Wilson; assistant clerk, Jacob Pulsten; treasurer, Nils Paulson; trustees, Oscar Lindvall, John F. Fredin, Carl J. Hagberg; Sunday school superintendent, A. Thorsen; assistant, C. J. Polin; secretary, Carl Hagberg; assistant, Samuel Gilbert; Synod treasurer, Leonard Laidstrom; organist, Mrs. Laidstrom; assistant organist, Olga Hagberg and Lydia Johnson.

TEXAS FLYER WRECKED; NO ONE WAS KILLED.

Sedalia, Mo., Jan. 3.—Missouri, Kansas & Texas passenger train No. 5, known as the Flyer, which left St. Louis last night for Galveston and San Antonio, was partially wrecked early today at a point a mile and a half north of Sedalia, Mo. The engine, baggage car, combination car and two coaches were turned over into a ditch. No one was killed. Five persons were more or less seriously injured. The injured were cared for by physicians sent on a relief train from here.

PATENT ISSUED.

Washington, Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.) A patent for a chain cable net wire stretcher has been issued to Matt Smith and J. G. Watterson, of Seaford, Minn.

Appointed Steward.

Charles Josten has been appointed steward of the Commercial club to succeed A. B. Butler, resigned. Mr. Josten has had considerable experience in this line of work, and particularly in commissary work in the National Guard, having been well known as a lieutenant in one of the local companies of the Third regiment, until his recent withdrawal from the service.

Max Mahler is the new chef at the club, and comes from the East, where he was identified with several large and well-known clubs. He succeeds Joseph Keiser.

ALICE IS VICTOR.

L. P. Totman's Horse Wins Out in Race.

The first regular ice-racing matinee of the season was pulled off yesterday afternoon on the bay at the foot of Twenty-fourth street, west of P. O. Totman, "Alice" came out the victor, winning the first two heats, the first in 1:16 and the second in 1:15. In each heat Capt. James Sullivan's "Capt. S." and John Miller's "Vixen" came in second and third. The prize offered the winner was a handsome robe, valued at $5. "Capt. S." cast a shoe in the second heat. Quite a large crowd was on hand to witness the event.

CANNOT SELL BIBLE ON TURKISH STREETS

Constantinople, Jan. 2.—The porte at length replied to the notes of the American legation and the embassy regarding the sales of Bibles and, notwithstanding previous assurances, the porte refuses to authorize street sales. The sales must be confined to shops or depots of the Bible societies.

THE FLOUR MILLS

Year Just Closed an Unsatisfactory One For Them.

Poor Export Demand Caused Large Decrease In Production.

The year 1904 was a very unsatisfactory one in the flour milling trade. The almost total lack of an export demand for flour caused a heavy falling off in production. The mills at the head of the lakes made during the entire year 85,720 barrels, against 1,178,995 barrels. The figures by months are as follows:

January	18,100	36,670
February	18,100	36,670
March	18,100	36,670
April	18,100	36,670
May	18,100	36,670
June	18,100	36,670
July	18,100	36,670
August	18,100	36,670
September	18,100	36,670
October	18,100	36,670
November	18,100	36,670
December	18,100	36,670

Total 85,720 barrels. The total shipments of flour during the year just closed aggregated $28,000 barrels, of which 70,300 barrels went to domestic consumers and 64,700 barrels to foreign ports. During the months of October, November and December not a barrel was shipped for export. In the same months of 1903 the export shipments amounted to 145,000 barrels. The total export shipments of 1904 were 33,115 barrels and domestic 80,535 barrels, a total of 1,138,550 barrels.

The domestic shipments it will be seen were but very much less than those of the previous year, the loss being largely in the shipments for export. The amount of flour handled by railroads through Duluth showed an enormous falling off. The figures for the two years are as follows:

April	18,100	36,670
May	18,100	36,670
June	18,100	36,670
July	18,100	36,670
August	18,100	36,670
September	18,100	36,670
October	18,100	36,670
November	18,100	36,670
December	18,100	36,670

FARIBAUT BANK CLOSES.

No Reason Given For the Sudden Suspension.

Washington, Jan. 3.—The First National bank of Faribault, Minn., has been closed and Bank Examiner Lyman D. Baird appointed receiver. The controller of the currency states that no reason is given for the closing of the bank.

The following is a statement of its resources and liabilities at the close of business on Dec. 10, 1904, the date of the last report made to the controller: Resources: Loans and discounts, $396,989; United States bonds to secure circulation, $50,000; bonds, securities, etc., $128,575; banking house and other real estate, $32,686; due from other banks and bankers, $59,965; cash and cash items, $37,886. Redemption funds, $2150. Total, $705,587.

Liabilities: Capital stock, $50,000; surplus and undivided profits, $33,311; circulating notes, $40,200; due to banks and bankers, $396; individual deposits, $352,579; bills payable, 20,000. Total, $705,597.

SLAPPED HER MOTHER.

Young Girl Is Sent Back to Red Wing.

The desire to "show her mother where she was at" caused Alice Gruel, a 17-year-old girl to be remanded to the state training school at Red Wing.

The girl, who lives at Seventh avenue east and Seventh street, was paroled from the school about eighteen months ago. She has showed a desire to attend dances and when rebuked by her mother, she slapped her parent in the face.

She was brought into court by the probation officer and her parole revoked. "Help refused is hindrance sought and found," as in the case of the man who imagines that he can rent his house just as well without advertising it in The Herald.

P. C. KNOX NAMED

And Will Be Elected Senator From Pennsylvania.

Governor Pennypackers Again Roasts Newspapers of State.

Harrisburg, Jan. 3.—The Pennsylvania legislature organized at noon today. After the organization and the formal nomination of candidates for United States senator and the reading of the governor's biennial message both bodies took a recess until Jan. 17. For United States senator, Philander C. Knox, of Pittsburg, the governor's appointee to succeed the late Senator Quay, was nominated by the Republicans and Senator James K. P. Hall, of Ridgeway, by the Democrats.

The Republicans have a majority of 204 on joint ballot, which insures Mr. Knox's election for the long and short terms on Jan. 17, when both bodies will vote separately for senator.

Governor Pennypacker recommends the imposition of a "slight tax upon each ton of coal mined, the proceeds to be used in the construction of roads or for the maintenance of schools."

Of the recent legislative act governing newspapers in the state, the governor says: "At the last session of the assembly an act was passed requiring newspapers to exercise reasonable care with respect to what they published, and further requiring them to print upon the editorial page the names of those responsible for the publication. The action has resulted in a marked improvement in the amenities of journalism in so far as the concern persons in private life. Further legislation is required for the protection of the commonwealth for the injury to her reputation and the disadvantage to her administration of her affairs which arise from the prevalent dissemination of scandalous inventions concerning her officials and their efforts in her behalf. It is not only to the unspeakable injury of a crime which the state ought to punish when day after day the mayor of one of her cities is depicted in connection with a monster compounded from illustrations of the most depraved and vicious characters of the underworld. The enforcement of the municipal law is impeded, and therefore, the state is prejudiced."

In the large cities what is popularly called "yellow journalism" is gaining a foothold. There is a daily newspaper of wide circulation, published in the city of Philadelphia, the city of Pennsylvania, which is a daily newspaper of the commonwealth. This corporation was chartered May 18, 1893, with an authorized capital stock of $25,000, of which the amount actually paid into the treasury of the corporation was $2500, or far as the records in the office of the secretary of the commonwealth show, this amount has never been increased. The corporation is a corporation of the commonwealth, and its incorporation it has paid to the commonwealth in taxes five dollars and seventy-three cents. Since its control of what had been a useful and venerable newspaper began, every mayor of Philadelphia, every governor, every United States senator, save one, who has only been in office four weeks, and every legislator of the commonwealth, has been subjected to a daily flood in its columns not of adverse comment, but of invective and abuse. All of the people are concerned alike that a deliberate policy of false report to secure ill-gotten gain should not succeed in the present time. The persons harmed or annoyed by the publication of such material, general setting forth the facts and in his judgment, they show a case of habitual falsehood, defamation and scandal so as to constitute a public nuisance let him file a bill in the court of common pleas having jurisdiction, asking for an abatement of the nuisance, and let the court have authority, upon sufficient proof, to make such abatement by suppression of the journal so offending, in whole or in part, as may be necessary. Since both the attorney general and the courts would have to concur, the rights of legitimate journalism are sufficiently protected and it is only in an extreme case that the law could be invoked. For that case, it provides a remedy. The governor submits a draft of an act upon these lines.

The Greatest Sale For Years.

That Duluth women appreciate the announcements of the Silberstein & Bondy Co. was exemplified this morning at that establishment by a throng of eager buyers. Although strong reinforcements were added to the selling force they, apparently, were unable to take care of the throng. While this was going on, the firm felt justly proud of the appreciation of Duluth's economical people. The sale continues tomorrow.

A MYSTERIOUS CRYPTOGRAM. The British admiralty has obtained the exclusive use of new apparatus which is to be employed in connection with wireless telegraphy. The invention comprises is not known, as it is a jealously-guarded secret. It is called a cryptogram, and is the invention of a Swiss mechanic. Its purpose is to prevent the interception of wireless messages except by a person or station provided with the same device. The apparatus is stated by the English naval authorities to be perfect in operation, since when one of these instruments were submitted by them to a series of exacting tests they proved so successful that the device was procured by their outfit.

"I don't believe this season's crop of corn has the staying qualities it might have, and it doesn't seem to satisfy stock like it might," says a subscriber to the Fulton Gazette. "I have an old sow on the farm that appeared to be hungry all the time and kept everlastingly squealing for something to eat, and while she got her rations regularly, her appetite for corn seemed to be hard to appease. One day I made up my mind I would stay her stomach, and getting the bushel basket, went to the crib and got her fifty ears of corn. She cleaned that up in a jiffy and was soon reaching the air with the same old squeal for more, so in about an hour I threw the old maul another fifty ears. In less than half an hour I heard her making melody again, and I told my wife that old sow should be filled if it took

BROKE RECORD FOR LOW TEMPERATURE

Year 1904 the Coldest In the History of Duluth.

Average Temperature For 366 Days Was Thirty-Six Degrees.

The year 1904, taken as a whole, was the coldest in the history of the local United States weather bureau, which was established in Duluth thirty-four years ago. According to data compiled today by Forecaster Richardson, the average temperature for the year was 36 degrees, or 3.3 degrees under the general average for the thirty-four years.

No very great change is shown in the normal temperatures from year to year, and they seldom vary more than a few degrees. The highest annual average was in 1875, with 44.4 degrees. The highest monthly average during the year just closed was 62.2 degrees, in July, and the lowest was one-tenth of a degree above in February, which, with one exception, was the coldest month on record in Duluth. The exception was in 1875, when, during February, the normal temperature for the month was three-tenths of a degree under this year's record.

Although it did not have the coldest month on record, 1904 broke another record besides being the coldest in thirty-four years by containing the coldest day in the history of the local weather bureau, January 24, with an average for the day of 28 degrees below zero, holds the record in this respect. At one time on Jan. 24 the mercury in the government thermometer stood at 27 below, the lowest in the 266 days, but it rose sufficiently during the day to raise the average to 28.

The highest temperature in 1904 was recorded on Aug. 14, with 85 degrees. During the entire year there were only six days when the maximum temperature was over 80 or more. On the other hand, there were fifty-one days when the mercury dropped below zero. The total precipitation was 24.4 inches, a departure in the under side from the 34-year average of 5.29 inches. The year 1873, with 45.25 inches holds the record for being the year of highest precipitation, and 1898, with 16.7 inches, holds the low record. During the greatest monthly precipitation in October, with 4.66 inches, and the least was in January, with two-tenths of an inch. The greatest rainfall in any 24 hours was 2.01 inches October 9 and 10.

Another interesting feature about the annual report concerns the number of consecutive days when rain, snow or sleet fell. The greatest number in 1904 was 14, from December 15 to 28, inclusive. Another long disagreeable spell was in October, with 13 days, extending from the 15th to the 28th. Eleven was the greatest number of consecutive days when no precipitation of any sort whatever was recorded. Two such spells are recorded, one extending from October 28 to November 1, and the other from April 24 to May 11.

A total of 104 clear days were recorded during the year, with 132 partly cloudy and 130 cloudy. Rain, sleet and snow fell on 126 days. The prevailing direction of the wind was from the northeast. The maximum velocity of sixty-five miles an hour was reached on December 28, and on the same day the wind held a velocity of more than thirty miles an hour for six consecutive hours.

CONSIDER FRAUDS

Serious Consultation at the White House Over Land Frauds.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Public land frauds constituted a topic of serious consideration at the White House today. The situation in Oregon and the development in the last day or two concerning the alleged frauds in Idaho both were discussed. Secretary Hitchcock was an early caller, remaining with the president, however, only a short time. While it is known that some phases of the land cases were discussed, the secretary did not care to say anything at this time for publication. Senator Fulton, of Oregon, also had a brief chat with the president about the Oregon cases. He is sincerely resentful of the action taken against his colleague, Senator Mitchell. "Senator Mitchell," said he, "is as innocent of any base or criminal connection with the land frauds in our state as any man in Oregon. Senator Mitchell has been identified with the great interests of our state for nearly a quarter of a century. He has worked hard, honestly and honorably to advance those interests. Today he is a poor man, living in a couple of little rooms here on a side street. I am quite positive that his innocence of the charges against him will be demonstrated satisfactorily to all the world."

Senator Heyburn, of Idaho, talked to the president about the bill he has prepared providing for the federal incorporation of companies and concerns doing an interstate business. He said also that he proposed to try to obtain consideration in the senate for the pure food bill if possible and would have it made the unfinished business of the senate.

As Senator Heyburn left the White House he was asked what he had said regarding the land fraud exposures in his own state.

"I always select my own battles," he replied. "Those who challenge me to combat would better be pretty careful what they do. The efforts made to connect me with the frauds have no basis whatever. A year ago, in the course of a speech concerning the Northern Pacific land grants, I called the senate's attention to the land frauds being committed in Idaho. I stood ready, then and I stand ready now to assist the officers of the government in ferreting out the criminals and securing their punishment."

"No," continued the senator, in response to further inquiry, "I never acted as attorney for any of the people who are alleged to be connected with the Idaho frauds. I am no friend of theirs and they are no friends of mine. We will get to the bottom of these frauds if I can bring about such a result."

ASKS MORE HELP

Probate Office Cannot Handle Work With Present Clerical Force.

County Commissioners to Approve Larger Appropriation Legislation.

The board of county commissioners spent the greater part of the morning session, today, in discussing and comparing the various bids for county printing and supplies. Up to this noon no action had been taken on the bids.

One of the matters presented to the attention of the commissioners was a request by Probate Judge Middlecott that the board endorse a memorial to the state legislature asking that authority be passed an act increasing the amount of clerk hire of the probate office. Judge Middlecott has a memorial, already largely signed by prominent local attorneys who transact business in his court which sets forth that the amount now allowed, $1000, is insufficient to permit of the work being done properly and asking for an additional clerk or compensation enough to permit of the hiring of such clerk.

It is a pretty well recognized fact among the attorneys and the county officers generally that the probate office has been greatly handicapped for some time past by lack of help and no satisfactory way of obviating the trouble has presented itself through legislation. The judge of probate has appealed to the board in times past for extra clerk hire and while the board has taken favorable action along that line, there has been more or less feeling about it, the commissioners being reluctant to take the matter of clerk hire under their responsibility. Since November the probate judge has been paying the extra clerk hire from his own pocket and he is anxious to get legislation soon that will afford him the relief sought.

The commissioners intimated that that this afternoon they would pass a resolution setting forth to the state legislature that there is a necessity of more clerk hire in the judge of probate's office. It is likely that an amendment will be suggested fixing the amount of clerk hire for the office at $2000 and leaving the appropriation among clerks to the judge of probate or the county board.

The Duluth Humane society, which was at the head of the anti-vice league, has been received asking for the organization of a town in 53-15. Petitions for a county road in 56-15 and 16 have been received and referred.

Judge Ensign has sent a communication to the board stating that he wishes to reiterate his interest in doing all that he can to further the matter of clerk hire under their responsibility. Since November the probate judge has been paying the extra clerk hire from his own pocket and he is anxious to get legislation soon that will afford him the relief sought.

The board has organized a new school district in 62-19.

A petition with twenty-six signers has been received asking for the organization of a town in 53-15. Petitions for a county road in 56-15 and 16 have been received and referred.

County Health Officer F. J. Patton has reported to the board only one smallpox case developed within the county during the year. The case is of the malignant type. The health officer is investigating its source and taking precautions to prevent a spread. During the year there has been two diphtheria epidemics in the unorganized towns with fourteen cases in all. Both of these epidemics fatally before the anti-toxin treatment could be available.

The county register of deeds reported his annual receipts for 1904 to have been $351.15 and the receipts of the register of titles for the same period were $561.25.

THE OLDEST MAN IN AMERICA

Escaped the Terrors of Many Winters By Using Pe-ru-na.

Mr. Isaac Brock, 116 Years Old Last Birthday.

ISAAC BROCK, a citizen of McLennan county, Texas, has lived for 116 years. For many years he resided at Bosque Falls, eighteen miles west of Waco, but now lives with his son-in-law at Valley Mills, Texas.

A short time ago, by request, Uncle Brock came to Waco and sat for his picture. In his hand he held a stick cut from the grave of Gen. Andrew Jackson, showing few signs of decrepitude. His family Bible will preserve the exact date that the date of his birth was written 116 years ago.

From this remarkable old gentleman, who has had 116 years' experience to draw from, would be interesting as well as profitable. A lengthy biographical sketch is given of this remarkable old man in the Waco Times-Herald, December 4, 1898. A still more pretentious biography will be the oldest living man, illustrated with a double column portrait, was given the readers of the Dallas Morning News, dated December 11, 1898, and also the Chicago Times-Herald of the same date. This gentleman is an ardent friend of Pe-ru-na, having used it many years.

Born before the United States was formed.

Veteran of four wars.

MAKES NEW RECORD

Only Fifteen Deaths From Contagious Diseases In 1904.

Mortuary Statistics Show Efficiency Of The Health Department.

The natural increase in the population of Duluth caused by the plurality of the number of births over the number of deaths, was 672, according to the figures of the health department. The total number of births for the year was 1445, while the number of deaths was 773.

The following table shows the number of births, male and female, for the different months of the year:

Month	Male	Female
January.....	105	95
February.....	100	90
March.....	110	100
April.....	120	110
May.....	130	120
June.....	140	130
July.....	150	140
August.....	160	150
September.....	170	160
October.....	180	170
November.....	190	180
December.....	200	190

Total..... 1445 773

In the above table no account is taken of the illegitimate children. The number of births in 1903 was 1345, or 100 less than last year.

The total number of deaths in 1903 was 754 or 19 less than last year.

The health department made an excellent record on contagious diseases during the past year. Only six deaths from diphtheria were reported during the entire twelve months, and but none from scarlet fever. There was not a single death from smallpox during the year, making the total number of deaths from so-called contagious diseases only fifteen.

In 1903 there were no less than 27 deaths from diphtheria alone, 12 from scarlet fever and none from smallpox, making a total of 39 deaths from the contagious diseases, or more than twice as many as occurred last year. The showing is believed to be a record for a city the size of Duluth.

The year was notable for the large number of accidents that occurred. No less than 61 persons met their deaths in some violent manner during the year. Sixteen were drowned, 2 were

In speaking of his good health and extreme old age, Mr. Brock says: "After a man has lived in the world as long as I have, he ought to have found out a great many things by experience. I think I have done so."

"One of the things I have found out to my entire satisfaction is the proper thing for ailments that are due directly to the effects of the climate. For 116 years I have withstood the changeable climate of the United States."

"I have always been a very healthy man, but, of course, subject to the affections which are due to sudden changes in the climate and temperature. During my long life I have known a great many remedies for coughs, colds and diarrhoea."

"As for Dr. Hartman's remedy, Pe-ru-na, I have found it to be the best, if not the only, reliable remedy for these affections. It has been my standby for many years, and I attribute my good health and extreme old age to this remedy."

"It exactly meets all my requirements. It protects me from the evil effects of sudden changes; it keeps me in good appetite; it gives me strength; it keeps my blood in good circulation. I have come to rely upon it almost entirely for the many little things for which I used medicine."

"When epidemics of the grippe first began to make their appearance in this country I was a sufferer from this disease. I had several long sieges with the grip. At first I did not know that Pe-ru-na was a remedy for this disease. When I heard that la grippe was epidemic catarrh, I tried Pe-ru-na for the grippe and found it to be just the thing."

In a letter dated January 31, 1898, Mr. Brock writes: "I am well and feeling as well as I have for years. The only thing that bothers me is my sight. If I could see better I could walk all over the farm, and it would do me good. I would not be without Pe-ru-na."

Yours truly,
Isaac Brock.

When old age comes, it brings with it catarrhal diseases. Systemic catarrh is almost universal in old people. This explains why Pe-ru-na has become so indispensable to old people. It can be used any length of time without acquiring a drug habit. Pe-ru-na does not produce temporary results. It is permanent in its effect. It has no bad effect upon the system, and gradually eliminates catarrh by removing the cause of catarrh. There are no medicines where Pe-ru-na has been used off and on for twenty years. Such a thing could not be possible if Pe-ru-na contained any drugs of a narcotic nature.

Pe-ru-na Contains No Narcotics.

One reason why Pe-ru-na has found permanent use in so many homes is that it contains no narcotics of any kind. Pe-ru-na is perfectly harmless. It can be used any length of time without acquiring a drug habit. Pe-ru-na does not produce temporary results. It is permanent in its effect. It has no bad effect upon the system, and gradually eliminates catarrh by removing the cause of catarrh. There are no medicines where Pe-ru-na has been used off and on for twenty years. Such a thing could not be possible if Pe-ru-na contained any drugs of a narcotic nature.

killed by gunshot wounds, 5 died of poison, and 1 was burned. The other 25 were killed by the railroad, logging, and other common causes of such fatalities.

The number of such accidents in 1903 was 57, or 4 less than in 1904. Only 6 persons committed suicide in the city during the year as compared with 11 in 1903.

Tuberculosis easily leads all other diseases for the number of deaths due to it. No less than 36 persons died from tuberculosis during the year, or a percentage of about 12½ of the total number.

The following table shows the number of deaths due to the various commoner diseases during 1903 and 1904:

Disease	1903	1904

Heart disease.....	29	24

Dr. Murray, the health commissioner, has not yet prepared his annual report, which will be submitted to the common council before the end of the month, in which he will make the recommendations of changes thought necessary for the coming year, but he is now at work upon it, and states that he will have it completed within a week or ten days.

FOUND DEAD IN BED.

St. Peter Man Is Killed By Heart Disease.

St. Peter, Minn., Jan. 4.—Frank Bolke, proprietor of the City hotel, died suddenly Monday. Since March he had been subject to attacks of heart trouble and about a month ago went East to receive treatment. The night of his death he retired with his wife as usual. When she awoke in the early hours of the morning something strange in his attitude attracted her attention, and she found she had been sleeping with a corpse. Mr. Bolke was 56 and the mother of 10. ROAST FOR COUNCIL

Chief Black Arraigns Aldermen In His Annual Report.

Claims He Gets the Blame For Their Negligence.

"Year after year your chief engineer makes recommendations which his experience has taught him are absolutely necessary, and which have invariably been concurred in by your honorable board, but each year these recommendations are turned down or given no attention by the common council. Then at a time when a calamity occurs, such as he has foretold, the average citizen places the blame on the chief engineer and the fire department and not on the authorities at fault."

Such was the statement made by Chief Black of the fire department, in his annual report, which was submitted to the council by the board of fire commissioners last evening.

The chief stated that he had urged for eight years that a fire tug be purchased for the protection of the water front property.

"Every year the value of this property is increasing while the protection remains the same," he said in his report. "There have been two heavy losses on the water front during the last year, the Omaha shed and the Park Point fire."

He also urged the employment of special operators for the telephones in the different fire halls, stating that the regular firemen have to take their turn at the telephone desk and that when an alarm is turned in they have to wait to inform the other firehalls the location of the fire and what apparatus has been sent.

The erection of a firehall on Fourth avenue east and Sixth street was also recommended, and the council urged to pass the proposed chimney fire ordinance.

The total number of alarms turned in was 275 and the total losses $177,186.45, an average loss of $643.32. The insurance was $1,085,592, the amount of insurance in excess of the loss being $908,405.55. The statement of losses does not include the Omaha warehouse.

Chief Black stated that he had requested a statement from the company several times but it had not been forthcoming, and he could not form an approximate estimate of the damage done.

1903 48,002.15
1904 116,127.09
1905 177,186.45

The total value of the horses and equipment on hand is estimated at $94,508.50.

Big Reductions on Our Entire Line of BUCK'S HEATING STOVES

Values Offered on Heating Stoves That it Will Pay You Well to Investigate!

This morning we placed on special sale our entire line of Buck's Heaters, Base Burners, Round Oaks, Hot Blasts, etc. The number is limited, as in most cases the sample on our floor is the only one remaining of its kind, so if you desire to take advantage of these splendid offerings come early. The heavy reductions mean fast selling.

The few remaining Heaters we do not wish to carry over until next fall, as the space they would occupy is needed for other purposes, so we would rather take this means of selling them than have them in the way.

Buck's famous stoves are known throughout the land as the very highest type of stove in the market. For economy in the use of fuel. For ease of operation. For fine appearance and durability they have no equal. Every stove sold by us goes with our personal guarantee as well as that of the Buck's Stove and Range Company, the largest makers of stoves in the country.

So be on hand early tomorrow morning and secure one of these splendid stoves at a phenomenally low price.

Buck's Base Burners

COUNTY WARD BADLY FROZEN

Peter York Runs Away From County Poor Farm.

Peter York, an inmate of the county poor house, ran away from that institution yesterday and walked to the office of Secretary A. P. Cook of the poor board. York was in terrible condition. His feet were frozen and his legs swollen to the knee. He was unable to talk and could only make moans and inarticulate sounds. A physician was summoned to care for him and York will be returned to the poor farm. The authorities claim that it is a difficult matter to keep him in the farm, that he runs away at every opportunity.

STRANGER THAN FICTION.

A Remedy Which Has Revolutionized the Treatment of Stomach Troubles.

The remedy is not heralded as a wonderful discovery nor yet a secret patent medicine, neither is it claimed to cure anything except dyspepsia, indigestion and stomach troubles with which nine out of ten suffer.

The remedy is in the form of pleasant tasting tablets or lozenges, containing vegetable and fruit essences, pure aseptic pepsin (government test), golden seal and dandelion. The tablets are sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Many interesting experiments to test the digestive power of Stuart's Tablets show that one grain of the active principle contained in them is sufficient to thoroughly digest 300 grains of rice, meat, eggs and other wholesome food.

Stuart's Tablets do not act upon the bowels like after dinner pills and cheap cathartics, which simply irritate and inflame the intestines without having any effect whatever in digesting food or curing indigestion.

If the stomach can be rested and assisted in the work of digestion it will very soon recover its normal vigor, as no organ is so much abused and overworked as the stomach.

This is the secret. If there is any secret of the remarkable success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, a remedy practically unknown a few years ago and now the most widely known of any treatment for stomach weakness.

This success has been secured entirely upon its merits as a digestive pure and simple because there can be no stomach trouble if the food is promptly digested.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets act entirely on the food eaten, digesting it completely, so that it can be assimilated into blood, nerve and tissue. They cure dyspepsia, water brash, sour stomach, gas and bloating after meals, because they furnish the digestive power which weak stomachs lack and unless that lack is supplied it is useless to attempt to cure by the use of "tonics," "bills" and cathartics, which have absolutely no digestive power.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can be found at all drug stores and the regular use of one or two of them after meals will demonstrate their merit better than any other argument.

CLAPP WON EASILY IN REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

gas Falls, was made secretary and Senator Torson teller.

Senator Laybourn, of Duluth, placed Senator Moses E. Clapp in nomination.

He said that four years ago the legislature elected Hon. Moses E. Clapp for the unexpired term of the late States senate.

During that four years Senator Clapp has served the people votes out of a total of 160 was a representative caucus, and it therefore gave him pleasure to second the nomination.

There were three of the Hennepin county delegation there. Representatives Armstrong, Sherman S. Smith and Lund. Mr. Lund cast the only vote for Clapp, and Sherman Smith cast his vote for Cyrus K. Northrup, president of the Minnesota state university.

He made a short talk, during which he went on record in favor of increasing the powers of the interstate commerce commission.

After thanking the caucus for its action, he said that he could only offer as his guarantee for the future his record of the past. Great problems confront the American people, involving transportation and the economic condition of the people. These problems are being worked out, and no one measure, scheme or plan will solve them. He said he was in perfect accord with the executive, and will work in harmony with the administration.

"The time has come," he said, "when the power that many supposed had been given to the interstate commerce commission, when it was created, should be actually given it. The commission should be able to decide when a rate or practice is wrong, to abate improper rates or practices, and to enforce proper ones. These should stand until revoked by the courts of justice."

"My record on this point will vindicate your choice when you return to your constituents in the spring."

"The administration is at work on the trust question, and I shall be glad to work with it. The man at the head of that administration, a man that is the incarnation of American purpose, is trying to solve these questions, and is trying to be right before he makes a move."

This concluded the business of the caucus, and it was adjourned.

The blanket resolution covering senate employees, introduced by the patronage syndicate and presented by Senator E. E. Smith of Minneapolis in the senate, included the following persons:

Second assistant secretary—G. B. Wollan.

Assistant enrolling clerk—M. L. Shell.

Representative Burdett Thayer, Senator Ward and Representative George W. Armstrong were appointed to notify Senator Clapp, and they shortly brought him in before the caucus.

There was a long and cheering reception. There was much applause and cheers and the members of the caucus rose to receive him. He made a short talk, during which he went on record in favor of increasing the powers of the interstate commerce commission.

After thanking the caucus for its action, he said that he could only offer as his guarantee for the future his record of the past. Allegiance—Representatives Fosseen, Hinton, Anderson, Lemmon, O'Laughlin.

Two Duluth senators got on the senate committee on rules, which is made up as follows: Senators Lord, Smith, Hawkins, Pugh, Shell, Horton, Brower, Schaller.

Those who favored the abolition of the grand jury are talking a bit about Judge W. L. Kelley, of the Ramsey county district court. In charging the grand jury the other day he took opportunity of making a speech against the abolition of the grand jury, and he gained it as his victim of the subject is some length. In view of the fact that the law does not appear to contemplate such utterances, and the further fact that it was manifestly intended to influence the action of the legislature, which will take the matter up at this session, there has been considerable comment to the effect that Judge Kelly went somewhat out of his way in making the charge he did. He also advised the grand jury to look into the report that Representative Haskell, of St. Paul, had been offered a bribe for making a statement against Senator Clapp. This charge is not criticized adversely, of course.

Ex-Governor Van Sant burst breezily into the lobby of the Merchants' hotel yesterday afternoon, making his first appearance on the scene. He exclaimed:

"You boys are not going into that caucus tonight and leave me out of it altogether, are you?"

Then he spread himself about the lobby, shaking hands with members and taking them apart for conferences.

When he was talking with Dr. J. A. Gates, of Kenyon, the original and only Van Sant man, somebody called the attention of the crowd to the governor "surrounded by his forces."

In the drawing yesterday afternoon the Duluth members were all fortunate, and all succeeded in getting good seats. The St. Louis and Lake county members are all within easy speaking distance with each other.

While the new capitol is a very beautiful building, and is a source of great pride to the citizens of the state as such, it seems that convenience has been sacrificed to beauty to an unusual extent, and many of the members would about as soon be back in the old state house for the session. There is one house cloakroom, and it is a matter of an hour or so before all the members can get their coats and hats and get away. The architects are not trying to arrange something better along this line.

The press accommodations, while cosy and pretty, are miserable so far as convenience is concerned. The house press gallery is located at one side of the chamber, and only a little more than half of the house is in sight from it. It is difficult to hear the debates, also, and reporting the session is going to be attended with unusual difficulties.

The senate press gallery is over the president's desk, and while there is a better view of the chamber than in the house, the acoustics are not much better, and there is about half enough room.

Nic. Jullar, a new member of the house from the Eleventh district, is a farmer near Mankato, and is one of the wealthiest agriculturists of the state. He is somewhat proud of the fact that he is an uncle of the Ringling Brothers, the circus men.

There has been a renewal of the talk of last session over the site of the old capitol, owing to the fact that the heirs of the original donor of the land to the state are to be asked to recover the land and the land was donated for capitol business and that now that it is to be no longer used for that purpose it should revert to the estate.

Capt. Ray T. Lewis, of Duluth, was chairman of the house committee on public buildings last session, and at that time he took occasion to look the matter up carefully. He found that the original proposition was to build the state it, and that the state refused to accept the ground on that basis. Then an absolute deed was given to Capt. Lewis got an abstract of the property made up and presented it to W. B. Douglas, then attorney general. He gave it as his opinion that there was no doubt about the state's having absolute title to the land.

UNDERMUSLINS--Ladies', misses', children's

Preparations have been going on for months to bring this January sale of dainty lingerie to a state as near perfection as is humanly possible. Deals with makers for the control of superior lines—deals for the elimination of sweat-shop products, ensuring sanitary goods by decently-paid operatives—direct supervision of all our orders placed months ago—combine to bring to you, through the medium of this Glass Block white sale, the largest, most complete and most worthy assortment of muslin wear we've yet shown.

We control absolutely three of the best and most favorably known makes of muslin underwear—

The "Home Made," nearest approach to French convent, hand-made goods. The "Plum Brand" and the "Galland Brothers" brand. These, with the other lines in the collection insure the best in the world for Glass Block customers.

The sale opens Thursday, January 5th, and continues through the month.

POSITIONS VACANT

A Dozen Appointments to Be Made to City Departments.

Civil Service Examination
uary 24.

Good positions await a dozen young men on the Duluth fire and police departments. The board of civil service commissioners has named January 24, as the date of the next civil service examination for positions in the city service. Applications can be filed with the secretary at any time before January 18. Up to the present time the number of applicants has been very small and not sufficient to fill the vacancies already existing.

The fire department has vacancies for five or six regular and five or six substitutes. The eligible list has been only partially exhausted and there is little doubt but that all who succeed in passing the examination will be able to secure positions within a very short time, unless the number of applicants is much larger than is now expected.

On the police department there are no vacancies at present, but the eligible list is very small and five new officers are to be appointed in the spring. When the addition to the force is made by the conference committee will go into effect.

John Bodahl, one of the men on the eligible list, was appointed to the force yesterday afternoon, to take the place of the officers who were discharged for becoming intoxicated while on duty.

The examination which the men are called upon to pass is a very simple one and at that is necessary to take a high standing in a common school education in the fundamental branches and a fair knowledge of the city.

The policemen are appointed by the mayor and the firemen by the board of fire commissioners. The only requirement prescribed by the charter is that the police officers shall be citizens of the United States and able to read and write the English language.

West Duluth

At the regular meeting of the West Duluth W. C. T. U. to be held tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. R. Keyes, 708 North Fifty-seventh avenue west, arrangements will be made for the purchase of a lot to be used for junior Y. M. C. A. purposes. It is proposed to have a branch of the boys' department of the association established in West Duluth.

Securing the lot will be the first step in this direction. The selection of a suitable building on it will come later. The women interested feel that even though the necessary money for the structure is not yet in sight, it will be best to get hold of a lot now and get it paid for, leaving the remainder of the plans to be worked out at a future time. It is desired by the officers of the W. C. T. U. that the attendance at tomorrow's meeting be a large one. A Mother's Opportunity will be the subject of the meeting.

OFFICERS INSTALLED.

Program In Connection With A. O. H. Business Meeting.

Division No. 4, Ancient Order of Hibernians, held an installation of officers at Gillis's hall last night. There was to have been a joint installation with the Daughters of Erin, but owing to the fact that Mrs. Mary Sullivan, county president of the order, was unable to be present to officiate at the women's installation, these ceremonies were postponed. The latter lodge was fully represented, however, and assisted in the evening's program.

P. McCabe, county president of the Hibernians, acted as installing officer, and delivered an address to the members of the order. Rev. Father Pashley also delivered an interesting address. Following the main business of the meeting came a musical and literary program, which began with a recitation by Miss Edith Brochertson. This was followed by Miss Bessie Collins, who possesses a charming voice. The next number was a recitation by Harry Hayden, a reading by Mrs. Dr. Burd and a piano selection by Miss Mollie Doyle. John Murphy closed the program with a song and dance solo. Lunch was served by the Daughters of Erin. Dancing was also indulged in.

Installed as follows: John Cahill, president; J. P. Hannell, vice president; James Connelly, financial and insurance secretary; John L. Low, recording secretary; M. E. Goffrey, treasurer; Thomas Callahan, sergeant-at-arms; Michael Burns, sentinel; Patrick Kennedy, marshal.

BANK IN GOOD CONDITION.

personally represented. Brief talks were made by President James Cochran, Cashier J. A. Scott, H. H. Phelps, L. S. Neuman and L. A. Barnes, all of whom expressed their gratification at the excellent showing made by the institution since its establishment.

The board of directors was re-elected as follows: James Cochran, L. A. Barnes, H. H. Phelps, J. A. Scott, Dr. D. Graham, E. H. Wade, Otto Ekland, S. Hendrickson, A. J. Meidahl, S. J. Nygren, Victor Method, Louis Rastad, E. A. Wibber, A. H. Donald, O. S. Olson, M. M. Clark, C. F. W. Korth. The regular meeting of the board will be held next Tuesday, when officers for the year will be elected.

SURPRISE PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Mosse were given a surprise party at their home on Fifty-seventh avenue west by a number of friends, Saturday evening, the occasion being the twelfth anniversary of their wedding. They were presented with a handsome oil painting, Mrs. Jacobs painting the presentation speech. The evening was spent in playing cards and a dainty luncheon was served. Mrs. Kurtz and Mrs. Flaherty assisted the hostess and Mrs. Deatherage and Mrs. Hayden presided at the punch bowl. As the New Year was dawning, Mrs. Baker and Mr. Mosse carried out the usual French custom of salutation.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

For low rates to Cuba on Jan. 7, apply to J. J. Frey.

Miss Annie Wilson, of New Duluth, died at 9:30 o'clock last evening. James S. McDonald is ill.

Miss Maud Pember, Mason and Frank Pierce Winkles were married at 7 o'clock last evening at the Episcopal parsonage, Lake avenue, Rev. A. W. Ryan officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Winkles will reside in West Duluth.

Irving Grann's is expected to return to West Duluth tonight from Menominee, Wis., where he has been visiting with relatives for the past two weeks.

Skating tonight and Friday at West-end rink, Fifty-seventh avenue west. Music by Flaherty's band.

F. D. Prescott is visiting relatives in Northern Michigan.

Dr. G. E. Radd, dentist, 302 Central avenue, West Duluth.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph La Salle have returned to Cleve after spending the holidays with friends in West Duluth. The Commercial club will hold a smoker Friday night. It is expected there will be a large attendance.

Directors of the Western Curling club will hold a business meeting this evening. Up to the present time the skating rink has been well patronized on the days it has been open to the public, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays of each week.

Fine hardware at Ketchum's.

The West Duluth branch of the Knights of Pythias lodge will hold an installation of officers tomorrow night. The West Duluth Odd Fellow and Rebekah lodges held a joint installation of officers last night in Schell & Wade's hall. Following the business meeting there was a social session, with refreshments and dancing.

Members of Uniform rank, M. W. A., are planning for a grand fancy dress carnival, to be held at the Western curling rink in the near future. The date for the event has not yet been set.

W. B. Hartley, of 827 North Fifty-sixth avenue west, has returned from a five-months' trip through Texas, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado and Iowa in the interests of the Knights of the Modern Maccabees.

Musical.

If someone has made you a present of a musical instrument you will be looking for a competent teacher. We recommend the Bradbury School of Music.

NO PRESENTMENT.

Clergy Think Case Against Talbot Will Fail.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Jan. 4.—After spending the night as the guest of Rev. Dr. Jones, pastor of St. Stephen's Episcopal church, this city, Bishop Talbot left for his home in Bethlehem today. Regarding the conference held in this city late yesterday afternoon the only thing the bishop would say was that he had been advised by his attorneys to make no statement. Dr. Jones said he thought there would be no presentment made against Bishop Talbot and that the case would fail.

PROPOSED LAW

Would Abolish the Panama Canal Commission.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Representative Mann (Ill.), a member of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce, today introduced a bill abolishing the Panama canal commission and providing that the powers now vested in the president be extended until the end of the Fifty-ninth congress. The president is authorized to employ such persons with such official designation as he may deem necessary until such time as congress may otherwise direct, and is authorized to fix the compensation until regulated by congress.

In effect, the bill permits the president to perform, through persons he may designate, the duties now performed by the canal commission.

To Transfer Boats.

The steamer Victory and the barge Constitution, now frozen solidly in the ice of the Duluth harbor, are to be transferred to the Superior dry dock and shipped by the tugboat and Superior. The tugboat will be broken up and the barge will be sent to the Superior shipyard. Men are engaged in sawing the larger boats out of the ice. The Superior was slightly damaged yesterday while breaking ice and it was necessary for her to undergo certain repairs before she could resume her duties. The Victory will go into dry dock to be lengthened, it is understood.

RIVERS AND HARBORS. Committee Now Deciding on the Appropriations.

Washington, Jan. 4.—The house committee on rivers and harbors met yesterday and took up the question of appropriations for various improvements proposed by states.

It is settled that the committee will recommend that the channel for the Ohio river, and a survey will be ordered. This encourages the advocates of a deep water channel for the Mississippi.

Representative Bode, of the committee, said: "I think that we have Minnesota made well in the Congressmen. Lind and Stevens were before the committee relative to an additional amount for completing the locks and dams on the Twin Cities, and if there is a bill, that item will be taken care of. The amount of money for keeping up the levees in Iowa county, and for improving the Duluth and Minnesota rivers, will be included."

REMPF TAKES OFFICE.
Madison, Wis., Jan. 4.—John J. Kempf, who was deposited from the state treasurer's office, 3, on account of a shortage in the accounts of that office, but re-elected in November, took possession again this morning. A bond of $200,000, demanded by Governor La Follette, was furnished by Mr. Kempf.

JOHNSON IS GIVEN A WARM RECEPTION

message, a discursive and ponderous document of sixty-one typewritten pages. Governor Johnson had a handsome reception from the members of the legislature, and the applause given him was much more hearty and spontaneous than that accorded the retiring governor. Governor Johnson's message was generally commented upon as being one of the ablest documents of the kind heard in this state in many years. It was straightforward, to the point, full of telling points admirably and forcibly expressed, and it added not a little to the esteem in which he is held.

The joint session was to have been held at 10:30, but it was 10:50 before the senate arrived and seated itself. A few minutes later the joint committee of notification arrived, accompanied by the two governors, Lieutenant Governor Jones and Chief Justice Start. The party was announced by Representative Hugo, of Duluth, on behalf of the committee. Speaker Clague, who presided over the joint convention, introduced ex-Governor Van Sant, who read his message in full. Among the points he covered were: Tax law reform, work of the board of control of state institutions, separation of educational institutions from the supervision of the state, purchase of site for new prison, tribute to Public Examiner S. T. Johnson, memorial for Quarles-Cooper bill, recommended extension of primary election law to state officers and United States senator. He also spoke of the accomplishments of the anti-merger fight and advised further legislation along this line.

There were a couple of amusing incidents during the reading of the message. The ex-governor had been reading but a short time when some started ringing one of the telephones on the clerk's desk, loudly and continuously. The receivers were taken down, but this did not stop the noise. Then a clerk disconnected the phone that had been ringing, and the other one started up. This also had to be disconnected, after which there was quiet. When Governor Van Sant reached the subtitle, "The Merger," he took a fresh hold and braced up his shoulders with a funny little air of tackling something choice. This raised a laugh.

The legislature stood while Governor Johnson was sworn in, and applauded him heartily when the oath had been taken. An immense picture of the new governor, framed in flowers, was brought in at this point, a present to the governor from admiring Democrats. Governor Johnson was again loudly applauded when he started reading his message, and again at its close. After the joint convention had arisen, at 12:05, the members filed forward and cordially shook the hand of the new governor. The old one saw what was going on and dashed to the front, placing himself so they had to shake hands with him first.

The separate sessions of the two houses were purely formal, the principal business being the passage, by both houses, under suspension of the rules, of Senate File No. 1, by Senator Brower, appropriating $150,000 for the expense of the session.

The commission to revise the statutes reported that it would have the new code ready for the legislature Jan. 30. The senate fixed Jan. 10 for a memorial session for the late Senator A. F. Ferris, of Brainerd, by a resolution introduced by Senator Laybourn, of Duluth.

In the house, Representative Johnson of Hennepin county offered a resolution changing the sergeant-at-arms and the clerk to custodian to arrange better cloak room facilities. Both houses adjourned to tomorrow morning.

MEETING CALLED.

L. Mendenhall Will Attend Immigration Society Meeting.

The meeting of the Minnesota Immigration society has been called to meet at Minneapolis on Jan. 12. L. Mendenhall, of Duluth, vice president of the society and a member of the executive committee, will attend the meeting as a delegate from St. Louis county. The gathering, it is believed, may result in the organization of a state board of immigration and the appropriation of money to enable the society to carry on its work, by the legislature. Members of the society in every county in the state have been invited to attend the meeting, and it is expected that he attendance will be large.

NEW YORK IS AGAIN IN THE GRASP OF A SEVERE STORM

New York, Jan. 4.—New York city and all the surrounding country today was in the grasp of the most severe storm of the winter. Traffic of all kinds was hampered, trolley lines were tied up and the streets, swept by a gale driving before it fine snow that cut like sand and piled in great drifts, were practically impassable. Railroad trains from all points were delayed from a few minutes to three hours and the elevated lines were operated with the greatest difficulty without regard to schedule.

At sea the conditions must have been beyond description, but up to an early hour today no disaster had been reported. What may have happened off shore to any luckless craft which had to face the fury of the gale only time can tell.

Beginning with a cold, cheerless drizzle, accompanied by a piercing wind yesterday, after several days of almost spring-like weather, the storm quickly assumed serious dimensions, and before night half a blizzard was in progress.

Because of the severity of the storm, policemen were sent out during the early morning hours to rescue persons who had fallen in the snow. The doors of every station house were thrown open to the homeless and unfortunate. The city lodging houses were crowded from cellar to roof by men, women and children, and not an applicant was turned away from Bellevue hospital.

Although thousands of homeless unfortunate were given shelter by the various charitable organizations last night, more than a score of men, overcome by cold, were found lying about the streets early today. All of these probably will recover under treatment.

The bodies of four victims of exposure in last night's storm were found today at various places in the streets. A guard of the Brooklyn elevated railroad, found on a station platform after being on duty all night.

Boston, Jan. 4.—The snow storm which began yesterday developed into a blizzard during the night. About six inches of snow had fallen in the city early today and it was still snowing hard. Traffic was considerably impeded both on the railroads and electric car lines. A storm of blizzard proportions prevails in Maine today, accompanied by bitter cold.

SAYS VERY LITTLE

New Bridge Bill Very Indefinite as to Location.

Leaves Little or Nothing For Interests to Criticise.

The hearing which was held before Major Charles L. Potter, yesterday and today, in the matter of a proposed bridge across the St. Louis river near Grassy Point, by the Zenith Transcontinental company, has developed the fact that there is practically nothing to hear. The bill under which the bridge is proposed to be built is said to be so indefinite that there is nothing presented in it for either favorable or unfavorable criticism.

Major Potter says that the interest of the government engineer's office is chiefly concerned for the navigation interests, whether or not the proposed bridge will in any way interfere with navigation.

The only person who has appeared at the hearings in the interest of navigation is Captain Alexander McDougall. He stated that from a reading of the bill there was such an indication to the effect that there was nothing to be heard from him to criticize.

The bill for the bridge does not state the exact location of the structure, except that it will be erected from point near Grassy Point to the Wisconsin shore opposite. The government engineers claim that between the upper and lower limits of Grassy Point there is two miles of channel which might be crossed at any place under the terms of the bill. The bill does not give any information as to whether one or two draws is contemplated, or what material it will be constructed of, or who the interests are that are behind the project.

This morning some eight or ten Superior citizens appeared before Maj. Potter, but their discussion of the bill was so indefinite that the proposed bridge would have provided for a wagon road and a track system in Superior. These topics were entirely without the jurisdiction of the government engineer.

That the navigation interests of Superior should be interested in the fact that if the Wisconsin side of the river is ever built up above the proposed bridge with docks, a channel would be necessary near the Wisconsin shore, also a draw. Along the Grassy Point addition there is practically a distance of 200 feet between the harbor lines of the two cities.

Maj. Potter says that the engineer's office will, in any event, protect the navigation interests to the extent of its jurisdiction. For the reason that any bridge plans that may be submitted to this office for examination and approval, if it is found the plans will interfere with navigation, the local engineer could disapprove of it or recommend changes.

CITY BRIEFS

The steamer Madeline Bradshaw of the White Line Transportation company will leave Duluth on her last north shore trip of the winter, Friday, January 5. The steamer Moore, a South boat, will start tomorrow on her last trip of the season. Lack of patronage is the reason given for putting the boats in winter quarters.

The funeral of Duncan McLennan, who died Sunday, was held yesterday afternoon from his former residence, 250 West First street. Interment was at Forest Hill cemetery.

The eighth ward Democrats will hold a meeting tomorrow evening in the office of W. B. Getchell, on Central avenue.

Le A. Barnes, trustee in bankruptcy of the estate of James Smith and James E. Smith, has filed notice in district court that he has delegated all the powers of attorney to H. H. Phelps, who will handle the estate.

It is expected to get the drydock in shape today for the Victory, and the boat will be towed over if the berth can be cleared. The Victory is to be lengthened.

What was believed to be the dead body of a man was carried into the store of Fred. Stoenberg, a corner by east and Second streets, yesterday afternoon. The man was found on the sidewalk, and was believed to have been overcome by cold and exhaustion. As soon as he was carried into the store he revived, and after about fifteen or twenty minutes he left without giving his name.

The body of Milton Boyd was shipped to his home in Scotland, Penn., for burial.

George Gillen, a woodman, was brought in this morning from the north shore, on the Iron Range road, suffering from a broken leg. He was taken to St. Mary's hospital.

Mrs. J. J. Fitzgerald, of 115 Mesaba avenue, has returned from Michigan, where she went with the remains of her sister, Mrs. C. E. Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Schmidt, of Augusta, Minn., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Jacoby.

Court Officer Patrick Tully was suddenly called to San Francisco this morning by the serious illness of his little daughter, who is suffering from typhoid fever.

George R. Slocum, a St. Paul railroad man, registered on the depot ticket office register today.

F. D. Lyon, of the Rock Island road, is here from the Twin Cities.

C. O. Dupont, of Port Huron, traffic manager of the Port Huron & Duluth Steamship Co., and V. J. Lawrence, of Buffalo, manager of the National Dispatch Great Eastern line, were here today and called on Harry Huron, representative of the Northern Navigation company.

Arthur Levey and family have left for North Yakima, Wash.

William McCauley has gone to New Orleans.

Miss Mary E. Jamieson has gone to St. Paul.

O. H. Simonds leaves this evening for Columbus.

Frank Hayes, the Pike Lake hotel man, leaves tonight for West Baden, Ind.

LEGISLATURE WAITING ON THE COMMISSION TO REVISE THE STATUTES

State Solons May Adjourn Until the Report Is Finished.

All Outsiders Shut Off the Floor of the House.

Both Branches Hold Short Sessions and Adjourn to Monday.

FROM THE HERALD ST. PAUL BUREAU.

St. Paul, Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The session of the legislature this morning was mostly of a routine character, the only matter that excited any interest being the action of the house on its new set of rules. The senate's session was very brief, but the house was in session nearly two hours. Both houses adjourned until Monday evening, at 8 o'clock.

The house committee on rules made its report this morning, and while several features occasioned debate, it went through without change. The new rule governing the admission of outsiders to the floor of the house caused the most debate. It is very strict, and does not even permit the speaker to entertain a motion to suspend it. Nobody can get on the floor except members and certain public officials. Admission of friends of members on cards from the speaker will go no longer. Representative Armstrong of Hennepin county objected to this rule as ridiculous. He said they could not even entertain a motion to suspend it. Others said it would be a simple matter to have a recess to receive visitors of such a nature, and the rule was adopted.

Representative Becker of Zimmerman, chairman of the rules committee, said the idea was to forever bar lobbyists from the floor. Representative Armstrong moved to shut out ex-members of the legislature, on the ground that many of them were lobbyists. He said they should not have privileges not accorded to the president. The rule carried by a vote of 15 to 4.

Representative Cole of Cass county wanted to amend the rule so as to admit visitors of distinction from without the state, but his motion was laid on the table.

Representative Flower of Ramsey county moved to amend the rule so as to admit reporters of the press of the state to the floor and the motion was seconded by Representative W. E. Nolan, of Hennepin. There was some debate during which Mr. O'Laughlin, of Wabasha, Mr. Mannix, of Hennepin, and others, spoke in favor of the amendment, and Representatives Doherty, of McLeod, and Roberts, of Hennepin, spoke against it. The amendment was lost and the press will therefore have to stay in its gallery.

Changed conditions in the new capital made necessary changes in the list of house employees. The net result was an increase of one employee. Several doorkeepers and gallery keepers had to be added. A number of the committee were charged.

Speaker Clarke announced the appointment of a clerk of the house. St. Paul, a well known newspaper man, as speaker's clerk.

In the senate two bills were introduced, one a local bill and the other, by Senator McGill, appropriating $40,000 to build a monument to the Minnesota dead buried in Vicksburg cemetery.

Senator Wilson introduced a resolution, which was passed, to have a committee appointed to see about the report of the committee to revise the statutes. The idea is that, if it is to be much delayed, the legislature may adjourn until it is ready. Senators Wilson, Hutton and Thompson were appointed on the committee.

Senator Wilson introduced a resolution to admit the newspaper press to the senate floor, and it went over to Monday evening on a notice of debate in the senate.

Senator Clapp addressed both houses briefly.

STILLMAN H. BINGHAM.

NO ACTUAL BUSINESS Will Be Done For Probably a Week.

St. Paul, Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The legislature will not get down to actual business for probably a week.

Whether it gets down to real business or not depends upon the revision of the report of the commission of the revision of the statutes to the new laws to be enacted by the 1905 legislature.

The report of the commission is not expected now, according to the official advice of the commission to the legislature, before Jan. 20, and it will probably take a month to carefully consider the code reported by the commission, and pass it. If bills should be introduced and passed before the code is adopted, the code would probably nullify them and make the work of their authors and the legislature useless.

The report of the commission was expected before the opening of the session, so the legislature could adopt the new code and then pass all new legislation upon it. Of course it has been a difficult thing to revise the statutes, as this has not been done since 1894. Every legislature since then has added a lot of new laws and amendments of old ones, so that the statutes as they were presented to the commission were a mass of unorganized and

WOMEN'S FEDERATION CONSIDERS EDUCATION

Will Be Foremost Work of the General Association.

President Decker Appoints Chairman of Educational Committee.

Denver, Jan. 5.—Announcement of the appointment of Miss Mary Abbott, of Watertown, Conn., as chairman of the educational committee of the General Federation of Women's Clubs has been made by Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker, president of the federation.

The appointment is one of the most important yet made by Mrs. Decker. Other members of the committee will be deans and presidents of prominent colleges.

"The work of this committee," Mrs. Decker says, "will be one of the foremost considerations of the federation. We will try to formulate plans for work with college women, with a view to eventually introducing domestic science training and other like into our colleges. The idea is to fit the boys and girls more than is now done for work in the world—not to educate them so much alike to give them training in the things, in other words, for which one is specially adapted."

MRS. SARAH PLATT DECKER, President of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

TWIN CITY PEOPLE DRINK BAD WHISKY

Inspectors Find Many Bottles With Over Half Fusel Oil.

St. Paul, Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Bottled in bond" is the alluring and reassuring phrase on filled bottles of whisky, which are being sold to retail dealers in the Twin Cities, and by them dispensed to patrons. Analysis by the chemists employed by the dairy and food department of the state shows that in many instances the whisky contains enough fusel oil to kill a guinea pig. In three instances the whisky, which was labeled "Bottled in bond," contained over 50 per cent of fusel oil.

John Froehlingsdorf, 422 Broadway and A. Bergen, 242 East Fourth street, were arraigned in the police court late Wednesday and fined $25 each for selling adulterated whisky.

The complaint in both cases were made by Charles Bouleau, of the state dairy and food department. The analysis of the whisky purchased by the inspector from Froehlingsdorf showed it contained 56 per cent of fusel oil.

An analysis of that secured at Bergen's place showed that it contained fifty per cent of the oil.

While the two saloonkeepers in St. Paul were arraigned and fined, another inspector of the department in Minneapolis arrested S. Nelson, who operates a saloon at 1225 Washington avenue, South, on a similar charge.

The analysis of the whisky secured at Nelson's place showed forty-six per cent of fusel oil.

Nelson pleaded guilty and was assessed $25 which was paid.

"It is a mistaken idea," said one of the dairy and food inspectors, "that because a bottle of whisky bears the pasteur 'Bottled in bond,' that the government guarantees the purity and quality of the whisky in the bottle. Of course the general public who purchase the stuff either for refreshment or medicinal purposes, have an idea that the pasteur means the government guarantees the purity and quality of the liquor is guaranteed by the government."

"The only meaning there is attached to the pasteur is that the whisky has been in bond. As to its quality or purity, the official means nothing. The government simply guarantees that the liquor has been in bond and is of the required proof."

There are also other large British ships bound to this coast from Honolulu, which have filed their claims upon the reefs of Mangaia, for it is fairly in the path of ships making for the South Pacific trade.

The wrecked ship is said to have been found on the reefs of Mangaia, some South American port when she ran on the reef. It is surmised that the shipwrecked crew has reached either Australia, or Tahiti before this time and will be heard from later.

THE JAPANESE LOOK OVER THEIR PRIZES WON AT PORT ARTHUR

Believe That Some of the Sunken Battleships May Be Saved.

The Russians Blocked the Dry Dock In an Ingenious Manner.

Tokio, Jan. 5.—The Japanese naval officers have not examined the sunken Russian warships at Port Arthur, and therefore nothing is known of their condition and possible availability for further service. It is expected that a careful examination of the vessels will be made at the earliest possible moment. The Japanese are keenly anxious to know the condition of the sunken ships, and it is believed some of them are salvageable. The Russians ingeniously blocked the dry dock, and the Japanese have been unable to get the ships out. The Japanese are now under consideration at Port Arthur. The Japanese are now under consideration at Port Arthur. The Japanese are now under consideration at Port Arthur.

The work of clearing away the mines commenced as soon as the Russian charts provided for in the capitulation agreement were delivered to the Japanese.

The official figures giving the Russian and Japanese losses at Port Arthur are not yet available. The original strength of the Russian garrison is not known, but the number of prisoners creates the impression that the garrison was larger than generally supposed. The disposition of the surrendered garrison has not yet been determined. It is impossible to move the majority of the sick and wounded, who will be nursed at Port Arthur. The Japanese are burying supplies of medicines and foodstuffs to the scene, and with improved sanitation and careful nursing they hope to cure thousands of the patients. The care of the many prisoners is a tremendous task, and it is possible that Japan will arrange later to return them to Russia. The question is now under consideration at Tokyo. It is said that Gen. Nogai will return to Tokyo at the request of the emperor, in which case he will receive a tremendous popular ovation. The foreign attaches entered Port Arthur yesterday.

BODY OF CAPITALIST PHELPS FOUND IN KALAMAZOO RIVER

Battle Creek, Mich., Jan. 5.—The body of Neil S. Phelps, the capitalist of this city who mysteriously disappeared a number of weeks ago and who was later supposed to have been located in British Columbia, was found today badly decomposed in the river here.

Phelps was the constructor of a sanitarium here bearing his name and was prominent in the food industry. In 1903 his affairs became involved and he was given a year in which to straighten out the tangle.

It was just before the expiration of this year that he disappeared. Soon after Phelps disappeared it was discovered that $30,000 of stock in a publishing house that Phelps was interested in had been forged to use to secure loans from banks in Adrian, Tecumseh, and in this city. This gave rise to reports that Phelps had absconded. Instead, he had committed suicide while dependent over the loss of his fortune, which had been estimated at several millions, and the resultant troubles.

AS INDIVIDUALS Engineers Will Have to Deal With Company.

Cleveland, Jan. 5.—The chief engineers of the Pittsburgh Steamship company were in conference with the officials of the company here yesterday. General Manager Conboy said the company was ready to do business with the men and make a fair and reasonable settlement, but they must be treated as individuals.

If, however, the men insist upon recognition of their union the wage settlement must be made through the officials of the Lake Carriers' association.

It is said that a settlement as individuals is of greater advantage to the men than through their organization.

ADMIRAL HAS HIGH PRAISE FOR CHILEANS.

New York, Jan. 5.—Rear Admiral Goodrich, who has just sailed with his fleet from Valparaiso de Chile, issued a statement, cables the correspondent there of the Herald, to the effect that he and his comrades were bewildered at the charming hospitality they have received in Chile. He will inform his government of the number and variety of demonstrations of cordiality.

The rear admiral is convinced that nothing more is needed to broaden, deepen and strengthen the bond between the two republics than increased knowledge of each other. He hopes the Panama canal will do much in that regard, and says Chileans and Americans differ in no essential particular, being identical in their views of justice, right, progress and liberty.

GENERAL STOESSEL IS TO BE COURT-MARTIALED

GOV. DOUGLAS URGES REMOVAL OF DUTIES

Asks Legislature For Commission to Inquire Into Tariff.

Fourth Democrat In Fifty Years, Governor of Massachusetts.

GOVERNOR W. L. DOUGLAS.

Boston, Jan. 5.—William L. Douglas, of Brockton, was today inaugurated governor of Massachusetts. He is the fourth Democrat to hold office within the past fifty years. All the other state officers are Republican and the legislature is heavily Republican.

Following the administration of the oath, Mr. Douglas delivered his inaugural address.

In the course of his address, Governor Douglas discussed the tariff.

"Because of her isolated condition as to materials and food supplies," he said, "Massachusetts feels the burden of tariff taxes more than most other states."

Governor Douglas asks of the legislature authority to appoint a commission of inquiry into the effect of the present tariff laws upon Massachusetts.

The prompt removal of duties on leather, paper, pulp and carpet wools, he contended, would result in great and permanent good to the commonwealth, but he urges that congress be memorialized to remove the duties on hides and coal at the present session.

BALTIC FLEET WILL RETURN TO RUSSIA

Orders Will Be Sent to Admiral Rojestvensky to Come Back.

Russians Are Very Indignant Over Trial For Gen. Stoessel.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 5.—Few incidents of the whole war have aroused more bitter criticism than the blunt announcement officially issued by the general staff, that Gen. Stoessel will have to come home and stand court-martial for surrendering the fortress of Port Arthur.

While this is an ancient regulation and quite according to law, it is bitterly resented on all sides that such an announcement should have been made in the same bulletin containing Gen. Stoessel's appeal to the emperor for "valiant judgment on a garrison reduced to shadows, who have done all that was possible for human beings to uphold the honor of Russia in the face of her enemies."

The Novoe Vremya, despite the example made by the suspension of the Russ, yesterday says:

"By all means, let us have a court-martial and make it, if possible, severe. The cruel judge will perhaps deal leniently with those who have given their blood and lives for their country. Perhaps, also, the court will determine why a fortress known to be threatened with blockade is not supplied with necessary food and munitions to enable it to hold out. Perhaps such a court will bring to light many dark, hidden things and expose the creeping, underground enemies of Russia who are infinitely more dangerous to the nation than the foe who fights in the open."

St. Petersburg, Jan. 5.—Although orders to that effect have not yet been sent to Admiral Rojestvensky, the Associated Press is able to announce positively that the decision has been reached that the Russian second Pacific squadron will return to European waters.

The official agreement provides for the appointment of commissioners to supervise the enforcement of the provisions in the capitulation compact and deals with the treatment of officers and men. The commissioners are to meet at the base of Poyu mountain at noon on Tuesday next, with the military and naval officers of Port Arthur fortress in the order indicated by the Japanese in the capitulation of the fortress.

The commissioners, who shall conduct themselves so as to arrive at the eastern extremity of Yaku on Thursday morning, the official officers are allowed to wear their side arms, but the use of arms is prohibited in the camp of non-commissioned officers and privates. On arrival they shall be placed in control of the commission, enforcing article eight of the original agreement. Civil officials not connected with the army or navy, shall follow the officers. Those who have not served as volunteers shall be released without parole.

Persons who are necessary to effect the enforcement of the provisions of the agreement, must wear an emblem given by the Japanese authorities. Private property carried by officers and officials shall be subjected to inspection and must be limited in weight.

The agreement further provides for the transfer of thousands of hundreds of non-combatants, their freedom of action and the removal of private property.

It promises to facilitate the movement of families of officers and officials, but reserves the right of removal of objectionable persons and the release of Japanese prisoners.

AMBASSADOR DENIES That British Warships Follow Russian Fleet.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 5.—Sir Charles Hardinge, the British ambassador, has taken the unusual course of calling Foreign Minister Lamsdorff's attention to the statements of the Novoe Vremya, Jan. 3, to the effect that it had authoritative news that British warships were following Vice Admiral Rojestvensky's fleet and reporting its disposition and movements to Tokyo from each cable port reached, which the ambassador declared to be false. Sir Charles particularly denied the imputation that British warships were committing breaches of neutrality by communicating Admiral Rojestvensky's movements to Japanese agents.

BRITISH WARSHIP Refused Permission to Land at Port Arthur.

Wei Hai Wei, Jan. 5.—The British cruiser Andromeda, which sailed from here yesterday for Port Arthur with hospital stores and surgeons, to assist the sick and wounded, returned here today, not having been allowed to make a landing at Port Arthur. The cruiser proceeded to a small bay, ten miles north of Port Arthur, where she met with some Japanese. The latter refused all offers of assistance, or stores of any kind, and declined to allow the ship's officers to approach closer, the reason given being the presence of unlocated mines.

THE RUSS SUPPRESSED. St. Petersburg, Jan. 5, 7 a. m.—Street sales of the Russ have been suspended by official order, owing to the tone of its editorial articles since the fall of Port Arthur. The Narshadney has received first warning.

GREAT PREPARATIONS Are Being Made By Russians at Mukden.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 5.—Mail advices received by the steamer Empress, of Japan, state that the Russians have built a series of redoubts about Mukden and Liao Yang by the Japanese. Five commissariat stores have been established between Fushan and Fushan and large stores of ammunition are accumulating at each. Four trains with troops run south daily.

At Vladivostok, great preparations are being made, though the garrison was weakened by the dispatch of much field artillery to Mukden. The garrison is not being materially increased, but troops being diverted from Mukden.

Thirty vessels with stores and munitions have arrived since August, mostly from Hong Kong, Shanghai and Saigon. There is a plentiful supply of coal and flour, but medical supplies are scarce. The steamer Calchas, which arrived at Nagasaki in mid-December from Vladivostok, reports that the Russian cruiser previously seen there was entering the vessel list.

Japan has been advised of the increasing numbers of Russian troops in northeast Korea, and it is considered in many quarters that Russia is sending an independent body in the direction from Fushan, with the object of attacking the Japanese right and rear at the Shinkai while the main forces are giving battle in front of the Japanese positions along the river. The steamer Calchas, which arrived at Nagasaki in mid-December from Vladivostok, reports that the Russian cruiser previously seen there was entering the vessel list.

Japanese Cruiser Approached Harbor of Manila But Did Not Enter.

Manila, Jan. 5.—Steamers returning here from the South report Japanese cruiser patrolling San Bernardino straits.

At 2 p. m. today (Jan. 5) the Japanese cruiser Takasagi approached the straits, and when she was within range, she fired a salute to the straits, asking if she intended to enter. The answer was in the negative. She also refused to state where she was from or for whence she was proceeding, and put to sea under full steam.

TROUBLES AT HOME May Force Russia to Conclude Peace With Japan.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 5.—Emperor Nicholas returned today to Tsarskoe Selo from Minsk.

An extraordinary council is expected to be held at Tsarskoe Selo immediately and it is believed that the whole situation will be reviewed. Gen. Kuropatkin has been called upon to telegraph his opinion of the situation at home, which cannot be disregarded in considering the future. There is evidence that the revolutionary agitators have decided to take every advantage of the government's position to compel the summoning of a national assembly and they are beginning to redouble their efforts. The newspapers, despite the punishments inflicted on them, are spreading out with great boldness. Seemingly regardless of the consequences, they are using every pretext for savage criticism of bureaucracy. The zemstvo defiance of the government's note of warning, continue to memorialize the throne for the program adopted at the meeting of the zemstvo delegates here. Consequently, in spite of the loud protestations of the official world that peace is impossible, the opinion is held by exceedingly shrewd observers that the government may be forced to conclude peace with Japan, even up to the last free hands to deal with the internal situation. With the increasing popularity of Mr. Witte, president of the ministerial council, looks up larger as the strong man to whom the emperor will turn in the present crisis.

ANOTHER CUT IN OIL. Pittsburgh, Jan. 5.—The Standard Oil company made another cut of 2 cents today in all grades of crude oil except Raglan. This is the third 5-cent reduction within three weeks.

THE DULUTH EVENING HERALD

Tomorrow at noon the short devotional service, which is a feature of the work of the Young Women's Christian association, will be resumed. The hospital is under the auspices of the Episcopal church. Miss Hosenberger will leave the latter part of this week or the first of next week to assume her new duties.

THE NEW THINGS
Women Wear That Is Now In Vogue.

The Delineator: Although the draped and fitted bodice throwing the bust into relief is the fancy of the moment, we still have the becoming full waist blousing slightly over the deeply pointed girdle. Shimmering, tucking and smocking enter into the fashioning of these pretty waists, which, in many instances, have the skirt to match.

The new broadcloths, the most popular material for the dressy gown, are silky and supple, and in the rich winter shades they are more attractive than ever. Charming evening gowns will be fashioned in white or pale tints.

brocade covered with eyelet embroidery—a trimming that is apparently increasing in popularity. So great is the vogue of embroidery that the embroidered siles of our grandmothers' days have been brought out among the season's novelties.

All sorts of feather neckwear are in high vogue, and certainly there is no more becoming accessory than the marabou, coq or ostrich stole, made in "paddle-wheel" shape. For evening wear these stoles are in pale, delicate colors, and a dainty touch is given them by adding either a camella or a rose at the left side. Of course, these stoles are worn only with elaborate evening gowns. The "paddle-wheel" stole in any of the fashionable tints is not only a modish accessory, but a very comfortable one. It is quite the smartest fur neck-piece, and when accompanied by a muff to match, lends distinction to the plainest toilet.

Fur garments are worn in almost every style and length. With these, as with everything in the fashionable women's outfit, becomingness and adaptability are of the greatest importance, and the fur coat of former days is a thing of the past.

A noticeable item in the fashion world, is the vogue of pale-colored gloves instead of white. The tan and mode shades are particularly in evidence and are worn not only with gowns to match, but with black and dark-colored frocks, and the contrast is pleasing. When intended to be worn with the short-sleeved evening gowns, these gloves will be long.

A fancy of the hour is the half-faded flowers that adorn the modish hats.

Did He Do It?

Even if Judge Parker won't talk politics, he can, according to the New York Commercial, tell a good story. His latest is as follows: A young man in Savannah, named Du Bose, invited his sweetheart to take a buggy ride with him. The young man had a very fetching lisp. When they reached a rather lonesome bit of road the young man announced: "This is where you have to pay toll. The toll is either a kiss or a squeeze." And the modest young woman simply replied: "Oh, Mr. Du Bose."

THE COUNTESS CORDOZO

By J. C. Plummer.

(Copyright, 1904, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)
Those were troublous times in Venezuela when the old being by the neck of the Countess Cordozo, for it was small wonder that the Countess Cordozo, in her haste to leave such a disturbed country, should avail herself of the one practicable steamship on the coast to get away from it. The ship, however, while drinking acquaintance with the red-headed agent, had picked up some news about our assailable, though for a long time, had never laid eyes on the noble lady. REMEDY IS STATED

For Evil Trusts By President Hill of Great Northern.

Concerns Doing Interstate Business Should Have Federal Licenses.

New York, Jan. 5.—James J. Hill, president of the Northern Securities company, and the foremost railroad president of America, said to the World:

"The most offensive word to the American people is 'pool-railway pool.' Any administration or congress that attempts to legalize railway pools will be quickly turned out by an uprising of the people."

"There is a very simple method of dealing with the trust question. Let it be made necessary for any industrial corporation that wishes to do an interstate business to secure a federal license, but before that license is issued the corporation must prove that its capital is not invested in the way of a trust."

"A majority of trusts nowadays are the products of promoters who hastily gather in two or three counties, while the laws of the state are being enacted, and then they turn around and sell the securities of the corporation to the public."

"The general business of the country is not booming, it is only quietly and moderately prosperous. The railroad business of Chicago, the fastest-growing city in the country, is down 10 per cent this year."

"The effect of proposed legislation for the regulation of interstate commerce is to put the railroad business in a position of disadvantage. It is a very simple method of dealing with the trust question. Let it be made necessary for any industrial corporation that wishes to do an interstate business to secure a federal license, but before that license is issued the corporation must prove that its capital is not invested in the way of a trust."

"I believe that the president will not wish to signalize the beginning of his administration by a hasty and ill-considered action, although he is surrounded by some wild men who seek to do so."

"Every railroad would be happy to have its capital invested in the way of a trust. It is a very simple method of dealing with the trust question. Let it be made necessary for any industrial corporation that wishes to do an interstate business to secure a federal license, but before that license is issued the corporation must prove that its capital is not invested in the way of a trust."

"Why does not the interstate commerce commission proceed to issue licenses to the railroads? It has been asked for some time in which you hand over your property to another man to be divided among a few men, and then you seek to obtain an equality with the stronger."

"The inevitable law of nature is the survival of the fittest. You cannot change that law by legislation. It may change the rate of the game, but the law of nature will triumph."

"A railway pool would help one way and ruin the other. It is a very simple method of dealing with the trust question. Let it be made necessary for any industrial corporation that wishes to do an interstate business to secure a federal license, but before that license is issued the corporation must prove that its capital is not invested in the way of a trust."

"The Canadian Pacific railway one way and ruin the other. It is a very simple method of dealing with the trust question. Let it be made necessary for any industrial corporation that wishes to do an interstate business to secure a federal license, but before that license is issued the corporation must prove that its capital is not invested in the way of a trust."

"The Transcontinental Pacific half a million a year to discontinue business out of St. Paul. It is a very simple method of dealing with the trust question. Let it be made necessary for any industrial corporation that wishes to do an interstate business to secure a federal license, but before that license is issued the corporation must prove that its capital is not invested in the way of a trust."

"Who paid that half million? The Transcontinental Pacific half a million a year to discontinue business out of St. Paul. It is a very simple method of dealing with the trust question. Let it be made necessary for any industrial corporation that wishes to do an interstate business to secure a federal license, but before that license is issued the corporation must prove that its capital is not invested in the way of a trust."

"Burton is one of the trial arrested some months ago in Stillwater for swindling a man in a card game on board of an Omaha passenger train, near Hudson. Burton was released on bail, jumped his bail, and has not been seen since. The new sheriff, Adolph Johnson, of Hudson, has just moved in and taken possession of the jail."

LOCATION OF THE NEW COURTHOUSE

Vigorous Opposition to Present Site Will Be Developed.Commissioner Kugler's Recent Article Used as Strong Argument.

Opponents of the present location of the St. Louis county courthouse are getting ready to fire some of their ammunition to prepare the people for the hearing on Jan. 17. They say that the editorial by County Commissioner Kugler which appeared in the News Tribune Christmas morning should set the people thinking on the subject, especially as the editorial, coming from the foremost advocate of the present site, admits the inconveniences of the present location and goes into considerable detail as to how the existing difficulties might be eliminated. Those unfavorable to the present site are calling attention to the fact that Commissioner Kugler, according to his own statements in the News Tribune, admits some of the inconveniences of the present courthouse site. His statement is headed "Better Access to the Courthouse Site," and goes on to indicate how better facilities for reaching the present location that are needed, might be supplied.

Then follows: "Now that it has been decided that the county commissioners shall proceed with the erection of a new courthouse, it is fitting at present that the question of procuring better approaches to the site should be considered. It is evident that the county building is not as easy of access as it should be and that some step should be taken to see that when the new structure is built, visitors will not be compelled to circumvent many blocks to reach there."

"The suggestion made by City Engineer McElvray in last Sunday's Tribune of constructing a road through Sixth avenue east, is one that will remedy the difficulty. I do not care particularly, however, whether the road shall be "serpentine" to loosen the grade, or whether it shall be straight, but I think that the road should be opened. Citizens should be compelled to walk only two blocks from Superior street, instead of pursuing a circuitous route for several blocks. At one time the city vacated the property on Sixth avenue east, but in 1890, I believe, it was purchased back again. I hope that the city will see its way clear to make a street there.

"In connection with better connections with the county building I suggest that a loop line be built proceeding up East Superior street and returning on Second street. The line might run as far as Twenty-third avenue east or turn at a point nearer the central part of the city. With a loop line on Second street and a road through Sixth avenue east, the courthouse site would be considerably more accessible than it is now."

The opponents of the present site also point to the grave mistake it would be to place a new public building to cost between $300,000 and $500,000 on the old grounds when the county has not a perfect title to the land.

"It is now admitted by Mr. Kugler, and well known to the most of our citizens in Duluth and St. Louis county, that the old court house is too far from the business center of the city," said a prominent business man today. "He goes on to suggest that we must build some new and special way to get to it. No doubt the street car company will be pleased to fill in with his suggestion, for they will be the principal gainers by the location up there. As it is now the old buildings are in the way of building the new courthouse, as proposed and desired, even if a good title to the land is obtained. Let us look at the advantages and the disadvantages in location there or near the business center, down town."

"If a modern construction, like the style of the Wolvin building, is adopted, a site or location down town can be got for about $40,000. Interest on county bonds at 4 per cent, or the interest on this sum is only about $3 per cent. Why, there are lots of business men in town that would rather pay $5 than make a trip up there during business hours, and at the present time car fares alone from the business center to the courthouse are estimated at $20 per day, or four times the interest on $40,000 bonds, and the time lost by men who must go there is worth twenty times the $5 referred to as the daily interest on the $40,000 of bonds. As the city and this great county grows more populous the disadvantage of going up the hill will proportionately increase, while the $5 daily interest will remain the same. Is it the street car company or the people that are to be considered first?

"Do we want to imitate Superior? Look where the county courthouse is over there now, way down on the front, on the Nemadji river, in the east end, while the entire business district of the city is in the opposite part of the city, the west end. Everybody swears, or wants to, when they have to go to that courthouse. It is the same old vexatious problem over there as it is in this city, of missing cars every time a person wants to go to the courthouse.

"The hours of the courthouse offices are very short, and the days that the officials and their forces are on hand for business are not as numerous as they are in some lines of business. This makes it difficult for people to always get hold of them, especially those who live out in the country, who have to give up a few hours, if not a whole day, to make the journey to the city.

"County Commissioner Kugler, in the meeting at the Commercial club, which he held at the site had been determined on, replied that it had, without question. We propose to see if that is the actual state of the case and if it is not the matter will be reopened if there is justice to be had. He wants the courthouse up on the hill and don't want to move it down town. But have you not noticed that the commissioner himself, who is in the dual business, moved his enterprise from the East End to the downtown district in order to be in touch with the business line. It is his very example that the courthouse proposition should profit by.

"It would be dangerous to disturb the records now in the dual business vaults and if a new building is to be put up in the present site this must be done. Any of the officers will tell you of the confusion that would ensue from moving the records from the courthouse to permit of the building of the proposed structure on the present site, for in building the new house they would have to gradually encroach on the old building site and it would be a great nuisance to try to keep the records in any kind of accessible shape while this is being done.

"What is needed is to have a new courthouse ready to move into before the contents of the present building are disturbed. Then the present records could be received by the new building and filed in systematic shape, and permanently, as fast as moved,

JAMES S. KIRK & COMPANY.

As I have told you, the officers in charge of the courthouse affairs realize the gravity of the situation.

"If we don't get the courthouse site what business will Judge Ensign have in selling it to someone else? There's a question that I have not been answered. That locality is much better fitted for residences than for a public building site, where the public must keep going and coming constantly.

"A contractor would put up a building down town for a great deal less money than he would on the present site, for the reason of the old building now being in the way in case the courthouse is built on the hill, and for the fact that the long haulage of material from downtown to the hill site would make the present location a decidedly more expensive place to build on."

TRIAL OF KOCH

Defendant Near Gebhardt's Office on Night of the Murder.Koch Taking More Serious Interest in the Proceedings.

St. Paul, Jan. 5.—A special to the Dispatch from New Ulm, Minn., says: Four witnesses were examined by the state today for the purpose of establishing Dr. Koch's presence near the Gebhardt office on the night Dr. Gebhardt was murdered. Joseph Koehler, a barber, testified that he met Koch about 9:05 p. m., as Koch was walking toward Center street. George Schmidt testified that he saw Koch at the corner of Center and Minnesota streets, walking towards the stairway entrance to Dr. Gebhardt's office. Koch carried a package in his hand.

Anton Simmet, proprietor of the barber shop under Dr. Gebhardt's office, and Eugene Pfeiffer, a druggist, who were in both barber shops, testified that Koch came into the shop about 9:20 o'clock.

The court room was filled with a curious crowd of men, women and boys, who eagerly absorbed every word. Dr. Koch seems to be taking a more serious interest in the proceedings than he did at first.

Dr. George R. Koch, when he takes the stand to defend himself against the charge of slaughtering Dr. A. Gebhardt, his business rival, will explain the fact that his handkerchief was found on the scene of the murder by the statement that the handkerchief was stolen from his coat pocket by a cocaine fiend.

In spite of the fact that the authorities gave up the cocaine fiend theory as futile, Dr. Koch will, nevertheless, repeat the story that he saw the sheriff of every county in the Northwestern states hunting for cocaine fiends.

Dr. Koch's testimony will be that several days before the murder a strange man, who claimed to be a broken-down dentist, came into his office and seated himself on a couch in his workshop. Dr. Koch will say that he was busy attending to a patient's teeth and did not notice the man at first. He will say that he noticed him in the room for several hours. He will say positively, according to his friends, that after the man missed him from the pocket of his coat a handkerchief which bore the initials G. R. K.

It is believed that Dr. Strickler will be called to the stand to give the most dramatic testimony that will be offered during the entire trial. He gave testimony on the stand to the citizens' committee and will in all likelihood be summoned to repeat it before the jury.

Dr. Strickler, according to evidence in the hands of the citizens' committee, once came into his office, when he was sitting on the couch with the evidence of Dr. Koch and Dr. Vogel.

Dr. Koch was crying and was wringing his hands. Nervously he was weeping.

"My God! My God!" he cried, "what shall I do? I can't stand it any longer."

Dr. Koch, according to the information, appeared to be on the verge of prostration.

Dr. Strickler entered the room where the two men were. Dr. Vogel was telling Dr. Koch to "bear up and be a man." Dr. Strickler found that he was in a serious nervous condition. He ordered Dr. Vogel to take him home hurriedly.

It is said that the citizens' committee has evidence that several such breakdowns occurred during the period when Dr. Koch was under suspicion and before his arrest.

Dr. Strickler will also testify that, at the time the poison was sent to Dr. Gebhardt, he missed a considerable quantity of strychnine from his medicine case, to which Dr. Koch had access if he chose to take advantage of the opportunity.

While the state will not make public any portion of its evidence it is stated that the popular theory about a woman being in the case is not proven. It is broadly hinted that there is a woman in New Ulm today, who owes much to the silence of Dr. Gebhardt regarding a certain episode in which she had figured. Dr. Koch, it is intimated, was also interested in having silence maintained.

The defense, it is known, will object to the introduction of the hammer at the trial. The attorneys claim that the hammer has not been kept since the coroner's inquest, according to the rules of law, but that it has been carried about the county by the detectives in their efforts to have it identified.

Attorney George Somerville accuses the newspapers of making light of every story which the defense offers, casting suspicion on other persons for the murder.

A summary of the stories offered by the evidence in explanation of the murder is interesting. It was the defense that advanced these theories:

The murder was committed by a cocaine fiend.

The murder was committed by two men, one of whom resembled Albert Keller.

The murder was committed by a middle-aged man, who was later sent to the Rochester asylum.

The murder was committed by Albert Fuchs, who hanged himself a week ago Monday.

These clues have all been exhausted.

Women's Coats and Suits, Misses' Coats, Children's Coats, Infants' Winter Coats and Dresses—at Half. None reserved.

Notwithstanding the blustering weather prevailing the Half Price Sale now in progress at the Silberstein & Bondy Co.'s establishment is attracting large numbers of buyers who come prepared to take advantage of the liberal cut in prices.

The superior styles of the S. & B. Co. (regardless of the discount feature), create a demand for their garments enjoyed by but one concern in this section.

Many women, among the early buyers, confessed to investigating the numerous sales now advertised in order to make comparisons. Such expressions as, "when I look elsewhere I'm not disappointed at the styles shown. Here I expect to find the best." Another remark was, "Yes, it's easy to make a selection after one has investigated the lines on sale elsewhere."

These are but a few of the remarks of daily occurrence heard in our great suit section. A look among the splendidly tailored garments shown here impresses one with their high character. Meanwhile the stocks are still in splendid shape and there's not a single old style or undesirable fabric in the entire showing. We're desirous of having every economical woman in Duluth to look for herself. That's why comparison is our best advertisement.

DESERTION LEADS

Ground Alleged In Seven
Out of Eight Divorce Cases.Decrees Granted In All
But One of the Actions.

There was something doing in the way of divorce cases in two of the courts this morning. Judge Ensign listened to the testimony in three actions where mis-mated couples appeared and granted the petitions for legal separation in all of them.

Judge Dineen heard the troubles of five couples, held one case open for further testimony and decided that the petitioners in the other four cases were entitled to decrees.

One of the interesting features of the cases this morning is that in all but one the grounds claimed for divorces was desertion. The only case showing an exception gave the grounds as cruel and inhuman treatment.

Louise B. Greene was granted a decree from Walton B. Greene on the grounds of desertion. Ada Scoville was divorced from Fred A. Scoville on the grounds of desertion. They were married at Wallace, Idaho, March 31, 1898. Charles J. Wickstrom was granted a decree from Rieka Wickstrom on the grounds of desertion. They were married at Battle Creek, Mich., June 27, 1901. Lottie J. Grange was legally separated from Samuel Grange on the grounds of desertion. They were married at Hurley, Wis., July 2, 1898.

Mary Scott was given a decree of divorce from Frank Scott on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. They were married at Battle Creek, Mich., June 27, 1901. Ellen M. Blackmer was granted a legal separation from John A. Blackmer for desertion. They were married at Ausable, Mich., March 14, 1897. Clara Robinson was granted a decree of divorce from William J. Robinson for desertion. They were married at Ashland, Wis., June 23, 1896.

The case of Emma Johnston against Samuel Johnston was continued for further evidence.

In the conclusion of one of the cases this morning the court warned one of the parties that the statutory limit before another marriage could be issued is six months in this state.

GRAND JURY MAKES RETURN

Two Indictments Are Made Public—Some Accused Not Arrested

The grand jury, with Z. D. Scott as foreman, made its first return in district court this morning. Several indictments were returned, but only two were made public, as the persons named in the others were not yet in custody.

William Gerow was indicted for grand larceny in the second degree. The information against him is that he stole a quantity of candy from a Northern Pacific car, at Twentieth avenue west, Dec. 1, valued at $16.75. No true bill was returned against Herbert Graham, who was arrested with Gerow, and he was released from custody by order of the court.

Salvator Wickey was indicted for assault in the second degree. It is charged that he used a razor with serious intent, on the person of James Marinella, of Hibbing, Nov. 22 last.

It is rumored that one of the other indictments concerns a local young man who has recently begun to figure rather prominently in police records in this state.

COMMISSION TO REPORT

Investigation of the Garbage Question Is About Complete.

The garbage commission appointed last fall by Mayor Callum is about prepared to make its report to the council, and may present it next Monday evening.

The members of the commission have made a study of the question and received the report of Health Commissioner Murray, who visited St. Louis, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Chicago and Joliet to inspect the crematories in those cities. Several meetings have been held and the report is now being drafted.

The conference committee made provision for the erection of a crematory at the meeting last fall and if the commission's report is favorable on it, there will be nothing to prevent its construction during the coming year. The commission consisted of Walton S. Moore, Health Commissioner Murray, A. C. Welles, Bishop James McDonald and President Haven of the common council.

EXAMINER TO SAY

County Board Refers Overtime Claims to State Officials.
County Contracts Awarded and Usual Appointments Made.

After discussing at some length the question of overtime charges made by four clerks of the county treasurer's office, the commissioners yesterday afternoon decided to refer the matter to the public examiner for his opinion as to whether the overtime claims should and can legally be paid.

This happy thought of shifting the responsibility to the public examiner was the suggestion of Assistant County Attorney Crosby, and it was very quickly acted on as a relief measure. The overtime claims which were presented were for work alleged to have been done by the clerks in the treasurer's office during the month of November last, when the work was greatly rushed to get out the November report. The claims show that the clerks worked overtime from periods ranging from a few minutes up to twelve hours. The longest period of overtime was expended to be legal holidays, during which the county offices are usually closed and at which dates the clerks worked all day to catch up with the office work. The claims aggregate a little over $337.

The four clerks who appeared before the board in support of their overtime claims were W. M. Hillis, T. B. Perry, Gus Wodan and Joseph Nelson.

The clerk of the board was instructed to read the resolution which had been drawn up, disallowing the overtime bills, and the clerks were asked if they had anything to say before the commissioners took a vote.

Mr. Hillis, who acted as spokesman for the clerks, said that the work had to be done by a certain time and that the only thing the county treasurer could do was to either hire more clerks or have his old force of clerks work overtime. He said Mr. Wodan decided that so long as his clerks were familiar with the work a great deal more could be accomplished by having the old clerks work overtime, which they did on his instruction.

Mr. Hillis thought that much of the adverse criticism which has been general among taxpayers since the overtime claims were presented, were made because the action is not well understood and the impression seems to be that the clerks are trying to hold up the county. He explained that at certain periods in the year, in the spring and in the fall, the county treasurer has been accustomed to hire an extra force of clerks to handle the large amount of work which falls on his office at those times, because of the tax settlements. He said that while the regular clerks have all they can do to keep them busy right along through the year, there are periods when he has the time to handle the work and clean up before certain dates.

Mr. Hillis claimed that it stood to reason that the men regularly employed in the treasurer's office would understand the work much better than new clerks, whom it would take some time to break in, and that it seemed just to pay the old clerks if they did the work of new clerks after their regular hours.

Commissioner McGinnis took issue on the seven-hour work day claimed by Turner County Treasurer Whipple.

Mr. Hillis claimed that seven hours was recognized as a work day by all the county offices. He said that during the many years he has been a clerk at the courthouse the office hours have been on the basis of a seven-hour day, that before the hall of the old court house was painted the last time it was specifically stated on the doors of the various offices that they were open three and one-half hours in the morning and the same length of time in the afternoon. This is conceded to have been a very long time ago, judging from the age of the point now on the doors.

Commissioner McGinnis suggested that it looked rather bad to have a seven-hour work day and claims come in for nine hours' overtime.

Commissioner E. M. Patterson told the clerks that they had no idea of the amount of criticism the board is receiving already for even considering the overtime claims, that public sentiment is strongly against the bills.

Commissioner Kugler said that he had always been against the policy of overtime charges. He said the board had no quarrel with the clerks, and was disposed to be as fair as possible with them, but it was the policy of the board, the precedent which would be established, and the public sentiment against overtime claims, which made the commissioners hesitate in their case. The board, he said, would have to hear the merit of the claims if the claims were paid, and he said the time must be allowed to the very bottom, so that if the claims are ever paid the commissioners will have some justification for their action. He suggested that the best way out of the trouble would be to make a test case by disallowing the claims and having the clerks appeal to the court from the disallowance.

Chairman McGinnis said he would like to see very many of his voters but that in this case he could not consistently vote for an allowance of the overtime bills. Mr. McGinnis said he did not attach any blame to the clerks, but that he did blame Mr. Whipple for not having considered the board before he told his clerks to go ahead and work overtime.

Mr. Perry also took part in the discussion, reiterating the statements of Mr. Hillis as to the unusually heavy work of the treasurer's office in November and recalling many other instances where the clerks worked overtime and never put in a claim.

Assistant County Attorney Crosby, who was called on to give the status of the Armstrong and the Middlecott cases, said that the Armstrong case, which was settled in court would probably have very little bearing in the present case. That in the case of Mr. Armstrong it was not a question of overtime, but of work performed for the county in the regular way for which the county had to pay him.

In the case of Probate Judge Middlecott, the court was consulted and it was decided that public exigencies demanded that certain work had to be done in the probate office and that it was satisfactorily shown that the work could not attend to the work with the clerical force then employed, the board covering the extra expense of clerk hire by appropriation. Mr. Crosby said that it was possible that if the treasurer's office could show that a similar exigency existed in November the commissioners might feel differently. He felt, however, that the position of the board was one of doubt as to whether the overtime was absolutely necessary.

Commissioner Kauppi stated that while he wished to be fair with the clerks the sentiment of his constituents was so decidedly against overtime claims that he could not vote to allow the bills.

Mr. Crosby then proposed submitting the whole matter to the public examiner and the idea met with instant favor.

The board will refer the bills to that official and the clerks will write a letter setting forth the exigencies of the work on which they base their claims. To their letter Mr. Crosby will also attach a statement of the situation as it appears from the county attorney's standpoint.

County Auditor O. Halden presented to the board his annual financial statement showing the warrants issued by the office and the various sums expended out of different funds for the fiscal year ending Dec. 31, 1904. The warrants were as follows:

County revenue	$ 150,520.53
Poor	25,490.68
Special roads	25,500.00

MAKES BIG HIT

County Superintendent of Schools Gilpin Gives Commissioners Talk.
Asks Whether He Is Figurehead or to Be Aggressive.

Without knowing it at the time, the board of county commissioners, yesterday, in taking a definite step in the direction of recognizing the office of the county superintendent of schools as something more than a figurehead, followed out the policy which Governor John A. Johnson, of this state, is advocating, and which he treated of in his inaugural address at St. Paul, yesterday.

In common parlance, S. W. Gilpin, the new county superintendent of schools in this county, made a hit with the county board, such a hit that, before it adjourned, the board passed a unanimous vote a resolution appropriating $100 for his use in issuing certain bulletins the coming year in the effort to bring the rural schools to a greater degree of efficiency.

While the amount of the appropriation seems small, it is all that Mr. Gilpin asked for, and the impression he made in his talk of his intentions as to his work this year, was demonstrated in the individual remarks of the commissioners commending his spirit and the manner in which he is going at things.

Mr. Gilpin sent to the board a communication on the subject of the appropriation, but he appeared personally, also, to talk directly to the members.

THE GENTLER SEX.

Will the sister who suffers in silence permit a word?

There are certain diseases peculiar to the female sex. They prostrate the mind, enfeeble the body, and lead to a life of misery; perhaps never to rise again. Their cause may be often traced to impurities in the system, brought about by a disordered state of the liver or bowels. Constipation causes more than half the sickness of the world, and constipation can be quickly and painlessly relieved by the vegetable laxative known as Beecham's Pills. Consequently they give health, happiness and long life to all who use them, at all drug stores.

He stated frankly that he knew the office had been regarded in the past as a sort of figurehead in this county, but he believed that deserved to a large extent as to whether a figurehead occupies the office, which would practically mean his sitting in his office and taking things as they come, or whether he was to be aggressive for the improvement of the county school system and receive the support of the county board.

Mr. Gilpin's letter which gives food for thought to those who have been supporting St. Louis county had an efficient rural school system, is as follows:

"Since assuming the duties of county superintendent of schools, Oct. 6, 1904, I have visited forty-six teachers in fifteen different school districts. Not less than one-half day has been given each rural school visited. Three districts have been visited on two different occasions. In general terms, the schools were in fair condition. A few were in excellent working order and several were in poor condition. Many teachers have had no special training in high school or normal school. A few had not completed the common branches before they began to teach. With one or two exceptions all the teachers that I have visited are very anxious to improve their work in every way possible.

"With this introduction I desire to state that one of the most important parts of our school system is missing—a course of study or outline of work. This relates to rural schools. Teachers are using courses of study prepared in Illinois, Michigan, and New York. Some are using courses from graded school courses prepared for large systems of schools as Minneapolis and Chicago. Many of the young teachers have no outline at all. A good teacher with books, papers, pencils and without a course of study is like a good carpenter with tools of all kinds, but without plans or specifications. Much trouble is experienced by teachers trying to grade pupils. It is impossible to grade them until the teachers have some standard of grading. The teachers look to this office to furnish such outline.

"I am prepared to furnish such outlines. Will your board vote sufficient funds to print such bulletins as may be necessary throughout the year to satisfy the demand of the teachers and schools? The cost will not exceed $20 per issue. The number of bulletins would be about five for the entire year."

He stated that the two teams tied. The entire band will furnish the music for the dance, which will follow the game. Jones and Congdon will be the batter for the militia men and Simpson and Bennett for the band.

PLANS FOR BANQUET.
Arrangements for the annual banquet of the Garfield Republican club will be made at the regular meeting this evening in AXA hall.

This contest to take charge of the affair will be appointed and the date decided upon. The banquet of the Garfield club are important social and political functions, and this year it is expected that both of them will be successful. The officers for the coming year will also be chosen this evening.

LEADERS WILL PLAY

to Battle For Leadership.

The Third Regiment Band and Company A indoor baseball teams will fight out the question of the leadership in the race for the indoor pennant tomorrow evening at the armory.

The band team has a straight record of three victories, while Company A has won two games and lost one. Should the band team win tomorrow evening it will clinch its hold on first place. A victory for the militia men on the other hand will leave the two teams tied.

The entire band will furnish the music for the dance, which will follow the game. Jones and Congdon will be the batter for the militia men and Simpson and Bennett for the band.

CONVICTS WIFE BEATER.
John Knutson Is Sentenced In Municipal Court.

For cruelly beating and kicking his wife and forcing her to lock herself in a closet to escape further abuse, John Knutson, of 2155 Water street, was yesterday sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and costs or spend sixty days in the county jail.

The woman, who is frail and delicate, bore a bruised and blackened eye as evidence of her statements. Knutson claimed that she had ordered him out of the house, and when he refused to go, had "grabbed his face." The story did not carry much weight with the jury and he was found guilty of assault.

NEW YEAR'S LUNCH AT TOKIO.

Tokio, Jan. 5.—The emperor today gave a New Year's luncheon to the members of the diplomatic corps, the elder statesmen, ministers and higher officials. The emperor welcomed them with the usual compliments of the season and toasted the respective sovereigns represented at his court. Baron D'Anethan, the Belgian minister, dean of the diplomatic corps, replied in behalf of the corps.

Premier Katsura on behalf of the Japanese nation offered the customary hopes for the imperial and national prosperity. There was no official mention of the war.

TWO DIE FROM POISON.
Philadelphia, Jan. 5.—Chocolate coated cyanide and toxic vomica tablets, prescribed by a physician for their mother, caused the death of Laura and Joseph Forensig, 12 and 8 years old, respectively, at their home here tonight. Believing the medicine was candy, the boy ate freely and is believed to have given some to his sister. The children were soon in convulsions and died half an hour later.

NO DECISION REACHED.
Vienna, Jan. 5.—The conference of the Zionist committee on the proposed Jewish settlement in British East Africa, is proceeding here. No decision has yet been reached. It is believed that the international Zionist congress to be held later in the year, will decide the settlement question after the committee of investigation now in Uganda reports on the subject.

GOD IN ALL NATURE

Dr. Lyman Abbott Gives His Ideas of a Personal God.

Infinite and Eternal Energy From Which All Things Proceed.

New York, Jan. 5.—The recent statements of Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, at Harvard university, giving his ideas of a personal God, has caused so much comment and discussion that in this week's issue of his magazine, the Outlook, Dr. Abbott defines his true position so that there may be no mistake about it. The reports of the Harvard sermon did not make Dr. Abbott's position perfectly clear. Following are some of the more striking statements in the article which appear in the Outlook.

"We can find the Hylaric legend of creation and fall and deluge in the oldest religions of Egypt, of Phoenicia and of Assyria. Legend by legend the Protestant faith that the Bible is the supreme and final authority has been weakened and for some time past, whether we like it or not, that lessening of the authority of the book, as a book, must be recognized. We have only to compare the sermons of the great orthodox preachers of the past and the present to see the difference of opinion."

"While this process was going on within the churches there was going on a process without walls, powerful, irresistible. Science was attacking the notion of an absentee God, a God who can be defined, described, analyzed, interpreted in words. Science, which first showed how vast the universe was; which, secondly, showed how the universe was all one; which, third, showed that the same forces were at work in this world, and in the remotest sun, and in this epoch, and in the remotest epoch, so that all days are equally creative, undermined the notion of a celestial Caesar sitting on a celestial throne, off creating matter and force out of nothing, and laws to govern them and leaving them to their own operation with occasional interventions on his part for the purpose of amending them."

"One day some years ago a young man called upon me with a long list of theological questions. He wanted to get copy for his newspaper and he asked me to answer them. I was having him out on my polite disavowal when he stopped me and said: 'Just a moment, please. Do you believe in a personal God?'

"What do you mean by a personal God?" I asked.

"Well, by a personal God I mean a God who is like a person, who is like the universe and ruling things."

"No," I said, "I do not believe in that kind of a personal God."

"Well, then," he said, "you are a pantheist."

"That picture of a big man sitting on a throne, creating the universe, ruling things was a very crude expression for a belief that was universal in the middle ages. Aristotle, who was a philosopher, was a pantheist. A venerable gentleman is represented as seated cross-legged on the ground, with the various portions of a child's Noah's ark before him, putting the different parts of the animal kingdom together. He is a pantheist, a conception of a divine creation, that notion of an absentee God, an imperial Caesar sitting in the center of the universe, ruling things, whose edicts are laws, who is approached only from afar by men—that is gone, or going. There are some who still cling to it, and to whom the removal of that image seems like atheism; some that are trying to cling to it, though their grasp is loosening; some that are trying to make themselves believe that they still believe in it; but it has gone, or is going. Not merely the final authority of the church is undermined; not merely the authority of the book as an ultimate source of authority; but the conception of a God sitting in the center of the universe ruling things—that also is growing thin or absolute."

Loss of Sleep Means Loss of Mind.

Inability to Sleep is Nature's Plain Warning of an Exhausted Nervous System.

DR. A. W. CHASE'S NERVE PILLS.

When you overwork any muscle or set of muscles in excess, you must rest. What is true of muscle is doubly true of the brain, as from it emanates all power to work, to act, to think. The brain is full of little cells that during the waking hours are never quiet in their efforts to furnish to every organ the power to do its duty. Rob these little cells of their rest at night—keep them at work all the time, and soon they tire, refuse to rest, fail to generate nerve force, and the system goes to ruin. Headaches, dizziness, spots before the eyes, nervousness, and all the ailments that come from an exhausted nervous system, are the result of this. The true remedy, the only cure, lies in Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills, a medicine that revitalizes, rejuvenates, and by properly nourishing these overworked little cells, gives them rest and quiet and enables them to sleep naturally and easily again.

Mrs. Fred Wolleben, of Glade Run, Warren, Pa., says:

"I was induced to use Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills for several reasons. I was so nervous I could not bear a noise or much talking. I was very forgetful—my mind seemed dull. I was listless and tired all the time. The result of the use of the box I got was remarkable. They toned up the nerves and system, gave me back my old self, and I can now recommend them highly to anyone who feels as I did. I got a box at dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, M.D., are on every package."

SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl Street, New York.

By disappearing. What is coming in this place? I am not going to ask the theologians what is coming in this place; I will ask the scientists.

What has science to offer? This: That we are ever in the presence of an infinite and eternal energy from which all things proceed. No longer an absentee God; no longer a Great First Cause, setting in motion secondary causes which frame the world; no longer a divine mechanic who has built the world, stored it with forces, launched it upon its course and now again interferes with its operation if it goes not right, but one great, eternal, underlying Cause, as truly omnipotent in the world as long as it makes the morning stars sang together every day a creative day. That is the way of science.

The notion of a humanized God sitting in the center of the universe ruling things is gone, and in the place of it science has brought us back this: "We are ever in the presence of the infinite. And history has brought us back this: 'There is a power not our selves that makes for righteousness.' And literature has brought us back this: 'Spirit with spirit can meet closer. He than breathing, nearer than hands or feet.'"

Am I, then, a pantheist? Is this pantheism? I suppose there are a great many persons who feel that this changed conception of God is going to destroy the personality of the deity. Am I to think that there was a personal God 6000 years ago, or 60,000 years ago, or 600,000 years ago, and that today, when I can go out and see him painting the leaves and starting this fall the beginnings of a new year, a thousand times closer. We are in the presence of the great Divine personality.

The "light that lighteth every man" was always in the world and always will be. The light that is God is love and man has need of Him. The coming of Christ to the church was in order that the world might know that God is in the revelation of a perpetual incarnation; the revelation of an unseen but eternal presence.

God is in all nature. Thank God for the scientists, for they are thinking the thoughts of God after Him, whether they know it or not. God is in all humanity and every man is a child of God, whom we are endeavoring to bring back to his Father, God is in all history, forgiving and redeeming, as Christ was in Palestine, forgiving and redeeming. God is in human experience, inspiring, guiding, and leading. Our message to our congregations is not a mere interpretation of the Bible, but through ethics and philosophy and the creed and the sacraments, to bring this three-fold message: The message of science—"We are ever in the presence of an infinite and eternal energy from which all things proceed." The message of history—"There is a power not ourselves that makes for righteousness." The message of the future—"He is near, breathing, nearer than hands and feet." We are in the presence of Him. He is not far from any one of us; in Him we live and move and have our being."

THE READERS OF THIS PAPER will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Scott's Emulsion. It is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Lung disease, whether in its early stage, or advanced, requires a constitutional treatment. Scott's Emulsion is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the cause of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in its efforts to cure. Those who have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for every case that fails to cure, send for list of testimonials.

BECAME AN INDIAN

Story of White Boy Who Was Captured as Indian.

Went on Raid Into Texas and Passed Old Home.

Loyal Valley, Tex., Jan. 5.—The visit of Hermann Lehmann, a citizen of Indian Territory, to his mother, Mrs. Sophia Lehmann, who lives here, calls to mind the story of the boy who was captured as an Indian.

The boy, who was captured as an Indian, was a member of the tribe and accompanied them on many of their expeditions against the white settlers of West Texas. He was taken captive by a band of Comanches in 1892, when two years old and he made his home with the savages until he was 20 years old. His Indian name was "Herman," and he was recognized by the United States authorities that he was granted a headright certificate along with the Comanches and now makes his home on a valuable tract of land in Indian Territory, which he was given by the government.

Early in the summer of 1899 Comanches killed a number of white boys of the Indian Territory. The boy, who was captured as an Indian, was a member of the tribe and accompanied them on many of their expeditions against the white settlers of West Texas. He was taken captive by a band of Comanches in 1892, when two years old and he made his home with the savages until he was 20 years old. He lived here for several years, but it was a long time before he could be induced to sleep under the roof of the house of his mother. old when a United States army officer at Fort Sill learned of his early capture and interested himself in having the young man restored to his people. Lehman was willing to go to his parents if they were still alive. His mother was still living here. Her son was restored to her. A date was fixed for his home-coming. The people of Loyal Valley still have the remembrance of that happy event. Mrs. Lehman had many head of sheep, slaughtered and sold for a good price. The whole town was invited to partake.

It was a bright morning when the rumbling of a heavy wagon was heard coming down the road leading into the town from the west. A big blue army wagon by the side of the driver there sat a bronzed young man who steadily viewed the animated scene about him. That man was Hermann Lehman. He had lived with the Indians so long that even the fearful and joyous greeting which his mother gave him had no effect on his emotions. That was Lehman's home-coming.

WHEAT SLIGHTLY WEAKER THOUGH CHANGES ARE VERY SMALL.

Wheat slightly weaker though changes are very small.

Smaller receipts and good Northwestern demand—cables lower.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 5.—Wheat today opened steady and advanced moderately in the first hour or so, but fell off again to about the opening prices. The close was a little weaker than yesterday. Duluth May declining $\frac{1}{8}$ ¢, Minneapolis unchanged, Chicago $\frac{1}{8}$ ¢ lower and New York a shade lower. The smaller receipts especially in the Northwest appear to furnish the principal reason for higher prices, though the fact that low grade wheat in the Minneapolis cash market is so strong is another factor. The grain of that market is said to be beginning much earlier than usual. Cables, however, continue weak, and export trade was 164 lower. Bula Poth was 2¢ lower, Antwerp 1¢ lower, London 1¢ lower, Paris 1¢ higher. Corn and soybean stocks in the Northwest decreased 40,000 bushels, the month of December 1904.

Corn receipts at Duluth were 19, against 20 last year, and at Minneapolis 296, against 312 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 415, against 360 last year. Chicago received 17 against 15 last year. Primary receipts of wheat were 40,700 bushels, last year 63,520 bushels. Shipments 27,400 bushels, last year 26,000 bushels. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated $8,480.

Corn in the Liverpool market closed 15¢ lower. In the Chicago market May closed at $1.05, and at $1.05, and at $1.05. It fell back to $1.05 at 12:30, and at $1.05 at 1:30. The remainder of the session the price fluctuated between $1.05 and $1.05. The latter price was lower than yesterday, 2¢ under May for 1 northern and 1 southern, and 1¢ under May for 2 northern and 1 southern. The market will drop under the influence of the firm market at Minneapolis.

Flax was 1¢ higher, and at \$1.05, unchanged at \$1.05, and at \$1.05, unchanged at \$1.05. Oats lost $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ and rye closed without change. Following are the closing prices:

SENSATIONAL HEARING BEFORE COMMITTEE ON QUARLES BILL

Congressman Mann Administers Scathing Rebuke to Bacon.

Tells Milwaukee Man He Believes He Has Been Lying.

Other Congressmen Represent Statements Made By Mr. Bacon.

Washington, Jan. 6.—The meeting of the house committee on interstate commerce today was replete with sensational incidents. A hearing was being given to persons interested in the Cooper-Quarles bill. E. P. Bacon, of Milwaukee, chairman of the interstate commerce convention, was first heard. From the moment he took the stand until he left it Mr. Bacon was subjected to scathing rebuke by Mr. Mann, of Illinois, for certain statements made by him in a publication known as "Freight," as well as in public addresses. Mr. Mann quoted from a statement alleged to have been made by Mr. Bacon that owing to the opposition of the majority of the two committees of congress there was no possibility of legislation to further restrict the carriers.

"Do you think that was true?" inquired Mr. Mann.

Mr. Bacon answered that he believed it was true at the time.

"I know," angrily retorted Mr. Mann, "that was a libel and slander. I know it was false, and I believe you knew it was false."

Mr. Bacon calmly replied that he did not want to be classed as a falsifier, which only served to further anger Mr. Mann, who said that people who write articles must be held responsible for what they write.

Again reading from the publication referred to, Mr. Mann said it was stated in Mr. Bacon's address before the St. Louis convention that over three-fourths of the representatives in congress owed their presence there to the influence of the railroads, and he asked Mr. Bacon if that statement was his. Mr. Bacon answered that his remarks had been extemporaneous, but he had no recollection of making the statement.

"I believe," said Mr. Mann, "you thought you were in the country could go out and libel any number of congressmen. It is fortunate that people generally pay no attention to such statements."

Mr. Bacon insisted he never made the statement, and Mr. Mann said that four of the members of the house committee had declared they would permit no action on the part of the committee upon any bill until definite action was taken upon the Cooper-Quarles bill.

"We want to ascertain who those four men are," demanded Mr. Mann.

The witness, however, refused to answer saying it would not be proper for him to name them.

Mr. Shankland, of Missouri, then indignantly inquired "ask you, sir, if Mr. Shankland was one of them?"

"No, sir," was the reply.

"You went over to the Elkins bill," said Mr. Mann, "and because the committee would not follow you fast enough, you are under the influence of the railroads."

Mr. Bacon denied making the statement and added that he had kept certain elements and interests in regard to the proposed legislation.

The witness admitted that after the revised Elkins bill was agreed upon he had endeavored to have it become law.

Mr. Mann then spoke of a banquet given at the Union League Club, in Chicago, at which he said an attempt was made to influence him in favor of the Elkins bill.

"I laugh," said Mr. Mann, "at the attempt of that kind and said the pooling clause of that bill and said it had as much chance as snow flakes in hell."

POISON SQUAD REASSEMBLES

Artificial Coloring Is to Be Tried on Them.

Washington, Jan. 6.—The so-called "poison squad," consisting of department of agriculture clerks who have volunteered for service in carrying out the food preservation and coloring matter and experiments of chemist Wiley, will reassemble next Monday and continue the experiments until March, probably concerning the effects of artificial coloring of food on the system. They will then have a respite until the middle of April, when the work will be resumed until July 1. While continuance of these experiments beyond that date has not been finally determined upon, it is probable that during next year a similar squad will be used under the same strict rules to carry on experiments as to food storage food products. These tests will have in view the determining of the exact effect of cold storage on foods and the rapidity of the development of bacteria under cold storage conditions.

FIGHT DECLARED OFF.

San Francisco, Jan. 6.—The match between Joe Gans and Jimmy Gardner, scheduled to take place in this city on Jan. 27, has been declared off. Gardner, who has been refused to appear, saying he had a fight on in Denver on the 25th. As a substitute for this event, Frankie Nell, of this city, and Tommy Murphy, of Philadelphia, have agreed to meet at banquet weights.

SPECIAL SESSION OF STATE LEGISLATURE

Work Hampered By Delay of Statute Commission's Report.

Speaker Clague Carrying Out His Ideas of Economy.

Member Creates Sensation By Cutting Down His Message.

FROM THE HERALD, ST. PAUL BUREAU.

St. Paul, Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The principal thing that is complicating the legislative situation now is the delay of the report of the commission to revise the statutes. It is not at all improbable that either there will be a special session following the regular one, or that there will be an adjournment of the session until the report is ready for the consideration of the legislature. Senator Wilson's resolution yesterday, appointing a committee to interview the commission and the printers that are getting out his report, is designed to find out just what the situation is, and upon its report depends the action of the senate on this point. The work of the legislature.

DR. J. A. GATES, Of Kenyon, Minn., the Only Man in the Legislature Who Went on Record for Van Sant for United States Senator.

REV. R. HEBER NEWTON BELIEVES IN SPIRITS

Eminent Divine Says the Dead Communicate With the Living.

New York, Jan. 6.—Discussing psychical science in an address delivered at a meeting of the American institute for scientific research, the Rev. Dr. R. Heber Newton has made the assertion that the spirits of the dead communicate with the living, that telepathy is a power possessed by many men and women, that clairvoyance is an established science fact, that it may be possible for men to carry hails about their heads, and in short, that a variety of beliefs regarded by the majority of persons as superstitious, can be demonstrated as truths.

"I know a woman of fine culture and high character," he said, "who will not trade her gift for commercial purposes, but who has a most remarkable power, known as psychometry, the power of holding a sealed letter in her hand and giving a diagnosis of the physical condition of the writer and a picture of his character; of taking a bit of stone from an ancient villa of Cleopatra, for example, and of its nature, which is entirely unknown to her, and calling up a vision of the villa as it existed in Cleopatra's time, and of its owner. She is incapable of fraud and her case is but one of others which I know."

"Mesmerism was laughed out of court at the opening of our century, and it is back again, in good standing, under the alias of 'Hypnotism.' So one may run on through a list of strange, unaccountable, mysterious and most unbelievable powers of man, leading up to that nightmare of the dogmatic scientist, Spiritism."

"For the first time in the history of man these powers have been scientifically investigated in our day. Already the result is that a considerable number of eminent men of science have had the courage to allow that after allowing for illusion, fraud and every possible hypothesis of interpretation, they have been driven up to the ultimate solution of the problem—the belief in the actual communication of the spirits of those whom we call dead, with the living."

"The possibilities of mental medicine are only being opened. Its application to the most distressing forms of human malady, insanity, is full of beneficent results. Its potency in character reform and the cure of the drink habit seems vast and heroic."

"Religious faith is finding its true foundations in the recognition of man's spiritual nature. A being who once had dominion over nature given to him, as the child of a vaster spiritual being, the Lord of all life."

UNKNOWN VESSEL WRECKED ON THE REEFS OF MANGAIA

San Francisco, Jan. 5.—The schooner O. M. Kellogg arrived here from Rarotonga, brings the first news that the remains of a big four-masted British ship, name unknown, lies on the reefs that surround the island of Mangaia. Nothing is known here in local shipping circles of any wreck of the kind. There are several sailing vessels of large tonnage bound out from Australia, which may have met disaster in that part of the Pacific, for they are not yet reported to have reached their destination. There are also other large British ships bound to this coast from Europe, which might have piled themselves upon the reefs of Mangaia, for it is fairly in the path of ships making for the North Pacific trades.

The wrecked ship is said to have been bound from Australia to some South American port when she ran on the Mangaia reef. It is surmised that the shipwrecked crew has reached either Aukland, or Tahiti before this time and will be heard from later.

A VALUABLE TRUNK DISAPPEARS

New York, Jan. 6.—Mrs. W. L. Cunningham, a young woman claiming Chicago as her home, has reported to the police that baggage stolen from her Tuesday last contained $10,000 worth of negotiable bonds in addition to clothing and jewelry valued at $400. Deciding to return to Chicago, she engaged an expressman but after sending off her luggage suddenly changed her mind about going and told the express agent to have her property returned.

A wagon was sent to the railroad station, but failed to return and several hours later the police picked up the horse and wagon down town. No trace has yet been found of the driver.

'FRISCO GAS PLANT Purchased By the Standard Oil Company.

San Francisco, Jan. 6.—The Chronicle today says: The entire stock and control of the San Francisco Gas & Electric corporation, which has been purchased by the Standard Oil company. The amount of money paid for the concern is not stated, but it is said to have been a good round sum. This is construed to mean another contest for the control of the lighting of San Francisco.

The San Francisco Gas & Electric corporation, which has been purchased by the Standard Oil company, is in a position where it must either sell out or fight.

THREE ITALIANS KILLED.

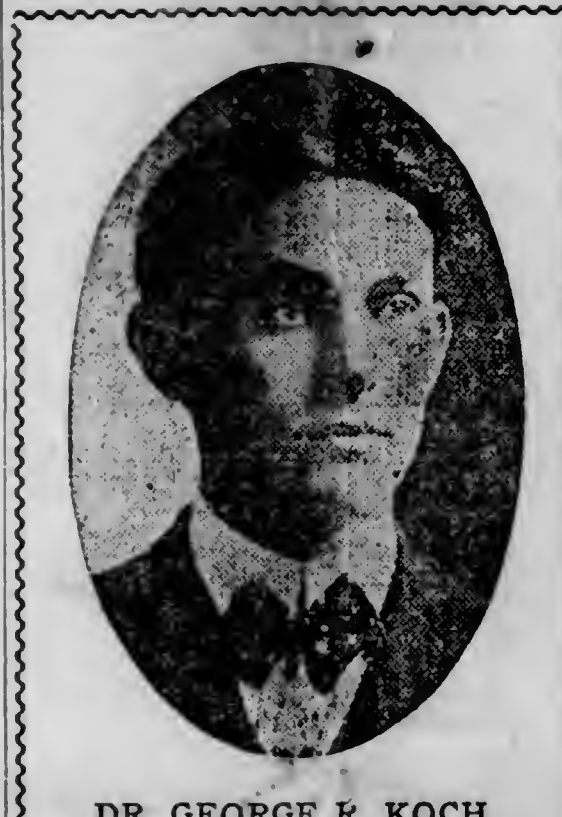

New York, Jan. 6.—Three Italian laborers on the Long Island railroad were struck and instantly killed by a passenger train at Dunton, L. I., today, and four others were badly hurt, one probably fatally. The men were in a gang of snow shovelers.

MURDERER SEEN

By William Cavanaugh In the Office of Dr. Gebhardt.

Had Only Partial View and Could Not Describe Him.

St. Paul, Jan. 6.—A special to the Dispatch from New Ulm, Minn., says: William Cavanaugh, the only man who, beside Editor Asa D. Brooks, looked over the transcript of Dr. L. A. Gebhardt's office on the night of Nov. 1, when Dr. Gebhardt was murdered, and saw the murderer in the room, testified today in the trial of Dr. G. R. Koch, charged with the crime, as to what he saw. He fixed the time at about 8:45 p. m. He said he was standing across the street from Dr. Gebhardt's office when Editor Brooks came over and told him that someone had been hurt or killed in Dr. Gebhardt's office, or that Dr. Gebhardt was pulling a tooth, but there was too much blood on the floor for a tooth pulling. They then went upstairs to the dentist's office. Brooks climbed on the stair-falling and looked through the transom and then got down and the witness looked in. He said he saw a man with dark hair and dark clothes walking along the wall but he could not see his face nor describe his height, as he could only see part of the man's body. When he got down from the stair rail Brooks was gone. Later when, with others, he entered Dr. Gebhardt's office he saw the body of Dr. Gebhardt lying face down in a large pool of blood and a dark pencil was floating on top of the blood.

This pencil is one of the state's main links in its alleged chain of evidence against Dr. Koch. It was a pencil bearing advertising marks of a local business man who had, that evening, given out a certain number to several men playing cards in a law office, and among whom was Dr. Koch.

Thirteen witnesses in all were put by the state in an endeavor to fix

WOMEN STRIKERS BOMBARD FACTORY.

New York, Jan. 6.—Women to the number of 600, employed in a tobacco factory at Pricas, have struck for increased pay, says a Herald dispatch from Milan. They bombarded the factory with stones. The prefect of the province of Milan, advised Stahl, the drug store of J. E. Koenig & Company, and two flats. The loss is $3,000 about two-thirds insured.

FIRE AT FOND DU LAC, WIS.

Fond Du Lac, Wis., Jan. 6.—Fire on North Pond Du Lac, today, damaged the Babcock block and destroyed the rest of the shoe store. Bart & Stahl, the drug store of J. E. Koenig & Company, and two flats. The loss is $3,000 about two-thirds insured.

SIMPLE BUT IMPRESSIVE RITES MARKED FUNERAL OF THOMAS

Chicago, Jan. 6.—The funeral of Thomas, who died in St. James' Episcopal church took place today with simple rites. By the request of the family, no floral offerings were sent. Denial of the Chicago Federation of Musicians request to furnish a large band was made when it was decided not to have an elaborate funeral, and the Rev. James S. Stone was even requested to refrain from a special sermon. Only the burial service of the Episcopal church was said. Although simple the service was imposing by reason of the notable attendance of musicians and of the choir, which sang the hymns of the "Wind Chime" of the orchestra, which gave chorals from Bach and Beethoven.

The Chicago orchestra attended as an organization at the church and afterward formed part of the cortege to the receiving vault at Graceland cemetery, where the body will be kept until forwarded for interment to New York.

GOV. DURBIN SAYS POLITICAL CORRUPTION MUST BE STOPPED

Indianapolis, Jan. 6.—Winfred T. Durbin, retiring governor of Indiana, in his annual message to the legislature today, said that the most serious political corruption of the time has come for the application of drastic remedial measures to the plague of corruption which is fastening itself upon our politics to an extent appalling to those who look forward to the ultimate in the way of progress that has been made along these lines in recent years. I am informed by unquestioned authority that in a single county in Indiana casting in 1902 a little more than 5000 votes there were in the last campaign nearly 1200 voters regularly listed as purchasable and that $15,000 raised by assessment from candidates and otherwise were spent by the contending political parties in the effort to control the county.

"Instances have come to my attention during the past few weeks wherein contests for township trustees votes have been bought and sold for $100 each. Our present need is legislation framed in the light of a clearer conception of the enormity of the offense involved in the purchase of a vote."

PAROLED OFFICERS TO BE SENT HOME BY WAY OF NAGASAKI JAPAN

JAMES GILLESPIE FOUND GUILTY OF KILLING SISTER

JAMES GILLESPIE.

Rising Sun, Ind., Jan. 6.—James Gillespie, who with his sister, Mrs. Belle Steward, and Mrs. Myron Barbour, was indicted for the murder of his twin sister, Miss Elizabeth Gillespie, was last night found guilty, and sentenced to life imprisonment. The other defendants will be tried separately. The trial lasted five weeks and was bitterly fought throughout.

Miss Elizabeth Gillespie was shot and instantly killed by a person outside the house while she was in the parlor of her home, preparing to entertain a woman's literary club.

NAN PATTERSON REFUSED BAIL

Must Remain in Prison Pending a New Trial.

New York, Jan. 6.—Justice Greenbaum of the New York state supreme court today denied the application of Nan Patterson for bail, pending a new trial on the charge of the murder of Caesar Young.

COLORADO CONTEST To Be Placed With Committee of Fifteen.

Denver, Jan. 6.—At a joint caucus of Republican members of the legislature, which lasted until 1 o'clock this morning, it was decided to place the gubernatorial contest into the hands of a committee of fifteen. This committee will make an investigation of the alleged frauds committed at the election in Denver and report recommending a policy to be pursued. The date set for the submission of this report is Monday, Jan. 9.

LUMBERJACK SUICIDES.

Aitkin, Minn., Jan. 6.—Steadfastly in the night, Axel Carlson, a laborer in a logging camp near here, slipped from his bunk, secured a new Springfield rifle which he had just purchased, crawled back to bed and placing the end of the barrel in his mouth, pulled the trigger. Death was instantaneous. Carlson was 28 years old, unmarried, and came from Red Wing.

Significant Order Regarding Stoesel and Others Issued.

All the Regular Russian Troops March Out of Port Arthur.

Non-Combatants Are Allowed the Option of Remaining in City.

Tokio, Jan. 6.—Gen. Stoesel and the other Russian officers who will leave Port Arthur on parole, will return to their homes via Nagasaki.

At Port Arthur with the Third Japanese army, via Fusan, Jan. 6.—Only eighty Russian officers have accepted parole. All the regular Russian troops have marched out of Port Arthur and will leave for Port Dalny today. Japanese troops entered the city yesterday to keep order. Non-combatants are allowed the option of remaining at Port Arthur.

The Japanese navy is removing mines and the Japanese hulks at the harbor mouth. All the forts have been taken over by the Japanese.

SHIP IS SAFE.

The Kniaz Zouvaroff Not Sunk as Reported.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 6.—Reports that Vice Admiral Rojestvensky's flagship, the battleship Kniaz Zouvaroff, has struck a rock and sunk, are unfounded.

GENERALS MEET.

Nogi and Stoesel Have a Personal Interview.

Headquarters of the Third Japanese Army, Jan. 6, via Fusan.—A meeting between Gen. Stoesel and Gen. Nogi took place yesterday at Shushi village. The hour fixed for the meeting was noon, but owing to a misunderstanding of the time, Gen. Stoesel arrived at 10:40 o'clock and was received by a lieutenant. Gen. Stoesel remained at Fusan Tree cottage until 11 o'clock. When Gen. Nogi arrived with his staff, the two generals met in a room of the cottage and after an exchange of greetings held a long conference. When they emerged from the cottage they were escorted by Gen. Stoesel's mounted horse and returned to Port Arthur.

MILLIONS OF RATS Made Into Ear Muffs For Japanese Soldiers.

Tokio, Jan. 6.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—When the time came to forward the winter outfits for the armies in Manchuria and the commissariat produced hundreds of thousands of rats for the Japanese soldiers. The rats were made into ear muffs for the Japanese soldiers. The rats were made into ear muffs for the Japanese soldiers. The rats were made into ear muffs for the Japanese soldiers.

It seems that two years ago the plague was raging along the coast of China. The Japanese quarantine bureau decided that strenuous efforts must be made to keep the dread disease out of the country. They began by starting a crusade. In all the seaports and larger cities bounties were offered for each rat brought in. The small boys found this a great source of revenue and the competition at once became very keen. For each rodent the hunters were given a small sum and a lottery ticket. The money he might squander, but the ticket he saved, and at the end of the month there was a drawing, with prizes varying from $5 to $50. Rat catching became a popular amusement, and the boards of health all over the country were kept busy examining the daily bag. Each animal was duly registered and examined and if any suspicious germs were discovered the building from which the rat came was immediately raided, all the animals were hunted down and the place was disinfected.

In this manner the plague was kept out of Japan. The small boys amused themselves and made money, but no one ever stopped to think of what had become of the skins of these millions of rats that had been worrying the boards of health. They had not been thrown away. The military authorities had used them to make ear protectors.

PASSIONATE PLEA By Russian Editor For Continuation of War.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 6.—Regarding the peace talk abroad, M. Souvorin, editor of the Novo Vremya, in a signed editorial in that paper today, passionately declares that the voice of the nation should give an answer in order that the world might understand once for all Russia's position. The emperor, he added, should consult with representatives of the land as his predecessors did before the days of John the Terrible. While papers abroad now say that peace could be concluded without dishonor, if peace were made they would declare it disgraceful. What the people want he (M. Souvorin) cannot affirm, but the idea of ending the war at this juncture is abhorrent to him, and he believes, to the Russian people. If the inscription on the banners of demonstrators and the ac-

RUSSIAN SHIPS

Sunk By the Japanese at Port Arthur.

Tokio, Jan. 6, 10:30 a. m.—The navy department announces that the Japanese naval force at Port Arthur has sunk the following Russian war vessels in the harbor.

Torpedo boats: The Gaidamak and Fusatouk.

Torpedo boat destroyers: The Jetirny, Sisk and Boevok.

The armored cruiser Bayan is lying on the South coast of the harbor severely damaged, and the gunboat Bohr is entirely burned as the result of the Japanese shelling.

The Russian battleships sunk at Port Arthur have not yet been officially inspected. The portions of those destroyed by the Russians at the last moment seem limited above water. As there are no signs of interior explosions it is hoped that the damage done to them will be repairable. The docks are partially destroyed and filled in, the gates also being damaged. The great crane is intact and serviceable.

HEAVY GUN FIRE By Russians For the Past Three Days.

General Oku headquarters, via Fusan, Jan. 6.—During the last three days the Russian bombardment has been the heaviest in six weeks. For two days following the fall of Port Arthur, the Russian heavy guns have been brought into use and there have been firing almost constantly. The bombardment is unchanged and there is no indication of movement being made in the near future. The Japanese are using their searchlights on the great heights and there are nightly celebrations of the fall of Port Arthur.

CONGRATULATE EMPEROR.

Tokio, Jan. 6.—The diet at a special session today adopted a resolution expressing the emperor on the success of the year's campaigning clima in the fall of Port Arthur, attributed it to the emperor's wisdom and the virtue and thank General Nogi and the Third army for their glorious achievement.

CANNOT FIND THE WITNESS

Mrs. Gelsheuen Evades Officers on Dodge-Morse Case.

New York, Jan. 6.—W. R. Gelsheuen, a son of Mrs. William B. Gelsheuen, widow of a millionaire banker, and a number of servants employed in the Gelsheuen mansion, appeared before the grand jury today in connection with the investigation of the Dodge-Morse case. An attempt was made yesterday to serve a subpoena upon Mrs. Gelsheuen for her appearance before the grand jury, which was begun yesterday and continued today was unsuccessful. Assistant District Attorney Garvan, who is assisting Mr. Rand in presenting the case to the grand jury, said that his officers who have been watching the Gelsheuen house told him that fifteen or twenty trunks were taken from the house today marked "S. S. Deutman" and addressed to "Nassau, N. Y."

The "Deutschland" will sail tomorrow from Hoboken, N. J. Whether Mrs. Gelsheuen preceded her baggage to New Jersey and is therefore out of the jurisdiction of the New York officers or is still in this city, is not known at the district attorney's office.

FRANCE AND MOROCCO COME TO UNDERSTANDING.

Washington, Jan. 6.—France and Morocco have settled their recent misunderstanding and the French minister at Tangier, is proceeding to the court of the sultan for an audience. This news comes to the state department in a cablegram from Mr. Philip, the American vice consul at Tangier, who also says that no foreigners will leave the capital in view of the outlook for peace.

KILLED BY CARS

Julius Berg Mangled Under Wheels of Missabe Train.

Boy Leaped From Train To Frozen Snow Bank.

Jumping from a moving passenger train on the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road yesterday afternoon, resulted in the death of Julius Berg, a 12-year-old Ashland boy.

The lad was in Duluth visiting his uncle, Swan Anderson, of 2123 West First street, who is engineer on the Missabe road. He had repeatedly begged his uncle to take him to the range, and yesterday Mr. Anderson consented. He was taken up to Hibbing on the morning train yesterday, and after visiting the mines returned on the afternoon train, which arrives in Duluth at 2:40 p. m.

His uncle had cautioned him about jumping from the train while it was moving, but as it was slowing down for the station at Twenty-eighth avenue west, he determined to jump off the back of the train. He was struck by the wheels of the engine, and his body was hurled into the air, falling into the snow bank at the side of the track, expecting to fall in the soft snow. The drift was frozen hard, however, and the boy losing his footing rolled down under the wheels of the slowly moving train.

Eystanders on the platform were horrified to see the boy disappear under the coach and as soon as the train passed they rushed to the spot and found the body lying in a bloody heap beside the rails.

The boy's uncle did not see the accident, but was informed a moment later. He wept as the mangled little body was placed in the coach to be taken to the Union depot, where the ambulance had been summoned to meet it.

From the depot the body was taken to St. Mary's hospital, where an examination disclosed the fact that one arm had been torn from the socket, one leg cut off the other broken. The jaw was fractured and the scalp was torn from the skull. The boy died a few hours later without recovering consciousness.

His father, who owns a retail meat market in Ashland, has been notified of the sad accident and is expected to arrive in the city today to take charge of the funeral arrangements.

ANOTHER ENCOUNTER.

Baku, Caucasus, Jan. 6.—An encounter between strikers and Cossacks took place at Balakhan, Trans-Caucasia yesterday. Six strikers and one Cossack were killed and many persons were wounded.

CLUB HOLDS ITS ELECTION

Joseph B. Cotton Chosen President of Republican Organization.

The annual election of the Garfield Republican club, held last evening in Axa hall, resulted as follows: Joseph B. Cotton, president; John H. Norton, first vice president; C. E. Adams, second vice president; C. P. Earl, secretary; C. F. Wyberg, treasurer; George Randall, sergeant-at-arms; executive committee, W. L. Windom, A. P. Cook and R. D. Haven. President J. B. Cotton, John P. Johnson and E. L. Millar were selected as a committee on arrangements for the club's annual banquet, which will be held on Washington's birthday. It found practicable.

The organization will make a strong effort to see that the whole city is thoroughly canvassed for the coming election. A resolution was adopted authorizing the executive committee to select a member from each ward to act as an auxiliary body, with Guy A. Eaton chairman of the city committee. Several of the members delivered remarks on matters of interest to the club. Mr. Cotton ably expressed his appreciation of the honor conferred upon him by his election as president, and Mr. Norton also thanked brother members for the honor of being chosen first vice president. City Comptroller W. S. McCormick delivered a declaration on "The Inspiration of the Emancipation Proclamation." Other speakers were Sheriff W. J. Bates, R. D. Haven, C. E. Adams, Judge J. D. Holmes, Guy A. Eaton, E. L. Jefferson and others. A resolution was adopted in praise of E. L. Millar for the manner in which he has worked in the club's interests.

STARVES TO BECOME RICH

Philadelphia Woman Who Was Found Dead, Wanted Wealth.

Philadelphia, Jan. 6.—A secret ambition to be as rich as Hetty Green was the motive which drove Miss Elizabeth Stork, the aged woman found dead in her home at 205 Pine street, to live the life of a poverty-stricken beggar, which caused her death.

Owner of two houses, with money in bank and at every hand, the woman denied herself every comfort in order to further her ambition. Her only friend, Mrs. Angeline Caen, of 437 Spruce street, realized that much living alone had made Miss Stork slightly insane and so listened to her wanderings sympathetically and did all she could for the old woman's physical comfort.

"Often and often," said Mrs. Caen, "she would say to me with a mysterious air, 'I shall be rich some day—' rich as Hetty Green. Oh, I am not a fool! I spend nothing; I save everything. No one knows how much I am worth save myself. But I am not rich enough yet. I must save more, still more.' She would go on like that for hours. I often tried to get her to spend a little money for a hired girl or nourishing food or new clothes, but she wouldn't do it. I felt so sorry for her, living worse than a dog, yet with plenty of money. I used to take her something to eat every day. She always ate it indeed, she would eat anything that was given her, and if nothing was given her she would pick scraps of food from some one's garbage."

STRANGE MARITAL History of the Noble English Family.

Edinburgh, Jan. 6.—The recent divorce action brought by the countess of Stair in the court of session at Edinburgh adds another to the long list of peculiar circumstances in connection with marriages which have occurred in the Dalrymple family. One of these, which occurred early last century, was interesting details when connected with the brief announcement in the peerage of the earl of Stair, which took place in 1868, was annulled a year later on the ground of a previous contract being proved valid, but full particulars are given in the records of the house of lords.

At the time of the introduction of wooden matches in Scotland, a miserably-clad and starved-looking woman, with two or three children, used to sit at the end of Princes street, in Edinburgh, near the present postoffice, offering the new lights for sale. A solicitor's clerk passing by one day stopped to buy a box, and, struck by the uncommon appearance of the woman, began to question her as to her circumstances. By degrees he elicited her story, and, convinced of the justice of her case as the legal wife of the Hon. H. Dalrymple, who later succeeded to the earldom of Stair, he took up the matter, with the result that her marriage, contracted privately, when she was acting as governess, was fully established at law. Her husband's subsequent marriage was duly annulled and the ex-matrimonial seller assumed her proper position as his countess.

TOOK GROCERIES. The Burglars Carried off Flour and Soap.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 6.—"I don't care if flour goes up to $12 a barrel now, I've got mine." This note was the greeting which Benjamin Schnep saw when he entered his grocery at Twenty-eighth and Madison streets and found that it had been looted by thieves, who had done their work on such a wholesale plan that they were forced to use a wagon to carry away the booty.

Four barrels of flour and six boxes of soap are among the articles which Mr. Schnep has missed. The thieves also took a great quantity of groceries, which he is unable yet to estimate the amount.

Entrance to the store was gained by breaking the glass in the front door. The doors were then thrown open and the barrels of flour rolled to the wagon, which had evidently been stopped in the street directly in front of the store. The marks of the methods used in taking out the flour were plain to be seen.

Bride-to-Be Becomes the Beneficiary of His Will.

Cincinnati, Jan. 6.—True to the woman who would have become his bride on Christmas day, Charles Burdick, a wealthy real estate man and proprietor of a large hotel in the West, who died two months ago at his home in Sulphur Springs, Ind., by his will left to Mrs. Ella Fox, 3355 Elmore avenue, $10,000 and a half interest in the hotel. Mrs. Fox was so informed a few days after his death by his partner, Edward Hart, of Sulphur Springs, to whom he confided his secret a short time before his death. Heartbroken by his death, she was critically ill for several days after receiving the news. After recovering sufficiently to be able to travel she left for Burdick's home to look after her interests, still believing some mistake had been made as to the amount of money and property left to her. She returned recently, and, when seen by a reporter, said: "I have investigated the matter and find it just as reported to me by Mr. Hart. We were to have been married Christmas day, but now my intended wedding day will be a sad one for me. I had known him about a year. We were introduced by a mutual friend. The friendship soon ripened into love and he asked me to marry him. "We would have been so happy. I know, for he was so good to me. Although we were engaged to marry, I had no idea he would leave me anything. I will take charge of the hotel soon."

TUCKER TRIED FOR MURDER

Father of Mabel Page, First Witness For Prosecution.

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 6.—Edward Page, the father of Mabel Page, for whose murder Charles L. Tucker is on trial, was the first witness yesterday. Mr. Page, who is 78 years old, and quite feeble, told his story in a faltering voice. Several times he broke down completely. Throughout the recital the accused man sat impassive, but listening attentively to the old man's story.

Mr. Page's testimony related entirely to his own movements on the day of the murder and what occurred in the house upon the discovery of his daughter's body. His story added nothing to the known facts in the case. Attorney James H. Vahey, for the defense, cross-examined Mr. Page, asking many questions about his movements on the morning of March 13.

Mr. Vahey then explained to Mr. Page that he would be obliged to ask him a pointed question in order that the question and answer might be put on record. The question was: "Mr. Page, was your daughter a modest woman?"

"The old man drew himself up to his fullest height. His face reddened with anger and he did not answer. "I believe she was," said Mr. Vahey, "but I want your answer for the record. Was your daughter a modest woman?"

"Superlatively so," replied Mr. Page, slowly.

Mr. Page said that he had never seen Tucker until he was in the custody of the police. The testimony of Dr. Julian Mead, who followed Mr. Page, occupied much time. The description of Miss Page's wounds was most exhaustive and following the precedent adopted in the recent Nan Patterson trial, the prosecution introduced a part of a skeleton for use in this testimony. A question as to whether the witness should be shown and asked to identify the pieces of a broken knife alleged to have been found in Tucker's home, as an instrument with which the wounds could have been made, was decided in favor of the prosecution. The prosecution contended that the knife was wrongfully procured from Tucker's home.

Dr. H. D. Frost, who was summoned to Miss Page's home the afternoon her body was discovered, was called to the stand and corroborated Dr. Mead's testimony.

WOMAN EXPECTED GIFT From Her Husband and Got Divorce Notice.

Chambersburg, Pa., Jan. 6.—Deserted, as she says, by her husband, who took their 7-year-old son with him, Mrs. George A. Durga, wife of a Mercersburg man, awaits the arrival of her brother, O. H. Dickey, of Waltham, Mass., to help her out of her plight.

A subpoena of divorce was served upon her by Deputy Sheriff Martin as she sat in the parlor of the McKinley hotel. Shortly after supper the day after Christmas, the husband told her he and the boy would go and buy her a Christmas gift. They were met by a livery man, who drove them to Scotland, where they boarded an eastbound train.

Mrs. Durga says her husband is infatuated with another woman, and has instituted the action that he may marry her.

"Human Hearts," which has become a pretty regular thing was again produced at the Lyceum last evening and drew an audience of considerable size. The play has a following that always assures it of good business and the standard of the company is steadily maintained. Last evening's cast was in fact stronger than the one that last presented the play here. It is a melodrama of the sensational type with villains and "villainesses" and all sorts of diabolical wickedness involving the hero, who finally emerges triumphant and vindicated.

THE DEVIL'S AUCTION.
The telephonic features introduced in Charles H. Yale's "Everlasting Devil's Auction" company will be of special interest to theatergoers as they will include the latest evolutions of the dramatic art. Among the novelties secured are a troupe of royal English dancers, direct from the Alhambra theater, London, England, whose grace, beauty and talent are highly praised. The company will be at the Lyceum tomorrow afternoon and evening.

A STAR ATTRACTION.
Manager Condon yesterday added immensely to the attractiveness of the vaudeville bill he will present next week at the Metropolitan by engaging Miss Josephine Sabel, now singing at the Chicago opera house, to get her to appear here. It took $30 to get her for the week but Manager Condon proposes to make the bill he offers one that will be a pair with any given in the best vaudeville theaters of the country. He proposes to find out whether Duluth wants vaudeville and will supply the best to be had. A feature of the week will also be that there will be no change in the regular prices that have prevailed at the theater.

WILLIAM COLLIER.
The first appearance here of William Collier since he became a star under the direction of Charles Frohman, is announced for Monday evening at the Lyceum. He will present the farce "The Dictator" written by Richard Harding Davis, the author of many successful plays and books. Excellent reports of the success of Mr. Collier have met with in this play have reached this city; it is said to suit him better than any in which he has appeared.

DIED IN JAIL.
Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 6.—John Mattson, aged about 40 years, a porter in one of the Hibbing saloons, died last night in the city jail from alcoholism. He has no known relatives and will probably be buried by the county.

LITTLE BABE WAS BURNED

To Death By the Father Is Charge of Wife.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 6.—Upon the fearful charge of having held his 4-week-old babe over a fire in an open grate in their dwelling, until it was burned to death, Ollie Cannon, a painter of this city, was arrested and charged with murder. The complaint was made by his wife, and the crime is alleged to have been committed six years ago.

In her affidavit, the wife, Mamie Cannon, alleges that her husband declared that the child was illegitimate in that it was born only six months after their marriage, and that for this reason he was always cruel to the child from the time it came into the world until it died. Among the witnesses cited to appear against Cannon are Dr. L. N. Simmons, who attended the child, and Mrs. Fannie Roby, the mother of Mrs. Cannon, who was with the family at the time, and who said to have taken the child from his possession at the time he burned it to death.

The couple are separated, and this action was taken by the wife as a retaliation to an effort upon the part of Cannon to obtain possession of two other children. The accused man declares that it is all spite work, and that the charges have been trumped up against him in order to get him out of the way. The children in dispute are girls, and he declares that they are being brought up amid evil surroundings and that his desire to take them away has led to his incarceration on the charges named above. He was given an examining trial and committed to jail in default of $500 bail.

HARD LUCK
Dealt Out to Employee of a Sawmill.

Montgomery, W. Va., Jan. 6.—Carroll Burns can tell a story of hard luck that is astonishing. About two months ago while leaning against a piece of framework in the sawmill where he was employed, his arm slipped and precipitated him upon the saw, cutting off the arm just below the elbow.

When just cutting off the arm again from this wound, a companion swept into the fire a 35-caliber Winchester cartridge, which exploded, and the ball penetrated the eye of Burns, destroying his sight.

This week while showing a friend at the mill how the accident with the saw occurred, he slipped again and cut off the remaining portion of the arm up to the saw.

COLD IN ITALY.
New York, Jan. 6.—Severe cold continues in the principal towns of Italy, according to a Herald dispatch from Rome. A heavy snow has fallen in Naples and in Bari. The rivers Orto, Oglio and Cevere are frozen over. It is reported from Como that eleven Swiss have been frozen to death while making an ascent of Mount St. Bernard.

ALL HOME GROWN

No Western Potatoes Are Being Imported This Season

Mid-Winter Dullness Reported By the Commission Houses.

No Western potatoes are being brought in to Duluth and the head of the lakes this year, while last year they were the only source of supply for the local market.

"The Western potatoes cannot compete with the Minnesota crop this year," said a commission man, in explaining the lack of shipments from the West. "The Minnesota crop was a very large one this year, and it did not suffer from rot the way last year's crop did. The result has been that the price has been kept down to about 28 cents a bushel wholesale. The crop has also been very large throughout the West, but the freight rates prevent the Western potatoes from being shipped in here for a price that will permit them to compete with the local crop."

"Last year practically every potato sold in Duluth after Dec. 1 was imported. The local supply was so poor and the crop rotted so rapidly, that the dealers did not handle them at all, but imported all they required from Colorado and other Western states. The price for the last year ranged from 75 cents to $1.50 per bushel, and it was an easy matter for the Western potatoes to compete with the local crop."

"We look as if the local crop would last until the new potatoes begin to come in, and I do not expect to see any importations this year. In spite of all predictions of a rise, the price still remains at 28 cents, and they are apparently plentiful at that figure."

"We have gone into winter quarters now," he continued, in speaking of trade conditions for the week. "Since New Year's, business has dropped off until there is very little stirring along the street. Of course, we expect that in our business every winter. During the months of January, February and March, there are no features on the market to stimulate trade. In April strawberries commence to come in, and in spite of all predictions of a rise, the price still remains at 28 cents, and they are apparently plentiful at that figure."

"We always carry out this full season, however, and take advantage of it to work in our vacations and take stock."

Cranberries are continuing steadily on their upward flight. The rise in the price of fresh cranberries has been remarkable features of the commission business of the year. It started at about 85¢ per barrel, but has since risen to 1.25¢ per barrel. From that time, they have been steadily rising. The Thanksgiving demand boosted the price about the 8¢ mark, and the Christmas demand put it up to 10¢. The New Year's trade boosted it still further, and they are now quoted at 12¢ and 13¢ per barrel. It is difficult to secure them even at that price.

Egg receipts have been lighter during the last week, and the price of fresh eggs is firm at 26 cents with storage quoted at 25 cents.

"The blizzard just about put the hens of the Northwest out of business for the time being," said an egg dealer yesterday.

Poultry prices are a little higher this week. Spring chickens are quoted at 12 cents, hens at 10 cents and turkeys at 18 cents. The dealers report a quiet week, with but a small demand for poultry of any kind.

Fresh creamery butter is firm at 20 cents a pound, and dairies are quoted at 20 cents and upward. Large quantities of renovated butter are being prepared for the local trade and it has hitherto found a ready sale on account of the high price of the creamery.

There have been no changes in the prices of fruits and vegetables during the week, but they are all quoted at the prices which prevailed during the week before. New Year's Florida oranges are now out of the market, but the California fruit will continue to come in throughout the winter. There are now only a few weeks of the year when it is impossible to secure oranges from some part of the country.

Meat prices are the same as last week, with the single exception of pork chops which are quoted at 8 cents in place of 7 cents. Lard is also a fraction lower, being quoted at 7½ cents instead of 7½ cents.

TO SUPREME COURT
Harriman Will Take Court of Appeals Decision.

New York, Jan. 6.—That the Northern Securities case will be taken up to the United States supreme court upon a writ of certiorari by E. H. Harriman and the interests allied with him, was announced by W. D. Guthrie, counsel for the Harriman faction, yesterday. Copies of the decision of the United States court of appeals were received by counsel yesterday. On hearing of the decision, Mr. Guthrie said the application for the writ would be made to the supreme court as soon as it reconvenes. The court of appeals dissolved the injunction which had been secured by the Harriman interests restraining the distribution of the assets of the Northern Securities company and its subsidiaries in effect a defeat for the opponents of Mr. Harriman and Winslow S. Pierce to secure the return of the Northern Pacific stock which they turned over to the Northern Securities company and which was valued at $28,000,000. It is expected that a writ of certiorari from the United States supreme court will act as a stay and prevent temporarily the distribution of the Northern Pacific stock.

one of the coaches by the brakemen, but disappeared while the latter went to call the conductor. It was feared he had fallen off and been ground under the wheels and the train was stopped while the brakeman ran back along the track to look for his body. Meanwhile Johnston had climbed to the top of the coach and was peacefully sleeping, wrapped in his huge coat.

He was arrested when he climbed down at Duluth and fined $12 yesterday by Judge Holmes in municipal court, for trespass.

NO CONSPIRACY

To Control Meat Prices, Says Packer Swift.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of Swift & Co., here yesterday, was attended by a number of Eastern capitalists. Among those present were Dumont Clark, of New York; E. W. Swift, of Boston; and J. R. Rutledge, of New York. In an address to the stockholders, President T. P. Swift, said: "It is needless for me to say to those present, who are more or less familiar with the facts that the reports in circulation about the 'meat trust' are without foundation. There is absolutely no conspiracy or combination to control the prices of live stock, the sales of meat or packing house products. On the other hand, the packing industry is subjected to the severest kind of competition both in buying and selling and the percentage of profit on sales in the packing house industry is less than in other lines of business."

CONSCIENCE RELIEVED.

Pays Railroad For Coal Stolen In Childhood.

Arkansas City, Ark., Jan. 6.—President E. L. Klinebury of the Kansas Southwestern railroad has received a letter from a woman living in Oklahoma, enclosing 75 cents in payment for coal which, according to the letter, had been stolen by the woman when she was a child. The coal was taken from the station at Caldwell. The woman says she has been converted, which accounts for her desire to pay for it. The money was accepted and a new account started on the company's books, heretofore there being no need for a conscience fund.

HAS FREE RIDE.

Erick Johnston Sleeps on Top of Railway Coach.

Erick Johnston, of Grassport, had a ride to Duluth Wednesday on top of the Northern Pacific passenger coach, and slept the sleep of the just while the trainmen were wildly searching for his supposedly mangled remains. Johnston had been seen on the platform of

New York, Jan. 6.—With tear-stained face and hanging head Greer Jones, a strapping 18, stood before his mother in the public schools, and had been detected in the act of pawing half a dozen antique silver spoons, heirlooms in the family. His courage failed him when catcised by detectives and he confessed.

Young Jones is the son of James E. Jones, of No. 34 Hamilton terrace, who was formerly director of the Aquarium, in Battery Park. The boy was seen to paw the spoons in a Harlem pawnshop and was arrested by detectives.

"I had to take the spoons," he said, "for I have been playing poker and incurred some debts of honor. You know a gentleman must meet his debts of honor."

The detectives induced the mother to accompany them to the station house, where she identified the spoons as formerly the property of her grandmother, and prized above any of her possessions.

"Now we will show you the thief," said the unexpected confessor, and she flashed a scornful glance upon her son and said:

"My son was properly reared. He has all the spending money he needs. He has educated himself, his father and his mother. I shall leave him to spend the night in a cell, where he may meditate upon to fate of the gambler and the thief. Tonight his father and I will consult over our course."

WIVES MISUSED.

Two Granted Divorces on Ground of Cruelty.

Decrees were granted in two divorce cases in district court yesterday afternoon. Sarah Erickson was given a legal separation from Andrew Erickson on the grounds of ill-treatment. Both parties reside in Virginia. They were married in Sweden many years ago.

Mamie Faulkner was granted a decree of divorce from William Faulkner on the grounds of cruel treatment. They were married at Two Harbors in 1880.

GREETS OLD VALET.

Admiral Schley Singles Out Former Negro Servant.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 6.—The true democracy of Rear Admiral Schley was shown during his visit here as the guest of Zumbo Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, when he singled Harry Gross, a negro employee at the Commonwealth hotel, out of a large crowd gathered to meet him.

Gross was Schley's valet at Frederick, Md., many years ago, and the admiral expressed great pleasure at meeting his old servant at the time Gross was employed by Schley the old sailor was associated with his brother in the lime-burning business.

Women's Social Musical Club

"All this fuss and talk about the duty of a husband before she marries makes me tired and mad," said the business girl. "We've heard nothing for the last couple of years but the fact that woman is pushing herself into man's sphere of action, and taking some part in the business world, and now comes the astounding statement that she should be able to support a husband before contemplating matrimony. It's before contemplating matrimony. It's before contemplating matrimony. It's before contemplating matrimony."

The Junior Assembly will entertain this evening at a dancing party at the Masonic dancing hall.

Mrs. J. N. McKindley entertained informally this afternoon in honor of Mrs. Katherine Van Loon. Mrs. Van Loon will leave soon for Europe.

Mrs. Margaret Ross has gone to visit her brother, Duncan Ross, at Greenwood, B. C.

Mrs. O. A. Winter has returned from Ironwood, Mich., where she spent the holidays.

Miss Mae Ohala has returned from Grand, Wis., where she spent the holidays with her mother.

The Saturday club will resume its study tomorrow afternoon at the club room of the library. Mrs. John C. Swan will be the leader for the afternoon and the "Art of Spain" will be the subject. The following topics will be considered:

Antoinette de Lincon, Juan Sanchez de Castro.

"Principle, nothing," said the business girl. "How many women do you suppose raise a family and take care of a man now, and it's very seldom that one appeals to the public for assistance. I tell you when the business girls come out of ten will meet it without having that possibility to think of before taking of man for better or worse. Why don't men be consistent. They tell us to keep out of business, and, dear knows, most of us are anxious to, but how, will you tell me, is a woman going to be able to support a husband without having practice in the line of work she chooses for the purchase of a man? And one sure thing is, if we do housework to support these husbands, I know we won't all have to, but we'll have to know how. It takes me want to assume single blessedness for ever and ever when I even think of the things I'm to think of before I say 'yes' to a man who may expect to ask me and then have to add the thought of the support of a possible husband, and I'm disgusted with the whole business."

And the scene expressed in the business girls' tone was echoed to the leading lady of a melodrama in business for the whole season.

"You candid," said the business girl, "asked the mild girl to support of nothing at all, seemingly. 'Well, I suppose it means different things to different people, but to all surely means a little more candidness with one another. 'Well,' and the mild girl arrived at the point. 'I'm tired of your talk. Please shut up, won't you?'"

Make Women Graceful.

From the New York American: First of all there is just enough weight to the cue to test the muscles of the hand, as it does, bringing a little resistance in play, while the exercise "taking aim" affords is excellent.

To start off with the cue is hid in the right hand with the thumb and three or four fingers; then in order to balance your cue before making a shot the muscles of the wrist become fixed. While the left hand rests upon the table the passing of the taper end of the cue between the thumb and finger creates a slight strain upon the muscles of the left arm, so that the continued lifting and placing of the hand has the same effect on the left that the shooting has upon the right hand.

Again a woman stretching her arms far over the table to make a shot gives an exercise she seldom takes, a novice will experience considerable lameness after her first two or three games of billiards, but this soon disappears. The movement necessary to this stroke is excellent for her shoulders, and completes a combination of movements seldom found in any other physical exercise. With this added to loose clothing worn for the occasion, every woman who can devote a few hours daily to the billiard table may acquire as easy and graceful carriage which is natural to comparatively few women.

A PUPIL OF SPURZHEIM'S

By F. E. Lancaster.

(Copyright, 1904, by Daily Star Pub. Co.)

"The book," mildly objected Miss Molly Caldwell. "The book says 'prominence.'"

"I can't help what the book says," retorted her companion, tittering fashion on the floor with a philosophical chart in her lap. "I say, bumpy—and it is much the best word, too. I believe he has seen ghosts—he has the ghost-seer's bump over his forehead. And bump is ideal. Look at that bump of firmness on top of his head. And that bump of idealism over the temples. If he hadn't had idealism to burn to you suppose he could ever have fallen in love with Sarah Sand-put out my hand I could have touched his head."

Miss Molly accepted the change of tactics. "And you did it," she said with grim consciousness. "I didn't either. I could see. Can't you see that bump on top of his head? I know Henry Stothers is hard-headed. I don't look at his bumps and—"

"Of course. And I'm trying to find out what else he is," she mused over her chart. "Well, I think he has a perfect ridge along the edge of his temple but do you consider him witty?"

"Really, Mary, if you believed a man to have an atom of brains would you accuse him of having fallen in love with a spinsters years older than himself? A man of his size?"

"Why, Aunt Molly. But I don't mean wits. Why? Have you heard him say anything witty? You had a long chat with him yesterday. Please tell me. Miss Molly passed that memorable conversation in glowing review. The good-natured idleness with which she had schooled herself to suggest: "Dear lady, I'm a dozen years too old for your little girl." Mary looked up, dreamily from the chart. "He has a hold there."

"Oh, no. He has the kindest heart in the world. Why, he opened the gate yesterday for Rover when somebody had shut the poor fellow out. And then his—"

"Yes, sir; please don't joke." "Joke," Stothers pushed aside his despair and fell to examining calmly the long fingers. "I could not joke about my ghost," he said gravely.

"Then you have seen one?" "Almost every night for twelve years." "Didn't I tell you, Aunt Molly? Right above the forehead. Oh, please, Mr. Stothers, is it always the same ghost?" "Always the same. A young girl in a white dress. She comes down a moonbeam tearing a red rose to pieces. Always tearing it to pieces."

"It is too close in here for you, Molly. You look white. Come in the garden with me while I smoke. Please on." His hand closed over her arm with an authoritative pressure, but at the same time she could feel how cold his fingers were. "Please don't say anything," she pleaded incoherently.

"There is nothing to say, dear, except that we have just two weeks before the year is over and the Lord alone knows how many more we would have lost if it hadn't been for your little pupil, God bless her. Molly—Molly."

"WILLED BODY TO SCIENCE. Wanted Doctors to Learn His Heart Mystery."

Houston, Tex., Jan. 6.—In accord with a will which he left, the body of M. Patostor has been turned over to medical colleges at Galveston for clinical use. Patostor arrived in the city last week, and after engaging rooms in a boarding house, remained closely confined.

Although apparently robust, he complained of suffering much pain with his heart. Saturday he procured a vial of chloroform, and after writing a short note directing his body to be given to the nearest medical college, and especially asking that a careful examination be made of his heart, for the reason that troubles which had affected that organ had mystified physicians, he then drank the poison and in a few hours expired. In his grip was found his name and his home address given at 187 Ninety-seventh street, Philadelphia.

falling in love with poor old Sarah Sand-

"You have already used that to prove his idealism." "I do wish I could get hold of somebody's heart," said Molly. "Why not feel your own?" "It doesn't do any good. No matter where I find a bump, I imagine it's Stothers. I believe I'll ask Mr. Stothers if he has a ghost-seer's bump. Ah, ha. And he hasn't got prominent ones. I should say not. He has deepest eyes—and very fine ones."

"Of course, he has. That's the reason he threw down my volume of German poetry, and called it guttural conundrums."

Miss Molly laughed in spite of that even-present sense of uneasiness. I confess, Mary, you and you Spurzheim are too many for me."

"But it is so fine to see it all work right out. I'll bet he has seen ghosts. Oh, Aunt Molly, please let me feel your head—just a minute."

"Mary, have mercy on my hair." "Just your forehead. Oh, you are so good. See if it doesn't work. Bump over the corner of the eye? Order. And didn't at this house. Of course, didn't. Just above the nose? Individually. That's—oh, yes; eventually, good memory for events. Do you remember—"

"There is the dinner bell, Mary, and look at this house. Of course, didn't. But you do, don't you?" "Yes, yes. Run along." "Remember—"

Marion, Ind., Jan. 6.—Joseph Brad-wealthiest farmers of Grant county. He is a widower and has contracted the marrying habit. Two years ago he married a widow, but their wedded life was unhappy and he decided that he would go back to single blessedness.

That experience cost him $5000.

He saw an advertisement in an Indianapolis paper last week in which a young woman wanted a wealthy husband. He decided that he was just the man. He answered it and received a reply from a woman who said she was

Mrs. Martha Smith.

He sent for her to come to Marion to be married. She came. He was ready to take on the shackles again. She insisted that he must first deed her his farm.

He agreed to do this and went to a firm of lawyers to have the papers prepared. The attorneys, after a long talk, persuaded him not to be in a hurry.

He accepted their advice and the woman went home without husband or farm.

WITHDRAW CHARGES

Presenters in Talbot Case So Notify Bishop Bodine.

A New Presentment Will Probably Be Offered Soon.

Philadelphia, Jan. 6.—Presenters of Bishop Ethelbert Talbot, of the Central Pennsylvania diocese of the Protestant Episcopal church, have not repudiated the paper filed against him, last night formally withdrew the "charges in writing" made against the bishop by friends of the Rev. Dr. I. N. W. Irvine, a deposed priest, They reserve the right to present new "charges in writing."

The document was handed to the Rev. Dr. W. B. Bodine, president of the board of inquiry, to hear the case, late last night by J. Frederick Jenkinson, of Philadelphia, who spent the day in New York in conference with those interested in the case. After reading the withdrawal, Dr. Bodine said: "The charges against the bishop of Central Pennsylvania, having been withdrawn by the presenters, it has been hoped that arrangements may be made whereby a meeting of the board of inquiry could be avoided. As this has been found impracticable the meeting will take place as directed by the presiding bishop at 10 a. m., on Tuesday, Jan. 10. The place of meeting will be in the mansion house in the city of Reading."

The withdrawal is dated Jan. 2, and is addressed to Bishop Tuttle, to whom a copy has been sent. The document begins by saying that all the signers to the present paper knew the contents and the purpose of the "charges in writing," and enumerates the charges as follows: "Crime-to-wit, a criminal libel," "immorality, to-wit, false statements," "breach of ordination and consecration vows," "conduct unbecoming a bishop."

Continuing the document says: "We are in possession of such proof as is sufficient in our opinion to put the Right Rev. Ethelbert Talbot, D.D., LL.D., upon his trial. We believed, and still believe that the grounds are sufficient to put the accused bishop upon his trial. The charges were formulated in order that the manifest scandal in the church and the disgrace of the office of the said Right Rev. Ethelbert Talbot should be inquired into by the board of inquiry in the expectation and belief that the board would direct the church advocate to present a presentment to be signed by such of the board as agree thereto."

The paper then states that since the board of inquiry was appointed the canon laws have been changed; that a bishop is now not liable to be tried for breach of his consecration vows, nor longer liable to be tried for "conduct unbecoming a bishop." In the canon existing when the "charges in writing" were made these offenses were among those for which a bishop could be tried. The "charges," the withdrawal says, were sent to W. G. Miller, of Huntington, with a request to procure signatures thereto, upon returning the document to Dr. Irvine, Mr. Miller sent a letter in which he said: "Dear Doctor: Your letter to hand, and I send you the same by mail herewith with six names, the very best I could get in such a short time. Hope it may bring about the matter all o. k. They all seemed very glad to sign the paper, if it would help you in any way."

After the names of the signers had been published, the paper says, Dr. Irvine learned through the newspapers that the Huntington signers had repudiated the document. Continuing, the withdrawal says: "As incomprehensible as this seems, upon investigation the signers find, upon information given to them, that at least two of the Huntington signers confirmed these reports. They asked that two of the Huntington signers desire to withdraw their names from the charges. We do not know the attitude of the other two."

"For all these reasons we cannot go before the board of inquiry and, accordingly, we withdraw our names from the 'charges in writing' heretofore delivered to you as presiding bishop. We again reiterate that we signed the 'charges in writing,' believing that they should and ought to be finally and absolutely settled by a proper inquiry and trial."

"We deplore that, owing to the serious legal difficulties and the position taken by some of the Huntington signers, it has become necessary for us all, one and severally, to request the return of the 'charges in writing' heretofore delivered to you as presiding bishop, or that they be signed by such of the board as agree thereto."

The withdrawal concludes by asking that if before any further "charges in writing" are made against Bishop Talbot, he (Bishop Talbot) shall make a request, in the manner provided in the canons of the church, for a board of inquiry, to investigate "rumors, reports moral or religious character," then and in that event, we will furnish to the proper person or persons the proofs we would have produced before the board of inquiry ordered by you. J. Frederick Jenkinson, A. L. Roland, S. Lord Gilberston, Herbert Noble, J. A. Beall, William B. Wilson and Richard B. Cannon.

Although the Rev. Dr. Gilberston signed the foregoing paper, he issued a statement last night disavowing any further connection with the case and will not allow his name "to be used to support such fraud as has been perpetrated in this case."

SPOILED HER BEAUTY. Harriet Howard, 26 and 36th St., New York, at one time had her beauty spoiled with skin trouble. She writes: "I had skin trouble for three years and nothing would cure it, until I used Buckle's Arnica Salve. A quick and sure healer for cuts, burns and sores. 25c at all druggists."

CONVERT MADE

Miss Evelyn O. Roberts Is Received Into Catholicism. Has $75,000 a Year and She May Inherit Millions.

London, Jan. 6.—Deep interest has been aroused among Catholics and American residents in England by the announcement that Miss Evelyn O. Roberts, granddaughter of the late Marshall O. Roberts, of New York, has been converted to Catholicism and received into the church.

Miss Van Wart has never been known as a specially religious woman, and it was a surprise to her friends when she was converted to Catholicism. Her father, Marshall O. Roberts, was one of the most prominent of the great English society, for Miss Van Wart has lived her many years in the most exclusive of circles. She is now 26 years of age, and when her grandmother, now Mrs. Ralph Vivian, dies she will be one of the heirs to the $750,000 left by Marshall O. Roberts on his death in 1880. Miss Van Wart separated from her father, Amos Van Wart, when he took a second wife, several years ago. She spends a great part of her time at Ditten park, her beautiful country place, where she has her pet cats, which are famous as being among the finest specimens of their kind in the world.

Her generosity has made her many friends, and a fine example of it was her munificence to her church, Clontarf Hall, a penniless but pretty girl, who was married to William Hare in 1901. Miss Van Wart gave her her trousseau, and a fine one it was, and she has since been a regular attendant at the church, and has been a great help to the church in many ways.

Miss Van Wart goes to America almost every year. She has American beauty roses sent over by every steamer, packed in ice, and her pretty house in Mayfair is always full of them.

The announcement of her conversion has startled her friends, most of whom are Protestants, and one or two have been heard to say: "She is a convert."

HELD FOR REWARD

Attempt Made to Force Money From L. S. Loeb.

Finder of Lost Valise Wanted $25 For Its Return.

After an attempt had been made to introduce into Duluth the bandit methods in use in Sunny Spain, the persons who found the suit case belonging to L. S. Loeb returned it to its owner yesterday afternoon.

The suit case was lost early in the week by Mr. Loeb, while driving about East Superior street. It contained two pins valued at about $15 and a silver toilet set. Mr. Loeb advertised in the papers for the missing articles, offering a reward.

Yesterday morning he received the following letter:

"What reward will you give? Advertising in the paper."

No name was signed to the letter, which was written on plain note paper. Mr. Loeb advertised that he would give $25 reward, and that he had been told that the boy to tell his father, who was the finder of the missing goods, to take them to police headquarters. Shortly afterwards, the man appeared at the police station in a very badly frightened condition and offered to surrender the goods. He apparently did not know that he had done wrong in attempting to force a reward out of the owner.

When it was seen that the man was a professional thief but was in poor circumstances and had endeavored to raise some much needed money in this way, Mr. Loeb consented to let a portion of his reward stand, and gave the man $15. He stated that he had found the suit case near Seventh avenue east.

TICKETS ARE RECEIVED

But Mrs. Dalton Does Not Appear to Claim Them.

For three days tickets from Duluth to Spring Valley, Minn., have been awaiting Mrs. Emma Dalton, the woman who applied to the Humane society recently for transportation to her old home in the southern part of the state, but the woman has, apparently, disappeared and the humane agent is unable to locate her.

On Dec. 28 she appeared at police headquarters an d stated that she had walked in seven miles from a farmer's house, where she had been employed. She had two children with her, a little boy and a baby in arms. She stated that the farmer, a man named W. L. Morsey, had employed her, and that she had no money and no means of reaching her friends.

The police gave her a bed for the night and referred her to the humane agent. Mr. Withrow immediately telegraphed to her mother in Spring Valley, Minn., and the woman left with her children saying she was going to look for work and would keep the humane agent informed of her whereabouts.

A few hours later Mr. Withrow received word that the mother had forwarded tickets to the Duluth office of one of the railroads, and the following day a letter was received asking him to tell the woman and the children to go to Spring Valley at once and they would be given a home there.

Meanwhile nothing further had been heard from the woman, and Mr. Withrow did not know her address. The tickets are awaiting her at the railroad office, and Mr. Withrow is in possession of a letter and a telegram addressed to her. This morning he received another telegram from the mother saying she had met every train from Duluth since she had sent the transportation, and asking why her daughter did not come.

It is thought that she has found another position and has given up the idea of returning home.

FAMINE OF EGGS.

Scientists Planning to Promote Hens' Activity.

New York, Jan. 6.—According to statements of dealers and experts, New York is face to face with a situation which will make fresh eggs a luxury only to be enjoyed by the wealthiest. Not only have the hens quit business, but there are fewer eggs in storage than at this period of any previous year. The cause of this state of affairs is said to be the unprecedented heavy fall of snow during the past month.

It is estimated that New York uses 90,000 cases of eggs weekly. To supply this demand is a problem which is now occupying the attention of more than one prominent scientist.

Foremost in this work is Professor George M. Gowell, agricultural expert at the University of Maine. After years of careful breeding for egg production, he has succeeded in rearing more than forty hens that have yielded more than 200 eggs each in a year, and he has produced one hen which has beaten all previous records by laying 231 eggs within twelve months. This hen is a small Plymouth Rock, of pure strain, though not shaped according to standard.

Professor Gowell is saving eggs in the hope of hatching still more prolific fowls. He says it is impossible to tell what the limit will be, but hopes to produce a hen which will lay 300 eggs in a year and yield a net profit of 200 per cent, though he is not certain that fowls can do so much without suffering physical collapse. He says it will take four or five years longer to decide this solution either way.

A COMPLICATED WATCH.

Shows Movements of Stars and Records Time.

Paris, Jan. 6.—M. Le Roy, the well-known watchmaker of this city, has just completed, after seven years' work, what is considered the most complicated watch in the world. It is gold and only a little larger than the ordinary timepiece, but is made up of 975 parts, with twenty-four mechanical movements.

Besides marking the hours, minutes and seconds, it indicates the days, months and years (making automatic change in leap years), the lunar phases, the seasons, the solstices and equinoxes, the time of 12 cities of the world, and the hours of the rising and setting of the sun. It also contains a striking arrangement, a thermometer, a hydrometer, a barometer, and altimeter, good for an altitude of 15,000 feet, a compass and all the features of a repeating chronometer, and it can be regulated without opening it.

In the inner case are the celestial maps of the two hemispheres, moving at the rate of 256 seconds a day, in which even stars of the fourth magnitude, represented by 650 golden dots, can be located in their exact positions in the sky. The watch is valued at $3,000 and will be added to the Louvre collection.

GERONIMO GIVES

Christmas Gifts to Some of His Bands.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 6.—Geronimo, the Apache chief, is fast assimilating the ways of civilization in his old age. He sent Christmas presents. One from the noted Indian reached St. Louis last week for United States Marshal W. L. Morsey. Twenty-five years ago, when his name was a terror from one Arizona border to another, the Apache chief would have spurned the thought of a good-will offering to a white man.

But twenty years in captivity as a government ward have wrought great changes in Geronimo. He has become a shining example of the famous saying: "There is no good Indian but a dead one." Not long ago he joined the Methodist church.

Mr. Morsey's gift is a hickory cane which was carved by the chief. The handle represents an eagle's head and the staff is entwined with an imitation snake. The cane came from Fort Sill, Okla., where the chief is kept nominally a prisoner, but allowed to come and go as he pleases. Mr. Morsey has known him for several years.

WIFE'S RARE DEVOTION.

Toils Over Washtub to Pay Husband's Debt.

Portland, Ore., Jan. 6.—Over the washboard, in her humble home at 708 Belmont street, bends Mrs. W. H. Whorton. Day after day, unceasingly save for a few short hours of sleep, she works on. Her object is to save her husband from disgrace—and she will accomplish it. It is a story fraught with bitterness, of a woman's undying devotion and love.

In September W. H. Whorton disappeared. With him, supposedly, went $120 belonging to the United Artists, of which order he was the treasurer at the time. Not until a few days ago did the wife ascertain anything of the whereabouts of her husband. She learned he had been ill in the Wayside Mission hospital at Seattle.

Now Mrs. Whorton says, the shortage of her husband has been made good. She borrowed $20 from personal friends, paid it to the Artists and holds a receipt for it.

CHINESE BRIDE

Prefers Another and Elopes at San Francisco.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 6.—On the third day of the fifth moon—May 28—last year, Miss T. Chang Ping was married to Chong Wong, a wealthy cigar-maker. He was 40 and she 17. Now she is gone, and Wong fears it is a Chinese elopement.

Tom was a Methodist Mission girl, and it was in the parlor of that institution the wedding was celebrated. Chong was deeply enamored of his bride, and for a while she seemed satisfied.

Unknown to him she made the acquaintance of Wong Fook, a stranger to the local Chinese colony. No one seems to know whence he came, but all who met him casually in his hands were according to the Oriental standard. Several times lately the husband found the intruder enjoying a cup of tea and a quiet chat with his wife when he returned home unexpectedly.

Last Thursday night Mrs. Chang disappeared, taking her clothing, and her distraught husband is offering all kinds of rewards for her capture.

If you select your servants from the class who read and answer Herald want ads you will at least have intelligent help—and you know from experience that nine out of ten of the poor servants are ignorant ones.

MAKE DOPE FIENDS

Superintendent of Chicago's Bridewell Blames the Doctors.

Latter Say That Laxity of the Laws Are Responsible.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—After hearing "confessions" from 500 "dope" fiends, Superintendent Sloan, of the Bridewell, says in his annual report that the alarming increase of slaves to drugs among the prisoners of that institution this year is due to a careless and too liberal use of the deadly stuff by physicians.

indignant when the contents of the report, and especially the prisoners' alleged confessions, were read to them. A number of doctors laughed outright at the idea of a public official and the head of a penal institution who could take the words of a "dope" fiend in preference to a common sense view of the evil.

As one man the physicians seek the very root of the evil instead of its consequences to judge from. They blame the present lax regulations of the sale of poisons.

From 309 in 1903, to 970 slaves this year is the increase pointed out in Sloan's report.

"The many cocaine, morphine, opium, paregoric, codeine, phenacetin and other victims thronged the cells everywhere," says the report. "Many were women and they almost unanimously blame their physicians for getting them into the habit. They fell through despondency and bad associations. They were not able to take a dare," says Superintendent Sloan.

"They lose their friends and self-respect," continues the report, "and they drift along until they are taken up by the police and sent here. We have had fifteen college graduates here during the past year."

"The report is amusing, provided the superintendent takes the same excuses of the prisoners seriously," said Dr. E. J. Senn, the son of the famous authority on surgery and internal medicine.

If physicians did not let their patients know the name of the drug which brings relief to them, they would not find their patients secretly smuggling the drug into their systems, after the doctor's regular treatment ceases. The men who fall into the habit of using drugs should blame the law which places the drug within their reach. They fall into the use of drugs just like people fall into alcohol habits."

Dr. G. Frank Lydston said: "I fail to understand how the superintendent of a prison, a man who is supposed to have some insight into human nature can swallow the silly excuses of the unfortunates in his care."

IN BANKRUPTCY COURT.

William H. Fisher, Formerly a Prominent Railroad Man.

St. Paul, Jan. 6.—A voluntary petition in bankruptcy has been filed by William H. Fisher, formerly a prominent railroad man in St. Paul. He gives his liabilities at $57,643.24, and his assets at $42,350.16, of which $40,463.00 is in the form of a judgment against Lemuel Hixon, of South Dakota, and is scheduled as probably worthless.

The liabilities consist largely of promissory notes and judgments. One note for $10,000 is in favor of H. P. Upham and Fanny S. Gilliam, as devisees of G. D. Gilliam, deceased. The note represents petitioner's share of the loss in a joint transaction. Another note of $7,500.00 is in favor of the Interior Land company, of Superior, Wis., and accommodation paper for the Bucyrus Shovel and Dredge company, of South Milwaukee, to the extent of $7,722.15 figure in the schedule of liabilities.

Assets represented by personal property and wearing apparel to the value of $250, are claimed as exempt.

STEAMSHIP BRINGS SHIPWRECKED CREW.

New York, Jan. 6.—Six men of the crew of the little Lockport, N. S. schooner, Julia H. Archer were brought here today on board the steamer Prinz Adalbert, having abandoned their vessel on Christmas day after a terrible two weeks experience in a prolonged winter gale. They were rescued from their sinking craft by the German steamer Nubia, bound from New York for the Orient and were transferred to the Prinz Adalbert a week ago. All members of the shipwrecked crew apparently had recovered from their hard experience when they arrived here today.

AFTER NEW LAWS

St. Louis County Board Has Several Requests Pending.
Anxious to See New Code Before Presenting Them.

While the state legislature is being kept on the anxious seat because of the delay over the revised code of statutes of Minnesota, the board of county commissioners of St. Louis county is uneasy over the immediate effects of the new code on this county, providing it is adopted by the legislature.

During the past years St. Louis county has been doing a great deal of its business under special legislation. At nearly every session of the legislature some special act relating to the administration of affairs in this county, or granting certain privileges not accorded other counties in the state, has been passed, because of existing conditions in the county which widely differ from those in other counties.

Up to the present time nobody but those who have for so long a time been engaged in the work of revising the statutes have any idea what changes will be recommended in the new code. It is believed doubtful if any special provisions have been made for the larger counties which have in the past been the subject of special legislation. Unless such provisions have been made the new code, if adopted, will place every county of the state on the same basis in the operation of internal affairs. This, it is claimed by the county commissioners, will tend to work more or less confusion and hardship in the larger counties where the exigencies demand an administration of affairs different from that in the smaller counties.

In discussing the proposed new code of laws before the county board a few days ago, Assistant County Attorney Crosby said that, if it is adopted as it will be, it is believed that it will be put on the same operative basis as the present code. He further stated that there would probably be little attempt to amend the present code, but that it would be passed as presented by the commission, for the reason that if one county, through its representatives, starts in to get special provisions incorporated, there will be a flood of petitions from other quarters. He suggested that the legislature to shut out this possible complication will probably pass the code in practically the form it is presented, and then give the counties to understand that if they need special legislation to so after it through the usual channels.

Even if this is done, Mr. Crosby pointed out the possible rush of bills for special legislation and advised the commissioners of this county that they will be well prepared to get a copy, if possible, for the county board before its next meeting Jan. 17. If this new code can be procured the commissioners will be enabled to learn from investigation of the proposed new laws just what steps it will be necessary for them to take in preparing to meet the special legislation now desired.

One of the matters relative to which the county board desires legislation is some provision that will offset the expense of the county commissioners while engaged in road work. For a long time past there has been a feeling of dissatisfaction on the part of the board over the rule that they must pay their own expenses while engaged in road work. It is claimed by them that these expenses run up quite a large sum. While some parts of the road districts can be easily reached, there are portions which are reached with great difficulty and at considerable expense.

Two suggestions have been made by the commissioners in the way of remedying this. One is that the salary of the commissioners be increased to an extent that will offset their road expenses during the year. The other plan is that the commissioners be allowed an expense account for the county road matters, that the bills of each commissioner be checked over by the other members of the board. Both plans have been advocated on the board as it is at present constituted.

Both plans have been advocated on the board as it is at present constituted. Mr. Kugler has been urging legislation in county road matters, that hereafter the towns through which county roads are constructed be compelled to pay for their maintenance. Mr. Kugler claims that the result will be more money for the county to spend on new roads.

It is evident, however, that not all the ideas are right. It is a little too far in advance of the times, that there are some who think that the county should be able to pay for the maintenance of the roads. Some of them hold that while the idea is right, it is a little too far in advance of the times, that there are some who think that the county should be able to pay for the maintenance of the roads.

Other matters pending legislation and of which the public has heard more or less are the change of the county system of feeding jail prisoners over to the sheriff to feed the prisoners on contract, the same to be let to the lowest bidder, with a maximum limit of ten cents per meal per prisoner.

GETS ANOTHER BIG CONTRACT Superior Shipyards to Overhaul and Lengthen Barge Constitution.

Pickands, Mather & Company, of Cleveland, have made another contract with the Superior shipyards company for the overhauling and lengthening of the barge Constitution. The exact amount of the work to be done will not be known until Robert Lygan, superintendent of all the yards of the American Shipbuilding company, arrives at the head of the lakes tomorrow. It is thought that the amount of work to be called for will be practically the same as that to be done on the steamer Victory, which will cost about $75,000.

The Victory has been towed to the shipyards and the Constitution is to be taken there today. No work has yet been started at the yards for the reason that there is a lack of material at hand. All the help has been laid off with the exception of fifty men employed in taking ice out of the dry dock.

DISLIKE IT North Shore People Believe Boats Should Continue Running.

Steamers Bradshaw and Moore on Last Trips of Season.

Considerable dissatisfaction is expressed at north shore points. It is said, over the announcement by the Booth and White Line Transportation companies that their boats, the C. W. Moore and Mohel Bradshaw, will leave Duluth on their last trips of the season today. People in the small towns along the shore above Two Harbors, which are without railway accommodations, hold that the boats, or others in their place, should be kept in operation until the freezing over of the lake prevents, as has been the custom in the past.

Although most of the lumber camps along the shore have a sufficient supply of provisions and meat for the winter, their managers desire to have communication with the outside world maintained as long as possible. The boats, it is claimed, side with the people in their desire to have at least one boat running until the freezing of the lake actually prevents, and there has been some talk of chartering a steamer to take up the work where the Moore and Bradshaw leave off. It is believed one boat running between Duluth and Grand Marais, and touching at intermediate points, could be made to pay until forced into winter quarters because of ice conditions. With the present mild weather, should it continue, there may be two or three weeks of navigation yet. On the other hand, a cold spell, with little wind, might put a stop to the operation of boats along this coast in a very few days.

On the whole the past season is regarded as having been a fairly prosperous one for the Lake Superior transportation companies. Travel on their boats has been good most of the year, and there has been quite a lot of freight to be transported. Passengers were particularly numerous during the summer season, when Isle Royale appeared at its best. Fishermen bound for the north shore from all parts of the country patronized the north shore boats in getting to their favorite hunting grounds.

The coming season the Booth company will place another boat in operation on Lake Superior, and arrangements have been made whereby, by means of a cable line, the boats of the steamer America and Soo City, the new boat, a passenger can be taken from Duluth to Port Arthur and there connect with the steamer Caribou, plying between Port Arthur and Soo City, Mar. At the Soo the passenger may transfer to the steamer Manitou for an entire circling of Georgian Bay.

CANNOT SEE PRISONER Federal Authorities Insist Mrs. Chadwick Is In Their Charge.

Cleveland, Jan. 6.—As the result of a clash between the federal and county authorities that has been on since Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick arrived from New York, as to who had jurisdiction over the prisoner's care while she is in the county jail, the federal authorities yesterday definitely said they would assume such control under authority vested in them by an opinion of the United States supreme court in a case in another state and which they think can be cited in this case. The dispute has arisen because of the privilege assumed by former Sheriff Barry in permitting her husband and other persons to call on Mrs. Chadwick contrary to an order of a federal judge that written permission for such interview or calls should first be obtained from the court.

Sheriff Barry retired from office last Saturday midnight. He was succeeded by George J. Mulhern.

As a county officer Sheriff Mulhern yesterday obtained from the county solicitor an opinion to the effect that inasmuch as the jail was a county institution a United States prisoner while confined therein and was under the authority of the sheriff.

An opinion was handed to the sheriff by District Attorney John J. Sullivan later in the day to the effect that the federal authorities controlled Mrs. Chadwick's care and that no person should be allowed to see her without their permission. It was announced by District Attorney Sullivan that Mrs. Chadwick is a federal prisoner and the sheriff is for the time being a federal keeper. To enforce this opinion two deputy marshals have alternated in the jail day and night; last night one was guarding the way to Mrs. Chadwick's cell. Not even her attorney, J. P. Dawley, was allowed to see her yesterday because he had not obtained permission from the federal authorities.

Dawley, who is a very prominent lawyer, asserted the prerogative of his calling to see his client, but the powerful deputy marshal refused him admission to the women's corridor of the jail. Mrs. Chadwick was furious and asserted to the marshal that if he had half as much physical strength as he had he would throw the marshal out of the window.

The trunk of Mrs. Chadwick was opened yesterday by Attorney Grossman. The trunk contained wearing apparel of Mrs. Chadwick, comprising four dresses and an entire suit of mole skin clothing, the whole being worth, Mr. Grossman thinks, between $400 and $500. The satchels used by Mrs. Chadwick while in New York have been opened and their contents examined by Mr. Grossman. Their con-

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

Two life boats marked Edith M. Glasgow, have been found off Cape St. Mary. It is believed they belong to the iron barge of that name, Hughes, master, which left Ascension, Sept. 14, for St. John, and is now 113 days unreported. It is expected she was lost on Cape St. Marys with the whole crew, probably ten men.

Webster City, Ia., Jan. 6.—The state of Iowa has been offered a statue about half as high as the state house, and does not know what to do with it. There was a colonnade at the St. Louis exposition. About this the columns which made it were formed to represent the states. Iowa was among the most conspicuous. It is this statue that the state has been offered.

President Francis of the exposition company has written Governor Cummins offering the statue to Iowa, if the state will pay the expense of removing it from St. Louis. Governor Cummins immediately suggested to Curator Aldrich of the state historical department that it should be turned over to his department. Mr. Aldrich sought in vain for a spot in his domain sufficiently large to accommodate the statue. He finally wrote the governor telling him that the historical building would not hold the work.

The board of control is making its semi-annual visit to the state institutions in central Iowa, and could not be consulted as to whether it would claim the statue under the law of the last general assembly which made over to the board all the property of Iowa at the exposition.

It has been suggested that the statue be placed in the margins of agricultural, dairy and horticultural hall at the state fair grounds, and this suggestion awaits disposal.

The statue is constructed of staff. It is enormous in size, but real art. However, it is perishable, and probably within a few years will have crumbled away. Nevertheless, it is a valuable reminder of the great fair and the conspicuous part that Iowa played therein. It cost a great deal of money originally.

SEEING STARS. More Double Ones Discovered at Lick Observatory.

Berkley, Cal., Jan. 6.—More double stars have been discovered and measured at the Lick observatory. The latest bulletin issued by the university contains an account of another 100 new double stars discovered and measured there. These new double stars are of the same character as those previously discovered at the Lick observatory. The distance between the two components in most of them is very small, and nearly all would be difficult objects to observe under conditions less favorable than obtained at Mount Hamilton.

Sentiment of Fruit Jobbers as to Private Car Lines.

Stevens Bill Not Satisfactory—News of Railroads.

E. M. Ferguson, president of the Western Fruit Jobbers' association, will leave shortly for New Orleans to attend the annual meeting of the National League of Commission Merchants, where he will carry before that organization the sentiments of the Western Fruit Jobbers' association on the question of the private car line. The dates of the New Orleans meeting are Jan. 11 to 13. After that convention Mr. Ferguson will have before him a journey to Washington, where he will endeavor to convince some of the national lawmakers of the evils of the private car line as it is handled at this time.

The Western Fruit Jobbers' association is not at all pleased with the bill which has been prepared by Congressman Stevens of this state on the subject of the interstate commerce commission's relation to the private car lines. The bill seeks to extend the interstate commerce law and the interstate commerce commission, so as to cover the private car lines as well as the common carriers, according to the reports of it sent out from Washington. The fruit jobbers make the point that their right to eliminate private car lines from the field. They contend that private car lines are not common carriers under the law and that if the interstate commerce law is broadened so as to include the private car lines they will become common carriers and be far out of reach as ever from retaliation by the shippers.

The jobbers assert that the fruit and produce dealers, grocers and shippers of the country, together make up a very important part of the commercial representation of the republic, especially as far as relates to the shipment of goods over the lines of rail throughout the United States, and that they are hampered in all their business by the character of the private car line organization, and they say the trust threatens private industry in a most decided manner.

Owing to their direct and constant contact with the private car companies, who form part of the combination, they insist that they know the practices and possibilities of the trust's designs better than any other branch of trade or commerce. In accordance with their claims they will send a memorial to Washington, probably, to urge upon congress the desirability of having the situation changed. But they want the memorial to be signed by the fruit men from that designed in the Stevens bill. They ask that the railroads be made to furnish all the instrumentalities of carriage according to law.

When Mr. Ferguson goes to Washington he will in all probability take up the question of the Stevens bill along with the others features of the case. It is understood that Mr. Ferguson is designing a bill which is intended as a relief to the shippers of fruit, and will endeavor to get its consideration by congress. The whole aim of the jobbers is said now to be the modification of the private car line in any form, present or proposed.

Mr. Ferguson, who asked today to give his opinion on the proposed legislation by Congressman Stevens to bring private car lines under the interstate commerce law and interstate commerce commission, said he was not yet in a position to criticize it.

Whether the bill is correctly reported in the papers is what I want to find out first, I have anything against it," said he. "I have wired Congressmen Adams and Bode that if the purpose of the bill is as indicated in the press reports, then the Western Fruit Jobbers' association will be decidedly against its passage."

"Any proposition that will put the private car lines under the control of the interstate commerce law, and which will tend to foster a big private car line trust. The railroads, however, have been forwarding cars to the public, and take a part of the burden of their business from those without reducing their profits, and so would any private individual conducting his own business."

SUBMARINE MINE

Urged By Congressman Littauer as Best Harbor Defense.

The House Passes the Fortification Bill Without Amendment.

Washington, Jan. 6.—On convening the house agreed upon adjournment to-day it should be until Monday.

On motion of Mr. Grosvenor, the committee of the house was discharged from further consideration of the bill to revise the laws relating to the regulation of steam vessels, and the bill was referred back to the committee on merchant marine and fisheries.

A bill was passed for the relief of the Gull River Lumber company, of Minnesota, after which the house went into committee of the whole for consideration of the fortification appropriation bill, Mr. Boutwell (Ill.) in the chair. Mr. Littauer (N. Y.) having it in charge, explained the various items in the bill, the main features of which already have been published.

He said that as the thirty-one chief harbors on the United States coast had been so strongly fortified that no able commander would dare risk his ships in the so-called Endicott scheme of fortifications, in existence since 1883. The advance made in rapid fire guns, as well as the use of smokeless powder, he attributed to important factors in making that recommendation.

Mr. Littauer spoke of the great lesson learned from the situation at Port Arthur, and said the conditions there demonstrated, first, the efficiency of the submarine mine; and, second, from the land side, the practical uselessness of guns of long range without the proper system of direction and fire control. He instated the fact that the Japanese gun fire had only sunk two ships, whereas the Russians had lost through submarine mines seven battleships, nineteen cruisers and thirty-six torpedo boats and destroyers. He defended the appropriation for submarine mines, saying their importance was of the greatest.

In reply to an inquiry by Mr. Robinson (Ind.), if the bill contemplated any appropriation for the Langley airship, Mr. Littauer said it would not be advisable to restrict the board of ordinance, "the professional advisers of the house on war defenses, but he explained that the board had determined in March, 1904, not to make an allotment for the Langley airship.

Mr. Baker (N. Y.) ridiculed the idea of technical advisers to congress and then launched into an attack on the policy which permitted a bill such as the one under consideration to be brought up without notice.

Mr. Baker vigorously condemned the bill as a waste of the nation's money. "Oh," said he, "when we are led by a man who worships the war god, who wants to hold himself up in the United States as the greatest of the great, who is the counterpart of 'Wilhelm II, the great war god,' when an administration is so stupid as to pass a bill such as this, what a farce it is to talk about any scientific quotations; what a farce it is to talk about anything in the interest of peace."

The house passed the fortifications bill without amendment and adjourned till Monday.

In the senate, Washington, Jan. 6.—The opening of the senate today, Dr. Edward Everett Hale prayed for the nation of the world, "which," he said, "The great making smaller and smaller every day, in Thine infinite providence."

THE MATCH POSTPONED
Illness of Superior Skip Delays Final Inter-urban Contest.

Owing to the illness of Neil Smith, skip of one of the Superior rinks, the third and deciding match between the Duluth and Superior curling clubs for the Manley-McLennan agency trophy, which was to have taken place last evening, has been postponed until Wednesday night.

Each club has won one match, and Wednesday's contest will decide the possession of the trophy for the coming year.

After it has been won by one of the clubs the different rinks will have an opportunity to play down for its possession. The local curlers will play off some of the games for the Herald trophy Saturday evening, instead of the postponed match.

STARTLING FACTS

Regarding Motive Power and Rolling Stock of Railways.

The Value of Equipment Ordered in 1904 Was $140,000,000.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—The Railway Age, in its current issue, publishes statistics of motive power and rolling stock ordered by the railways in the last twelve months that are fairly startling. It has been a matter of common knowledge that the orders placed for cars and locomotives during the last quarter of 1904 were both enormous in number and value. A few people, however, realized that they were of such volume as to make the total for the year in excess of that for 1903. But the statistics published in the Railway Age show that there were 18,000 freight cars, 2,000 passenger cars, 2,000 locomotives of all kinds ordered during 1904. These figures are derived from the reports of the railways to the Interstate Commerce commission, and are not the figures of the manufacturers of cars and locomotives.

That the temporary falling off in orders on the part of railroads early in the year this country, and these have constituted a start might mean to him as compared with the short time and small outlay necessary to prepare him for it.

SECRET ARREST
Believed to Have Been Made in Murder Case.

Brooklyn, Iowa, Jan. 6.—A secret arrest is believed to have been made in the mysterious murder of Hermit Reed, who was shot to death and robbed at the threshold of his hermitage. Bloodhounds followed a trail leading to a hut a point one half mile north and there led around a dwelling. They were then taken from the trail and officers caused to hunt further for the slayers. It is believed that the murderers were familiar with the grounds.

CRUM TO QUIT
His Job as Soon as He Gets It.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Members of congress returning from South Carolina say the opinion prevails there that Dr. William D. Crum, several times appointed collector of customs at Charleston, will resign immediately after his confirmation by the senate, the president naming a white man to succeed him.

Senator Tillman said today that he will not change his attitude toward Dr. Crum because of the resignation rumor. He will not filibuster against his confirmation, but will vigorously announce his opposition and the reasons for it. He will prevent the matter being taken up.

up in the senate until the judiciary committee has made a report as to whether constitutes a recess of the senate for the purpose of executive appointments.

WIFE WON'T SPEAK TO HIM
Ground on Which Lawyer Sues For Divorce.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 6.—Marcy K. Brown, former prosecuting attorney and Democratic politician, has sued in the circuit court for divorce from Minnie Brown, on the ground that for weeks she has refused to speak to him. Mr. Brown says Mrs. Brown has been ostracized from him for much of the time since their marriage at Leavenworth in 1901.

The Browns live at Twenty-fifth and Wyandotte streets, but Mrs. Brown has taken a flat at 80 East Thirteenth street, where she has been besieged by a deputy sheriff wishing to serve her with a summons in the case for forty-eight hours. After Mrs. Brown had shown the sheriff's deputy that he could not obtain a summons on her by use of any strategy, she Wednesday morning went out on the front porch and invited the officer to read them to her.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown were married when the former was serving a term in the state legislature. They have one child.

Washington, Jan. 6.—The president today sent to the senate the following nominations: District Judges, Robert W. Taylor, northern district of Ohio; Arthur L. Sanborn, western district of Wisconsin.

Second secretary of legation, Irwin B. Laughlin, Pennsylvania, legation to Japan.

Consul—Harold L. Lyon, Minnesota, at Chungking, China.

Regarding Motive Power and Rolling Stock of Railways.

The Value of Equipment Ordered in 1904 Was $140,000,000.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—The Railway Age, in its current issue, publishes statistics of motive power and rolling stock ordered by the railways in the last twelve months that are fairly startling. It has been a matter of common knowledge that the orders placed for cars and locomotives during the last quarter of 1904 were both enormous in number and value. A few people, however, realized that they were of such volume as to make the total for the year in excess of that for 1903. But the statistics published in the Railway Age show that there were 18,000 freight cars, 2,000 passenger cars, 2,000 locomotives of all kinds ordered during 1904. These figures are derived from the reports of the railways to the Interstate Commerce commission, and are not the figures of the manufacturers of cars and locomotives.

That the temporary falling off in orders on the part of railroads early in the year this country, and these have constituted a start might mean to him as compared with the short time and small outlay necessary to prepare him for it.

SECRET ARREST
Believed to Have Been Made in Murder Case.

Brooklyn, Iowa, Jan. 6.—A secret arrest is believed to have been made in the mysterious murder of Hermit Reed, who was shot to death and robbed at the threshold of his hermitage. Bloodhounds followed a trail leading to a hut a point one half mile north and there led around a dwelling. They were then taken from the trail and officers caused to hunt further for the slayers. It is believed that the murderers were familiar with the grounds.

Big Sale at the Eagle.
The store of the Eagle Clothing company has been closed all day to permit the remarking at a fraction of their former value, every garment and furnishing article in the store. Suits, overcoats, hats, shoes, boys' clothing, underwear—all fall under the knife—all will be sold at prices never before heard of in Duluth. The firm states positively that this is not a sale of odds and ends, but applies to every article of up-to-date merchandise in the store.

Mr. Casimir prides himself on one thing, perhaps, more than anything else, this is, living strictly up to every promise made in his advertisements. The present sale, he states, will advertise his name and that of the store throughout the state. The season is a dull one, and Mr. Casimir realizes that he must make it an object to people to buy by giving them values obtainable in no other store in the Northwest.

The sale begins tomorrow morning, January 7th. No one can afford to overlook reading the host of wonderful bargains in today's Herald.

UNRATIFICATED OF STRESSER AND Great Generals Shake Hands and Express Consideration. The Regular Russian Soldiers Have Left Port Arthur.

Headquarters of the Japanese Army—In front of Port Arthur, Jan. 5—via Tien Tsin.—The meeting of Gen. Nogi and Gen. Stuessel today was an untrammelled as the conclusion of the siege. It had previously been arranged to take place at noon in the single undamaged house of the village of Shushu. This house was a miserable hovel called Plum Tree Cottage. Through a misunderstanding, Gen. Stuessel rode out from Port Arthur at 11 a. m., accompanied by Col. Reiss and two staff officers to the Japanese lines and missed the Japanese officer delegation to escort him to the meeting place. The general rode there without an escort and was received by a junior officer, who happened to be on the spot. The latter telephoned to Gen. Nogi, who hurried his departure from headquarters and arrived at 11 o'clock, accompanied by Maj. Gen. Iijima, his chief of staff, and Col. Watanabe, his adjutant. Gen. Nogi, accompanied by his staff, officers, and Maj. Kawaguchi, secretary of the foreign office, arrived at the meeting place at 11:30 a. m. Gen. Stuessel is a large man of heavy appearance and looks like a good fighter. When Nogi, looking careworn, entered the compound of the cottage the two generals cordially greeted each other. Gen. Stuessel expressed his pleasure at meeting a general who had fought so bravely and gallantly for his emperor. Gen. Stuessel thanked Gen. Nogi for the pleasure of meeting the commander of the victorious army. Nogi explained that he had received a message from his emperor asking that the greatest consideration be shown to Gen. Stuessel and his officers in appreciation of their splendid loyalty to their emperor and country. Gen. Stuessel, in reply, said that the Russian soldiers would be allowed to wear their swords. Gen. Stuessel expressed his gratitude to the Japanese emperor for this saving the honor of his own family and said his descendants would appreciate the thoughtfulness of the emperor of Japan. The general also expressed the appreciation of his officers and thanked Gen. Nogi for sending the message. Gen. Stuessel then expressed his appreciation of the Japanese emperor's reply which read: "I allow each officer to profit by the reserved privilege to return to Russia under the obligation not to take further part in the present war or state in the direction of war." "I thank you and the brave men of the Japanese army for their loyalty and devotion to their emperor and country." Both generals then mutually praised each other's officers for their bravery. The conversation then turned to the explosion of the mine at Shushu mountain fort. Gen. Stuessel said the explosion of the fort was killed or made prisoners. The Russian commander greatly praised the Japanese artillery practice, especially the concentrated fire instantaneous with the explosion of the mine. The general added, spoke for themselves. It

SHERIFF IS GUARDIAN

Of Mrs. Chadwick, According to Judge's Latest Order.

Cleveland, Jan. 7.—Judge Wing, of the United States district court today abrogated his recent order, that no person should be allowed to enter the premises in the county jail without a written permit signed by the United States marshal. The order was issued in response to a petition filed by the jail warden, who said that the order was a hindrance to the proper management of the jail. Judge Wing, in his decision, said that the order was a hindrance to the proper management of the jail and that he was abrogating it. He said that the jail warden was responsible for the proper management of the jail and that he was not to be held responsible for the actions of the jail warden. He said that he was abrogating the order and that the jail warden was to be held responsible for the proper management of the jail.

CHANGE OF SITE PRESIDENT MEETS

Building On Present Site Means Greater Expense and Trouble. Extra Session May Be Called To Consider Matter.

Washington, Jan. 7.—Several of the leading Republicans in congress had a conference with President Roosevelt this afternoon to consider with him legislative questions now pending before congress. The conference was held at the instance of the president, invitations, entirely informal in character, having been extended by him to those present. Those invited were Speaker Cannon, Senators Aldrich of Rhode Island, Allison of Iowa, Spooner of Wisconsin, and Platt of Connecticut, and Representatives Payne of New York, Dabner of Pennsylvania, Tawney of Minnesota, and Grosvenor of Ohio. The senators are members of the senate steering committee, and the representatives are members of the house ways and means committee, in addition to the speaker. The personnel of the delegation invited naturally would suggest that matters relating to the tariff were to be considered at the conference as the tariff experts of the body they represent, and the representatives, except the speaker, are the leading members of the ways and means committee, which would initiate any tariff legislation that might be considered. The president has indicated it to be his purpose to consult with members of congress before recommending any action regarding the revision of the tariff. That consideration of that subject was one of the objects of today's conference is known.

Differences of opinion have arisen as to what, if any, action is to be taken and an effort was made at the conference to reconcile those differences, and it is possible to determine whether the tariff question will be satisfactory to Republicans generally. The members summoned to the conference, however, are not themselves, as individuals, and for other Republican members with whom they have conferred regarding the tariff question. Members of congress who have considered the revision of the tariff will not venture to predict what decision may eventually be reached, as to legislation action. Doubt was expressed whether a determination of the question would be reached at today's conference.

It is likely also that other legislative questions are discussed with a view to securing unanimity of action by the Republicans regarding legislation at the present session. There is a probability of action on the tariff this winter. Indeed, it is intimated that if action should be determined on it will be taken next fall at an extraordinary session, although some pressure has been brought to bear upon the president and the congress leaders to postpone the holding of an extra session at an earlier date than that.

Duluth Thirty Years Ago

County Board Meeting When Trust Deed To Old Court House Square Was Accepted From J. D. Ensign—Premiums and Awards To Encourage the Development of Farms.

The present agitation over the county courthouse site question recalls to the minds of the old inhabitants the fact that over 30 years ago there was an agitation similar in some respects, and which was as time settled by the denouement of a trust deed of the courthouse site with the county board, by J. D. Ensign. A few days ago Judge Ensign placed in the First National bank, of this city, a warranty deed to the same property, to be held in escrow until certain conditions are fulfilled, namely the erection of a new courthouse site, at which time the deed will be turned over to the county.

While going over a bundle of old documents which have been in his family a long time, W. A. Hicken, of Lester Park, one day this week discovered among old relics a large portion of a page which had for some reason been left in the possession of the county board of March 9, 1872, then published by T. H. Pressnell, and which contained an account of the county board meeting held the preceding Wednesday, March 6, 1872, when the trust deed to one-half the old courthouse square was accepted from J. D. Ensign, and the county auditor was ordered to have it placed on file.

The full report of that county board meeting held thirty-four years ago in the present spring, as given in the Minnesota, a weekly paper published in Duluth at that time, is as follows: "Our Board of County Commissioners had a meeting Wednesday afternoon last—all the members present. The deed to one-half of the block known as Court House Square, from J. D. Ensign, was accepted and the Auditor was ordered to have the same recorded. A number of bills were allowed—including both the Tribune and Minnesota and of the Tribune for publishing the tax notice of the County Treasurer. The Auditor was instructed to purchase for the county of the county, eight copies of the revised statutes for the use of the county and five copies of the county board book, and also, maps of the Surveyed Townships of the county for the use of the Auditor. The petition of the citizens of Lake Township for the organization of a school district was approved and ordered."

Among the editorials of the Minnesota appears the following little pleasantry: "We have heard so much of late that we're kind of sick of it. Others have told us it's the same with them."

Yes—but the sickness of all over the Dyke are those who hibernate over in Superior, say "Dyke" to Judge Perry, the postmaster, and we are the ones who once into a convulsion fit."

Another editorial, evidently of local interest at that time, read: "They have been doing a 'land office business' at the corner of First and Second streets, during the first few days of the week, the principal contest being over the right of pre-emption to an island in the St. Louis river, near the Knifed Bluffs."

The parties, finally, for reasons not necessary to mention—concluded to endeavor to arbitrate the difficulty among themselves. From the "locals" are gathered the following few items:

"Loren Fletcher, late member of the legislature from Minneapolis, and of the noted firm of Fletcher, Day & Co., supply agents on the line of the Northern Pacific, was in town early this week looking around on the progress of Duluth, which he said was 'booming'."

"R. Blum Munford, one of the firm of Munford Brothers, who have been running the Second Avenue hotel, left for Rochester, Minn., on Monday last, with his family, intending to reside hereafter upon and to cultivate the famous Jones farm, near that place. His brother, J. Munford, remains with us in the teaming and ice house business, and continues the Second Avenue hotel, and the new and the new proprietor, James D. Ray, makes arrangements for its reconstruction and running on an enlarged basis.

"Ex-Senator O. P. Stearns, now of Rochester, Minn., was in town Thursday and we were pleased to learn from him that he contemplated moving to Duluth about the first of May to practice his profession of the law."

The same issue of the Minnesota relates at some length the accident on the Lake Superior & Mississippi road the day previous, to the mail train from St. Paul, near Koochek. Among the list of injured was Dr. V. Smith, of Duluth, who was "slightly cut and his severely jarred."

Smith was the father of Frank Smith, the well known druggist of this city at the present day.

The Minnesota's Bayfield correspondence, under date of March 8, 1872, says: "It is reported that a crew of 9 men, 6 in one skiff and 3 in another, are busily engaged along the line of the Superior to the Junction. Track-laying will begin soon and the regular trains are expected to run in about 1882. Is it another fizzle, or what? Superior is hopeful."

A man from Park Point reports the ice going for teams from this place to Duluth. He says a few miles from the North and South shores the ice is solid, but a wide channel in the middle of the lake penetrates it nearly to Duluth. Two teams from the Zenith City had come on the ice to Cranberry river where there is a logging camp.

Persons who are now interested in the development of the St. Louis county territory, and who are anxious to get a great deal of interest to the records of over thirty years ago when the public spirited citizens of Duluth undertook to purchase the lands within a twelve mile radius of the city in the early days of the county, eight copies of the revised statutes for the use of the county and five copies of the county board book, and also, maps of the Surveyed Townships of the county for the use of the Auditor. The petition of the citizens of Lake Township for the organization of a school district was approved and ordered."

One big prize of $1200 was offered for the largest and best cleared, plowed and fenced tract of land, in one body, of not less than thirty acres.

B. A. McNair was secretary and W. B. Snodgrass was chairman of the committee on contest. The subscription list contained the names of about seventy of Duluth's business men, many of whom are still living and residing here today. The prizes were contributed ranging from $10 to $250.

Among the signers were Sargeant & McNair, Luther Mendonhall, D. G. Cash, J. D. Ensign, A. G. Simons, W. B. Wilson, William G. Thompson, Graves & Culver, J. D. Ray, Jay & Smith, J. R. Carey, George R. Stuntz, and William S. Woodbridge. The prizes were to be awarded Aug. 1.

The only railroad Duluth had at that time was the old Lake Superior & Minnesota, which was in town early this week looking around on the progress of Duluth, which he said was 'booming'."

"The morning train leaving Duluth arrived from St. Paul in the afternoon at 5:40 o'clock.

ings of the fair so that they could make a report to their fellow truismen on returning home. The natives attracted considerable attention as they walked through the crowded streets of the bustling Western city, for, although they were dressed in the most appear civilized by wearing clothes that purported to be those of the white man, they looked anything but white suit anybody. A crowd of small boys followed them everywhere, chanting in a scared undertone the rhyme of an ancient song: "Hark, hark, the dogs do bark. The Igorrotes are coming to town." Antonio and Cronin were the names of the Igorrotes bore. Antonio was distinctly "Exhibit A" for, forsooth, the sturdy little chief of the Bontoe Igorrotes, who had been brought to this credit, or, perhaps, debt. Antonio said he liked the fair, and it was a relief to receive the attention of the American who is interested in Uncle Sam's island possessions.

MEN OUT OF WORK. How Foreign Countries Provide for the Unemployed.

The increase in the number of men out of work in New York, recently the subject of comment, is considerably by comparison with the very great number of the unemployed in London, says the New York World. In England and Wales during October 752,531 persons received charitable relief. In this enumeration many vagrants were not included. The question what to do with the unemployed in England has led to the London Saturday Review to learn what is done to that end in European countries.

In several foreign countries, such as Germany, Austria, Switzerland, France, Holland and Belgium, while it cannot be said that they have been able to devise schemes which may be considered a solution of the problems of unemployment, there have at least been systematic efforts made by public authorities of various kinds. As a nation has adopted the purpose of spreading information as to the new methods of insurance which are being made in the various countries, the state in the German Empire. For the purpose of spreading information as to the new methods of insurance which are being made in the various countries, the state in the German Empire. For the purpose of spreading information as to the new methods of insurance which are being made in the various countries, the state in the German Empire.

meter, there are labor colonies and labor homes, either instituted by charity and partially supported by public funds, or established by the state as a supplement to the ordinary law. Finally, there are the relief works set on foot by towns or districts, such as occur always in Germany, where the classes of workmen, skilled and unskilled alike, are victims in varying degrees.

As to this special distress, it is worth while to notice the directions given to the unemployed in Germany. The Minister of Commerce and the Home Minister of Prussia. They are told that it is their duty to counteract the evil of want of work by paying general and methodical attention to the distribution and regulation of the works to be carried out on their account. If timely care, it is observed, is taken in choosing for such work times in which want of employment is to be expected, especially works in which unemployed people of all kinds, including in particular unskilled laborers, can be employed, the danger of such times of threatening want of employment has almost regularly recurred of late in winter to the larger towns and industrial centers, the real occurrence of wide-spread want of employment could certainly be prevented in many cases and serious distress warded off. In Germany some loss is incurred in doing work with cheap labor, but this is an objection which is not allowed to prevail over the duty to humanity.

Altogether unknown in England are the schemes for insurance against unemployment which within the last three years have been established in Germany, Switzerland and Belgium. They are still in the experimental stage, and so far they have not had any very brilliant success. The best that can be said of them is that they are on the right lines. Outside the trade unions they have received little support from the people who are to be benefited. In no case has a scheme been started which would supply the intended benefits out of the premiums themselves. Hence the main principle of them is the subsidies granted by the town councils or other local authorities. Voluntary as well as compulsory insurance has alike failed to secure the necessary contributions from these outside trade-union organizations. In the latter case there has been some success, in the others very little. The chief reason for this is that the schemes have found that they do not touch the great mass of the unemployed workers of the poorer grades, not in the trade unions, and there are proposals to establish a national system, but so far there has not yet been any legislation on the subject. The chief idea that it is within the province of the state or of the municipalities to meet the emergency of industrial life by some means which are unconnected with ordinary poor-law administration.

Services In Crypt of Rising Cathedral

Forty Years May Be Needed To Finish the Edifice of St. John the Divine, But the Completed Portions Are Already In Use—Comparison With Cathedrals of the Old World.

New York, Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Overlooking this city there stands on Morristown Heights a vast stone arch, towering above a confused jumble of massive pillars, blocks of stone and labyrinthine excavations. In this wilderness of building operations one would scarcely fancy that religious services are being held as regularly and that they are as largely attended as in the completed churches of the city. The cathedral of St. John the Divine may not be completed as yet for forty years, but beneath the mass of stone which surmounts the heights the crypt is already in use. Here every day in the week, except on Sundays at 5 o'clock in addition to usual Sunday services of the Episcopal church. Within the crypt there is little to suggest that one is underground and in the midst of one of the biggest building enterprises ever undertaken anywhere. Warned by steam heat, lighted by large windows and rows of brilliant electric lights, and with seats for more than twelve hundred persons, the crypt is a large country church. The entire east wall, including the altar was exhibited by the Duke of York's company, at Chicago, in 1893, in the form of a small square chapel, the bases of which have since been carried back to make a single wall. The whole effect of the mosaic glass work is distinctly Byzantine, reminding one of the cathedral of Saint Mark at Venice. Round, hollow columns encrusted with brown mosaic glass flank the altar, standing out in contrast to the dark, reredos, also of mosaic work, behind them. On the reredos are represented two figures, more like statues than men, standing on either side of the altar. On each side of the altar is a large stained glass window, one depicting the "Angel of the Resurrection," the other the "Euthanasia."

Another feature of the crypt which at once attracts the notice of the visitor is the fact that the crypt is not a new building, but a part of the old cathedral of St. John the Divine, which was built in 1813, in the form of a small square chapel, the bases of which have since been carried back to make a single wall. The whole effect of the mosaic glass work is distinctly Byzantine, reminding one of the cathedral of Saint Mark at Venice. Round, hollow columns encrusted with brown mosaic glass flank the altar, standing out in contrast to the dark, reredos, also of mosaic work, behind them. On the reredos are represented two figures, more like statues than men, standing on either side of the altar. On each side of the altar is a large stained glass window, one depicting the "Angel of the Resurrection," the other the "Euthanasia."

Position in Rifle Shooting

By Walter G. Hudson, M. D., President of the Manhattan Rifle and Revolver Association.

Rifle shooting is generally practiced in certain prescribed positions, depending on the distance. It is important at the outset to acquire good positions for each range, for faulty ones are easier to learn than to unlearn. At 200 yards the offhand or standing position is generally regularly both in military and match rifle shooting. It is the most difficult one in which to hold steadily, and the most exacting to become expert in, so far as good holding alone is concerned. By the offhand position is meant standing, with neither the gun nor the body reading upon or against any artificial support. But it is not required that the shooter shall adopt the shotgun position, with the left hand fully for partly extended. The physique of some men makes this the easiest position for them, and others can do better work with the left arm close to or against the body, and it is permissible and entirely within the rules for them to shoot in that way if they prefer it.

The little observation when a large number of expert riflemen are competing in some important match will show numerous modifications of the offhand position. What is easy and natural for one might be awkward and difficult for another, who in his own position is equally expert. It is particularly noticeable that some of the positions are more graceful than others. Good scores, however, are not necessarily due to graceful positions, but to steady holding. Therefore, having by careful trial of all positions found that in which you can hold the rifle steadily, even though it is a little less graceful than some others, don't let anyone induce you to change it.

Practice with the target or Schuetzen rifle is particularly valuable in acquiring skill in the offhand position. One who has become even a fair shot with the target rifle can generally do surprisingly good work with the military rifle at 200 yards. The reason for this is that the rifleman has trained himself to hold for the center of the bullseye while the military shooter does not care whether it is the center or the margin, so long as he hits the bullseye. There has been a tendency of late years to provide an enclosed space large enough to accommodate 4000 or 5000 people. It is hard for the average American, accustomed to see a huge office-building shoot up to completion in a year or so, to get any conception of the time required for the erection of an edifice such as this cathedral. The building of such structures has been hitherto a work not of years but of centuries. The Strasburg cathedral, for instance, which is in some respects similar to that of St. John, though considerably smaller, was begun early in the eleventh century, some parts of the crypt dating from 1015. Two hundred and sixty years later—in 1275—the nave was completed, but not until 1463 was the lofty spire given its present form. So that this structure represents the work of four centuries.

Colonic is an even more striking instance. Indeed, only some ten years ago was this cathedral, begun in the middle ages and conserved one of the most beautiful in the world, finally completed. Under such circumstances it is hardly reasonable to grow impatient at the fact that, though St. John's has now been building for twelve years, at least forty more may elapse before it is done. In such an undertaking there are, however, resting places, as it were, when the men in charge can stop for breath, thankful that one more portion of the great structure has been finished. Such an epoch was reached recently when the last of the granite columns, weighing ninety-one tons each, was hoisted into its place in the choir. The advent of winter has effected a temporary stoppage of operations at this point, leaving the eight columns, and one enormous arch, rising from the surrounding walls, more like a giant's crossing or intersection of transverse and the nave to be enclosed, as well as the choir. Within this space it will be possible to accommodate about 5000 persons, while services can be conducted in a manner worthy of a cathedral as the rest of the edifice rises to completion.

Of course the speed with which all this is to be accomplished depends upon the amount of money which can be raised. The cathedrals of the middle ages were built largely by the voluntary contributions of the inhabitants of the surrounding country. The presence, however, on the scene of the majority of the members of the diocese of New York would not be sufficient to finance the building—even were there no labor unions to protest against this invasion of their field. The modern method for individual labor is individual contribution. At least $100,000 are needed to carry out the portion of the plan now planned. The sum of $100,000 is available for this purpose, and $200,000 have been pledged on condition that $800,000 more be raised. With this amount of money two or three years will make it possible to conduct services in the long and lofty crypt, but in the great choir, and the ultimate form of the cathedral of St. John will begin to take shape from the midst of the present confusion.

Philippine Exhibit At Lewis and Clark Centennial Will Excite That At St. Louis—Warriors Who Feared To Come To America Before Will Be Added To The Display.

By W. E. BRINDLEY.

Portland, Ore., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—To the thousands who visited the St. Louis exposition and saw the wild tribes, the announcement that the Philippine natives have been secured as an attraction for the Lewis and Clark centennial will prove of interest to the tens of thousands of stay-at-homes, who have for many months been forced to listen to exaggerated accounts brought home by the more traveled townspeople. The announcement will prove doubly interesting. The latter will see at last a chance to forestall the ready story teller. Can't you picture to yourself the village grocery, and the stay-at-home and the traveler for myself. "Say, you just ought to see them Philippine guys eat dogs. Why, one day—"

"Don't tell me about it. I'm going to Portland to see them for myself." The Lewis and Clark Philippine show is going to be better than that at St. Louis. There are a few less in the grand total of islands, but there will be more really, truly head-hunters. There will be a number of native villages at the fair, the total population aggregating some 300 souls, and representing several tribes. There will be the head-hunting, dog-eating, Igorrotes, the lightning Moros, the Negritos, who are the real aborigines of the islands, and the civilized Visayans. The natives are expected to reach Portland some time in April, in time to build their habitations before the opening of the fair, June 1. The Philippines, during their stay at the fair, will live on the government peninsula, where the government buildings are located, forming a part of the federal exhibit. The government peninsula, which stands out like an island in the center of Gull's lake, the narrow, grand house of the Western World's fair, is connected with the mainland by the bridge of nations, and the main end of the bridge is the amusement street of the exposition, being called the Trail. The Philippine display will therefore form a sort of climax to the grand finale, to the wonders of "Triton."

As was the case at St. Louis, there will be no attempt to restrain or modify the island customs of these Sam's new subjects. The Philippine natives, constructed of bamboo and balsa, will be exact counterparts of those they are wont to occupy in faraway Luzon. The Moros will build their houses on poles, the waters of the lakes while the Igorrotes and Negritos will build squat little huts in the wooded portion of the peninsula. The Visayans more civilized and of more commercial instincts, will conduct a native theater on the Trail and

Two of the natives visited Portland a few days ago, accompanied by Dr. T. K. Hunt, who collected and had charge of the exhibit at St. Louis. They desired to inspect the grounds and buildings of the fair so that they could make a report to their fellow truismen on returning home. The natives attracted considerable attention as they walked through the crowded streets of the bustling Western city, for, although they were dressed in the most appear civilized by wearing clothes that purported to be those of the white man, they looked anything but white suit anybody. A crowd of small boys followed them everywhere, chanting in a scared undertone the rhyme of an ancient song: "Hark, hark, the dogs do bark. The Igorrotes are coming to town." Antonio and Cronin were the names of the Igorrotes bore. Antonio was distinctly "Exhibit A" for, forsooth, the sturdy little chief of the Bontoe Igorrotes, who had been brought to this credit, or, perhaps, debt. Antonio said he liked the fair, and it was a relief to receive the attention of the American who is interested in Uncle Sam's island possessions.

When Dr. Hunt was arranging for the St. Louis exhibit he was considerably handicapped by the fact that the Igorrotes had never been more than ten miles from home, and knew practically nothing of the outside world. They had no idea where they were going, or whether they would ever return, and it was only because they had explicit confidence in Dr. Hunt, who had lived with them for a year and had always been their friend, that they were induced to come. And even then, a good many of the warriors of the tribe, fighting men, six feet tall, who, willing to risk their lives in battle, would not risk an ocean voyage. Antonio, though vain as a chieftain would be, admits that some of these are "better men" than he. When these mighty warriors, fascinated by the glowing accounts of America given by the safely returned travelers, are added to the collection of natives, the Philippine department at the Lewis and Clark exposition will be complete. And Antonio says he is sure they will come. The Philippine exhibit at the Centennial will, however, contain more than a miscellaneous aggregation of dog-eating savages, who acknowledge the name of their great chief. Within a stone's throw of the place where bare-chested Igorrotes are sacrificing animals generally on the accident of old-age pensions schemes instituted by the state in the German Empire. For the purpose of spreading information as to the new methods of insurance which are being made in the various countries, the state in the German Empire.

The Philippine display will contain a comprehensive showing of the habits and customs of the islanders, and the native arts will be shown as well as the native handicrafts. In the public schools in the island territory, several hundred thousand Philippine boys and girls are learning to read and write and cipher, and their compositions and examinations will prove more interesting than the usual school exercises. Then, for the first time in his life, fear crept into the heart of Trooper William J. Jones, and he lifted up his voice for help in a long, shrill ululation.

Something in his crouching attitude called to Trooper Jones a knife duel between two Mexicans that he had witnessed in Juarez four years before. It gave him an inspiration. He suddenly stripped himself of his blouse and wrapped it about his left forearm, just in time to prove its efficacy by parrying a sav-

THE VERY LATEST FASHIONS

Models for the Little Miladi

The task of dressing the small girl at once serviceably, appropriately and prettily is one that designers make easy for whoever is responsible for her wardrobe this year. Even the plainest of coats show some little touch of dressiness that will bring it into the better class, and the garments designed for little Miladi's dresser appearances are marvels of excellent and exquisite simplicity, combined with richness of material and effect.

Even her school coat—that garment which so often is destined to make an intimate acquaintance with a dusty and dirty floor in the rush and hurry of going-home time—even this coat that mothers have long ago made up their minds must represent the severely plain and practical, rather than the dressy little garment that they would prefer to see her wear, this year it shows some little touches of daintiness which do not in the least detract from its serviceability.

Those wooltex garments, with their smart capes, comfortably big and puffy sleeves, and what appeals to the small girl full as much as it does to her brother—a satisfying pair of pockets; these are the choice in many respects. A sensible variation of the mode prescribes these in ankle length for the girls from six to sixteen, and a cape over the shoulders is the usual accompaniment of these. Braids are much used for trimmings, and very often there is a smart inlay of velvet between two rows of braid which makes for a very dressy effect indeed.

There are some very smart designs in these which have a hat made to match. Sometimes it is a Tam O'Shanter shape, but more often it is one of those flat, saucer-brim affairs with a soft Tam O'Shanter crown, and the brim stiffened with row upon row of the oscillating stitch of the sewing machine. A quill or wing at the side is sometimes added, but the little hat is just as smart and just as good style without.

One sensible point makes itself apparent in this year's juvenile styles, and that is the passing of the collarless coat. Doubtless the many coughs and colds which the small folks caught in their last season's collared wraps created a strong and insistent demand for the collar, and all of the later productions show a sensibly high collar. The straight military band is seen, as well as the high band with a "cover collar," but no matter what shape or style is followed, the point is that it must be there.

The velvet coat, or rather it is usually of velveteen, the fast dye that won't rub or smudge having lifted the velveteens into the same rank of fashionable favor as the more expensive silk fabrics, is vastly becoming to the small girl, be she blonde or brunette. Here, too, the simplicity of outline which is really the hallmark of good taste where juvenile dressing is concerned, dictates the style; and the simple trimming schemes limit themselves to a little applique of lace or braid, with a few hand-sewn buttons as a finish.

But it is in her dresser coats that little Miladi will shine. Here all of the pale tinted and pastel cloths find application, and furs of many kinds and character are brought into use. Ermine, of course, is first choice, and chinchilla about next, while there is shown a decided preference for the darker shades of beaver, the golden brown tint that one sees in the Hudson Bay variety being especially fashionable.

And in the hats that are to accompany these dressy coats the milliners who cater to the nursery folk have originated some clever ideas. All of the salient points of the adult fashions are taken hold of and reproduced in the juvenile models. Originality and distinctiveness are as much in demand for the small belle of 10 as for her sister of 20.

Those big, floppy French felt hats will, in the hands of a clever milliner, take on the most bewitchingly pretty shapes, and whether the trimming be smart or voluminous, the hat itself is bound to be a success.

The beaver hats, too, and especially the white, making a charming background for the long fluffy ostrich plumes that Dame Fashion decrees shall be appropriate for all womankind, from the tiniest up. Very often the only trimming on one of these is a single plume, with perhaps a knot of velvet or a rosette as a starting point for the quill.

FOR HER DRESSER APPEARANCES

Fashions For Extremes.

What Dame Fashion Considers Permissible In Shoes, Hosiery and Gloves.

The old French saying which used to be inculcated with such earnestness in the fashionable seminaries for young ladies a generation or so ago—Bien gantée, bien chaussée, bien habillée—is less heard today, but there is not a shadow of a doubt but that it is much more lived up to than it used to be.

Women in general have come to recognize the fact that it is but a poor economy that keeps but one pair of shoes in use at the time; that has but a scanty filed glove box, and that tries to make one-half dozen of stockings meet all requirements the year around.

While the modern woman may not have as many pairs of shoes as she has gowns, she assuredly must have as many pairs as she has kinds of costumes. A conservative estimate will include one stout pair of laced shoes for walking or country wear, one pair of fine kid ones for afternoons, these preferably with patent kid or fine enameled coat vamps, and one pair of slippers for house and one pair for evening use. In addition there ought to be included a pair of those soft quilted satin mules, to slip the feet into when getting out of bed, and a pair of those heelless Chinese slippers for bedroom use will often rest the feet after a long walk or a tiresome round of calls or shopping.

That is about the very least that any woman can get along with, and she is wise if she has two pairs of those prescribed for outdoor wear, the one pair to change off with the other. The laced shoes are somewhat better for walking than buttoned, since they afford more support to the ankles and give more to the play of the feet muscles in walking. The heavy kid and the patent coat are offered in those sensible shoes by the best of the made-to-order shoemakers, and nowadays they are putting some gutta-percha solution on the soles that makes them waterproof, and so does away with the sandal rubber for use on showery days.

For evening wear the extremely high heels of the Louis periods are among the latest things, and there is a strong effort to revive the scarlet and gilt heels in connection with patent-leather shoes. In dull black suede the effect of the colored heel is pretty, but conspicuous, and one doubts if any but the extremists will follow that fashion.

In the strong boots that are to be used for skating purposes one maker is putting a silk flannel lining; while another, more luxurious still is using a heavy silk instead of the usual cotton drilling or the soft calf.

The carriage boots that are lined with squirrel are the acme of dainty luxury, and now they are fashioned with exquisite brocades, soft, chiffon velvets and moire silks, with the requisite lacing holes large and worked by hand, and the lacing string, a silk or velvet ribbon, tipped with heavy bugles.

As for hosiery, the embroidered stocking is surely but slowly pushing the openwork designs into the background. While the plain silk hose that depends upon quality rather than for decoration for its value will always be the choice of the conservatives, the exquisite designs that are shown must surely appeal to the woman whose purse is large enough to gratify her passing whims. The stocking with lace inset on the ankles has been declared demode, and it is a thing to be thankful for, since it was never conspicuous or even pretty. The inserting of fine medallions of the real laces, however goes on apace, but the price asked for these—the lowest is in the neighborhood of $30—will keep them from becoming too popular.

In gloves the pale pearl, lilac and primrose tints are considered better style than the white glove, which has had such a long and undisputed reign. The glove, too, is the one most seen in these, although the suede still ranks well.

A determined effort to push gloves that will match the costume is evident; but assuredly no woman with any pretension at all to good taste will ever wear any but a neutral tinted glove. Think of the effect of a raspberry-tinted glove, with a fascinating gown of that same hue! Or one of almond or willow green!

The half sleeve has brought about a sudden demand for the mousquetaire glove, and with it a revival of bangles and bracelets. Those who pride themselves on keeping up to date are wearing long black mousquetaires with pretty nearly every colored gown, with the single exception perhaps of brown, and a piquant effect is readily attained in the following of this fad.

SCORCHED LINEN.—Badly scorched linen may be improved by following these directions: Boil well half a pint of vinegar, half an ounce of soap, two ounces of Fuller's earth and the juice of several onions, spread this over the linen wherever it is scorched and leave it to dry. When dry wash the garment and the scorch will have disappeared.

Description of Illustrations.

FOR HER DRESSER APPEARANCES.

It is the cape in the coat that makes for the effect of elaboration, which is apparent at the first glance. The coat itself is of the plain and severe sacque shape, a yoke over the shoulders accomplishing the fitting, and the coat applied to this in a circular cut. The cape is a very dressy affair, with its bouillonnes of the pearl-tinted cloth that fashions the garment, and fantastically shaped insets of gray chinchilla fur deepening the gray of the cloth. The high military collar is altogether of the fur, and the bouillonnes are so disposed as to make a pattern in the fur yoke. The cape has a marked shawl point in the back, and each side of the front shows a repetition of the same effect. The sleeve is extremely large, drooping into an upturned and widely flaring cuff with the puffed cloth trimming.

AN ORIGINAL CHAPEAU.

Distinctiveness and individuality are considered just as important in the small child's wardrobe as they are in her mother's, and every effort is put forth to this end by those who cater to little Miladi. The hat shows a modern adaptation of the old arquebuser shape, the long point in the back being one of the latest vagaries. There is a somewhat flat, drum-shaped crown, this simply encircled with a twist of soft satin ribbon in three pastel tints. It is on the underbrim that all the trimming is lavished, and shirred white liberty is edged with a gold galloon with excellent effect. Thick loops of the three colors—blue, rose and lilac satin lousine are posed, the cut edges raveled out to a thick but short fringe.

HER VELVET COAT.

Coats of velvet, or rather velveteen, are highly favored for the small girl, since they are at once dressy and practical. The darker tints are best liked for serviceable use, and in brown, genat and black are especially good. The Gretchen shape is often followed, with its shallow yoke over the shoulders, to which the coat is applied in shirts or

SCHOOL COAT WITH HAT TO MATCH.

MATCH.

These smart wooltex coats are both stylish and serviceable, and when purchased with the hat to match make a very smart appearance indeed. The coat is a sacque shape, double-breasted, with coat sleeve and comfortable cape over the shoulders. The only trimming is a braided cuff, where a velvet inlay is framed with braid, and the handsome buttons that extend in two rows down the front. The hat has a soft tam crown and a saucer brim, with many rows of the oscillating stitch of the sewing machine for stiffening, following the extreme of the tailor-made style. The length of the coat shows the approved style, which calls for ankle length garments for the cold weather for girls from six to sixteen.

IMPROVED ETON EFFECTS.

At one time an Eton jacket was only suitable for a slender figure, but the new and advanced idea of cutting a side piece all in one with the front has made the shape suitable for any size waist. The design referred to represents one of the most popular styles for the present season and can be easily produced by the inexperienced, and as the collar and lapels are put on separately, they could be left out altogether and a feather ruffe or a fur necklet worn instead.

With the next number, January 14, Collier's will begin the publication of a weekly review of current history, under the title "What the World is Doing." Its aim will be to extract from the mass of facts, rumors, and contradictions, important and trivial, made public from day to day, those essential things that help to form the real history, and to point out the development. It will view affairs in a perspective somewhat different from that of the daily press. Some things that the

THE WORLD OF SPORTS AND ATHLETICS

THE BAND LOSES

Company A Defeats Musicians In Fast Indoor Game.
Two Teams Are Now Tied For the First Place.

STANDING.	Won.	Lost.	Pts.
Company A	1	0	200
Company B	1	0	200
First division	0	1	100
Company C	0	1	100
Second division	0	1	100

The "lucky band" came away without its rabbits for the present time. The Company A indoor ball team took the musicians into camp by the score of 8 to 6, after a close and exciting game. The victory places the soldiers up even with the band team for the first place in the league race.

The good luck of the band team in the games played up to the present time has been phenomenal, but last evening the musicians had to play for every point they scored, and while they gave the soldiers a run for the money, they were unable to pull out a victory.

The band team took the lead in the first inning, piling up four runs by a combination of hits and errors, and things looked blue for the soldiers. Two more runs came in the second, and the band appeared to have a safe lead.

The soldiers did not break into the scoring until the fifth inning, when they got one man across the plate. They followed this up with three more in the sixth and three in the seventh, tying the score.

In the eighth inning the musicians braced up and held the ballmen safe. The ninth inning opened with the score tied. The soldiers succeeded in raising two men across the plate, giving them a safe lead. For the sixth successive inning Jones shut the band out without a score and the game was over.

The soldiers scored eight hits off Jones and Simpson allowed but six. Each struck out eleven men.

The feature of the game was the unassisted double play pulled off by the band in the fourth inning. He jumped into the air and caught Rottler's fly, retiring Peterson at second.

The score by innings:
Company A 6 0 0 1 2 3 0 2-8
Band 1 0 2 0 0 0 0 0-6

SKATING CHAMPIONSHIP

Harley Davidson and Norval Baptie To Meet In St. Paul.

The skating championship of the world will be decided in St. Paul during the latter part of next week, when Harley Davidson, the Canadian champion, and Norval Baptie, of North Dakota, will come together in a match race.

Davidson was in St. Paul giving exhibitions of speed skating and announced his desire to meet Baptie. The latter, who was at his home in Dakota, immediately accepted the challenge, and the match has been arranged to take place at the downtown skating park in St. Paul during the latter part of next week.

The men will race mile heats, best two out of three, for a purse of $100 and a side bet of $100. The result will also determine the world championship, as the two men have defeated about every skater of prominence in Canada and the United States.

BOXER BREAKS DOWN.

Kid McCoy Gives Up the Fighting Game.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 7.—The once great heavyweight pugilist, Kid McCoy, is all in. He has been advised by his physician not to attempt a course of physical training, and for this reason has decided to give up the fight. McCoy, who was scheduled to take place in this city some time during the present month, McCoy does not look a bit well, and it is quite likely that he may never again strive for honors in a pugilistic way. He will leave for the East in a few days and leave for the East and will probably locate in New York city.

A friend of McCoy, in speaking of the boxer's present condition, said: "The Kid, you know, never did have the appearance of a healthy man. He met his given credit for being a wonderful fighter when one stops to consider that he was after heavyweight championship honors when hardly of age. He went up against the tallest man in the fighting game, Gus Kuhn, and never sidestepped a match with any of the topnotchers. It was only through his perfect knowledge of physical culture that he managed to keep good and strong. I am sorry to hear that he has broken down. Even his enemies will admit that he has been a great boxer in his day."

ROONEY DEFEATS VISSER.
Chicago, Jan. 7.—John J. Rooney, of Chicago, defeated Capt. Visser, the boxer, in a mixed match here last night. The match was at two staves, catch-as-catch-can and Gracero Roman, the winner of the second fall to select the style for the deciding bout. Visser won the first fall at Gracero Roman in eleven minutes, throwing Rooney with a half Nelson.

In the second bout Rooney proved the better at catch-as-catch-can style, securing a fall in seven and a half minutes. Rooney selected catch-as-catch-can style for the deciding fall and won, taking only five minutes to place Visser on his back.

ONE MORE FIGHT

Jim Jeffries Is Getting Ready to Quit the Ring.
Manager Billy Delaney Tells of the Champion's Plans.

Cincinnati, Jan. 6.—Jim Jeffries' days as a fighter are numbered. There will have to be something doing pretty soon to make it worth while for Jeff to stay in the fighting harness, or he will quit the ring forever. Billy Delaney says that if a suitable and acceptable opponent can be found for the champion by next summer the big boxer maker will retire into private life and take his title with him. If the big scrappers of the country expect to get on with Jeff, they will do well to get busy at once, as Jeffries is in earnest when he says that he is about done with the boxing game.

Jeffries is at present touring the country with a Dave Crockett combination. He takes the part of "Dave" in the show, and also spurs a few rounds between acts. As far as known the company has been making good money, and Jeff is well satisfied with his part. Mrs. Jeffries, the bride of the great fighter, travels with the company, as does Billy Delaney, the veteran manager, who has been with the champion since he first attracted public attention. Delaney is a man of few words, but his word is reliable, and therefore, his letter to the sporting editor of the Enquirer, published below, will be of unusual interest. Delaney says that Jeff will never again fight a negro. He has decided that the three men who now demand his attention are Marvin Hart, of Louisville; Bob Fitzsimmons, the champion, and Frank Gotch, the Iowa wrestler, who has announced his intention of becoming a boxer and fighting Jeff for the championship. Delaney demands that these three men settle the question of supremacy among themselves, and that Jeff will take on the winner, which will be his last fight.

Here is Delaney's letter, written from Cheyenne, Wyo., and dated December 31: "Dear Friend: As this letter will reach you about the time the old year is on its way to the bonfire I shall first wish you a happy New Year and then let you know what is going on. Now, to business. I wish to say that Jim Jeffries still stands pat on the negro question. He will never fight Jack Johnson or any other colored man. No matter what he has done in the past he will not fight one now. I have been rather in the papers where Bob Fitzsimmons wants another match with Jeff. Also read where this man Gotch, the wrestler, is anxious to meet him, and Marvin Hart, too, wants to fight him. I make a good deal of difference. Let them hold a series of fights with the man that comes out on top can have a match with Jeffries for the championship. That's a fair proposition for all concerned."

"After his tour of the West Jeffries will be in St. Paul, Minn. We would like very much to spend a week in Cincinnati and will show there if we can get dates. Give our best regards to Mike Conley, Bob O'Brien and Mr. J. J. Kavanaugh and all the boys. We got the Enquirer every day, so there is no chance for us not being well posted. Yours truly, "BILLY DELANEY."

The Champion's Latest Defi

JIM JEFFRIES BILLY DELANEY.

Improved Baserunning Would Make Games More Attractive.

A study of the official records of both the National and American leagues for which would make the average fan believe that the players had dumb-bells tied to their ankles. In the National league there were but few men who stole bases, and in the American league the number was still smaller. John Jones, of Chicago, stole only one base in the season of 1904, and in the American league the number was still smaller. John Jones, of Chicago, stole only one base in the season of 1904, and in the American league the number was still smaller.

Base-stealing is one of the prettiest and most exciting features of the game, and it counts a lot, too, in helping teams to victory. It makes a good deal of difference whether a man stays galloped on first or slides to second. If he catches on first, what good is a single by a batsman following? If he is on second when the single comes, it is the chance to score, small the chance for a double play. The stolen bases helped Comiskey's men mightily through the summer, for their batting was but feeble, and only the speed with which the boys jumped from bag to bag kept the runs pattering across the frying pan.

It is rather amusing to hear the explanations which are handed out concerning the decline and fall of base-running. There are a number of explanations which don't fit the case any more than a No. 6 hat would fit the winner of a pennant.

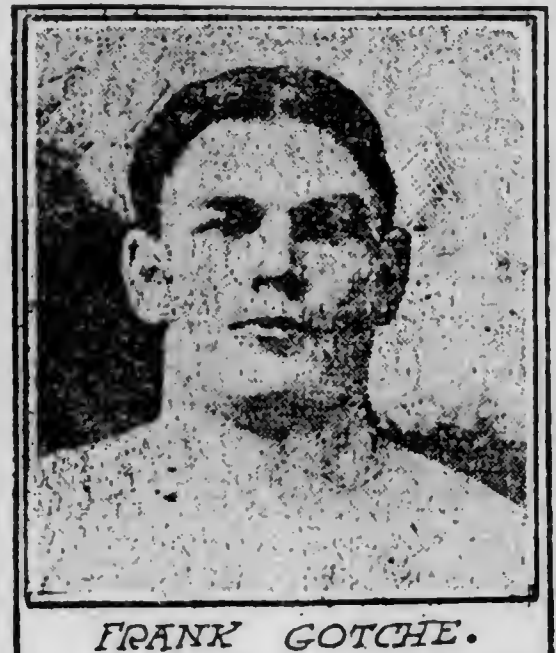

For instance, many men aver that the prevalence of the sacrifice hit has stopped base-running. The boys prefer waiting for the hit to taking the long chance on a steal. That's true. There are usually from one to three sacrifice hits in a whole game. How can so few sacrifice hits, therefore, slow up and choke off all the runners?

Balking by the pitchers is another explanation. To some of the pitchers now-a-days have to turn and throw to first under the kind of restrictions which prevail in the old days. There are no pitchers now working who can balk.

Improvement in the catchers is another explanation. Outside of King, Sullivan and Criger, where are the modern catchers? Pitchers, basemen and catcher immediately became runners as being, Kelly, Flint and Boyle.

A game as recently as fifteen years ago fairly sparkled with fast baserunning, and looked like an entirely different affair from the ball games of today. When Stovey, Hamilton, Latham, Welch, Keefe or Young were in the line-up, the first base, the crowd always sat up and took notes of the ensuing doings. Pitcher, basemen and catcher immediately became runners as being, Kelly, Flint and Boyle.

In the stable of Baker was the good colt Handinor, a bay Hanover, dam Eva Denmore. Baker bought him as a 2-year-old, but after training him hard

he began to despair of ever making a winning. He had poor legs and feet and had been practically discarded for racing purposes. Dudley took the colt and put him in harness to a joggling cart. He gave the colt a day exercise in this fashion, and on Aug. 18, last, on Dudley's advice, he was started in the longest price of any horse in the race. None could be found who thought he was good enough to take a chance on him, save and except young Dudley. He took a chance, and it was a big one. He had been careful all the season and had saved his earnings, but now he made a plunge and they all went on Handinor for this handicap. Handinor practically walked under the wire by three lengths, and Dudley was a rich man. Constant care and careful watching told Dudley when the horse was to win and when he could not. Fortunately he used this knowledge to good effect, for he was not on his feet when he lost, but every time he won after the handicap victory Dudley was on him good and strong. The result was that he finished up the season with Baker and came home with a snug sum of money in his belt. Now comes the question: What is the cause of this?

During the Fasig-Tipton thoroughbred sales in this city, last month, Dudley bought five head of colts, and all of them were good. He now has them at the old association track in training for next season's events. With him is the star, Percy Perkins, better known as the trainer of Endurance by Tipton, the best racing filly of her day, and the twigs he will put up a forfeit. He is light weight champion technically, and as he is willing to defend the title at the weight he will hold the championship. If Britt wants to read his title clear to the lightweight championship he must fight the negro. Whether it would be the best drawing card is another question and a question which will have deciding force.

Willie Lewis, who knocked out Martin Canole, in Maine, the other day, is the latest aspirant for Britt's scalp. He probably will get a match sooner or later, and the way he handled himself with Canole ought to make it interesting for any boy of his weight.

WHO'S NEXT?

An Opponent For Jimmy Britt Under Discussion.

New York, Jan. 4.—Who will be the next man to face Jimmy Britt? This question is being generally asked by Eastern sporting men, and the answers are as numerous as the men who can lay any sort of claim to be in Jimmy's class.

It will rest with the club promoters. Matches are made by the box office these days, and properly so. The public knows what it wants to see and is willing to pay for seeing, and as boxing is a business, pure and simple, there is no reason why it should not be conducted on business principles.

On the merits of the thing Joe Gans should have the fight. He has agreed to weigh in at 133 pounds, at 6 o'clock, and has put up a forfeit. He is light weight champion technically, and as he is willing to defend the title at the weight he will hold the championship. If Britt wants to read his title clear to the lightweight championship he must fight the negro. Great Year For Sports

Twelve-Month Just Closed Saw Many New Records Made On Track and Field.

Sullivan's Series of Athletics At World's Fair At St. Louis Have No Parallel In History.

The year which closed last Saturday can, without exaggeration, be classed as the greatest in history, both in point of achievements of individuals and in the general growth of all branches of sport, all over the world.

The most notable feature was, without doubt, the remarkable series of athletic events planned by James E. Sullivan and held in the Worces fair stadium as Olympic events. In the history of athletics no program of anything like similar magnitude has been projected, far less carried out to the last detail, as were Mr. Sullivan's ideas. Every sport known to civilization, and many others that are not, were witnessed at the Stadium games, and in these events the nick of the world's athletes competed. Repeatedly, and with scarcely a day intervening, championship contests took place for a six-months' period.

Elsewhere sport has preserved a healthy tone and developed a remarkable tendency to grow. Baseball proved just as popular to the fans as ever, while horse racing showed a remarkable increase in popularity.

Following will be found a complete list of the record performances of the year, in chronological order:
January 18—P. W. King, Jr., establishes new world's record for 100-meter, scoring 917 points in 140 consecutive shots.

January 27—W. K. Vanderbilt drives his automobile over a mile course at Dayton in 3:30 a new world's record.

February 3—T. A. Marshall, T. L. O. Heikes, Charles W. Budd, William H. Heer and Turner E. Hubby establish new world's record for handball target at Corcoran, Texas, with score of 433 out of possible 500.

February 10—John A. Leavitt sets new American swimming record for two miles indoors at Brookline, Mass., time, 57:26. Harry Le Moyne lowers record for 80 yards in 1:44.

February 21—Frank Sullivan establishes a mark of 228 feet for underwater swimming at the Central Y. M. C. A., Chicago.

February 21—Dave and Frank Woodbury set world's record for two-men bowling teams, 3000 in 123 in match with the Wolf brothers.

February 24—G. W. Cooke, of the Sheridan bowling league makes a new average record for three games, counting 243.

February 27—Harry Le Moyne, of Brookline, sets new swimming record for 50 yards, time, 12:15.

March 9—Harry Le Moyne lowers the record for swimming 50 yards to 12:15. Leslie G. Rich, of Brookline, swims 440 yards in 6:05, clipping five seconds off the record.

March 12—John J. Joyce breaks the A. A. U. record for the ten-mile run by going the distance in 58:34 1-5. John Flannigan throws a 16-pound weight 22 feet 11 inches and breaks the record.

March 12—George Slosson sets a world's record in 2-2 billiards with a run of 291 in New York.

April 30—William Hogeneson sets Eastern intercollegiate record for 100 yards in 16.

May 3—James Shea makes new world's record for three-cushion billiards, scoring 50 points in forty-nine innings at Mussey's.

May 5—Pitcher "Cy" Young, of the Boston American league, shut out Philadelphia at Boston without a man reaching first base.

May 12—Arthur Shrubbs breaks five-mile running record at Stamford bridge, London, doing distance in 24:33 2-5.

May 14—John De Witt, of Princeton, throws the 16-pound hammer 156 feet 5 inches in dual meet with Columbia, breaking the intercollegiate record.

May 21—Ralph Rose breaks the world's record for putting the 16-pound shot, making 48 feet 7 1-5 inches, on Marshall field.

June 4—New college conference track and field records are established on Marshall field as follows: Rose, Michigan, throws discus 125 feet 13 1-2 inches; Thomas Purdie, throws hammer 157 feet 1 inch; Breitkreutz, Wisconsin, runs half mile in 1:58 4-5. Friend, Chicago, covers 22 feet 8 1-2 inches in broad jump; Fuhrer, Wisconsin, made 5 feet 11 1-2 inches in high jump.

June 13—Arthur Shrubbs breaks world's record by running four miles in 19:23 2-5.

June 17—Foxhunter reduces the steeplechase record for two miles and a half to 4:57 2-5 at the Brookline Country club.

June 18—Charles Mac, ridden by C. K. G. Billings, reduces world trotting record under saddle to 2:17 3-4.

June 26—Glider, French athlete, pole vault, 12 feet 1 inch, at Paris.

June 27—White Sox make batting record for the season at Detroit, getting 22 hits for total of 29 bases, off Donovan and Stovall.

July 5—Minola runs six and one-half furlongs in 1:18 2-5, world's record time.

July 13—John Flannigan throws the 56-pound weight 40 feet 2 inches, with unlimited run and follow.

July 7—L. J. Scholes, Toronto, wins the diamond skulls at Henley, defeating Cloutie, in 8:23, record time for the course.

July 31—John Flannigan throws the 16-pound hammer 173 feet, making a new world's record.

slimness, New York.
Middle weight—Tommy Ryan, Benton Harbor, Mich.
Welter weight—Joe Walcott, (colored), Boston.
White welter weight—"Buddy" Ryan, Chicago.
Light weight—Joe Gans (colored), Baltimore.
Feather weight—(Open.)
Bantam weight—Joe Bowker, London, England.

Fights have been held in twenty-three states and three territories. It is said to be the most popular of all sports in the United States as well. Opposition has developed to the sport in the usual amount, but the game has prospered despite this. Boston and Chicago have been closed to the boxers, and the sport has received hard knocks at Philadelphia and St. Louis. The safety of San Francisco was threatened for a time, but the warring promoters there adjusted their difficulties and saved their skins. States and territories in which contests are known to have taken place are as follows: Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, Missouri, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Minnesota, Montana, Washington, Utah, California, Nevada, Louisiana, Kentucky, Maryland, Oklahoma, Hawaii and the Philippines.

Following are the most important fights of the season:

Aug. 26—Jim Jeffries defended the heavy weight title by knocking out Jack Munroe in the second round at San Francisco.

April 22—Jack Johnson defended the colored heavy weight championship by knocking out Sam McVie in the twentieth round at San Francisco.

Jan. 27—Tommy Ryan and Jack O'Brien fought a 6-round draw at Philadelphia.

Feb. 26—Martin Duffy defended the white welter weight title by defeating "Rube" Peris after twenty rounds at Hot Springs.

April 22—Duffy in the fourth round at Chicago. White welter-weight championship.

Nov. 14—Buddy Ryan knocked out Billy Melloy in first round at Harlem. White welter-weight championship.

Jan. 12—Joe Gans defended the light-weight title by winning from Willie Fitzgerald in ten rounds at Derrol.

Oct. 31—Joe Gans defended the light-weight title by winning on a foul from Jimmy Britt at San Francisco in the fifth round.

March 25—Young Corbett lost to Jimmy Britt at San Francisco after twenty rounds.

Nov. 29—Young Corbett was stopped by Battling Nelson at San Francisco in the tenth round.

Dec. 20—Jimmy Britt defeated Battling Nelson at San Francisco after twenty rounds.

June 17—Frankie Neil knocked out Harry Forbes at Chicago in the third round, defending the bantam-weight championship.

Oct. 17—Joe Bowker won the bantam-weight championship by defeating Frankie Neil in twenty rounds at London.

Battling Nelson was the sensation of the year, the Chicago boxer shooting to the top like a skyrocket. Except the Dane, there have been no fighters of great class developed. Heavyweights have been scarce, their heads, teeth, and new men in the next two divisions have also been few.

Many games made strides in the light-weight class, but the other promising stars had a backward tendency. Eddie Hanlon and Benny Younger found around among the feather-weights, and Harry Forbes declined in the bantam class. Monte Attell looks like a corner among the little fellows.

WILL MEET

SOON

Baseball Magnates to Discuss Matters in Grand Forks.

Many Changes in Northern League Will Take Place.

Some time before the end of the month Manager Van Praagh expects to receive official notice of the annual meeting of the Northern baseball league, which will probably be held in Grand Forks again this year.

The affairs of the league are in a very badly tangled condition and it will require some little time to straighten them out. Both Superior and Crookston have forfeited their franchises in the league by their failure to finish the season last year. The management believe it can win back what it lost last season, if conditions are favorable. The other clubs, especially the Superior and Crookston clubs, have apparently had enough of the game, and if Superior is to be again represented, it will be under a new management.

Duluth fans who remember Walter Mueller, the star pitcher of the 1903 team, will be interested to hear that he has been brought out as a comic opera star. He is singing with "A China Doll" company. He is signed a contract with the Jersey City team in the Eastern league to pitch next year and has severed his connection with Milwaukee.

The plan of enlarging the circuit to eight clubs will also be discussed at the annual meeting. Ray Chase and Chipewake Falls are looked upon as the most probable additions to the league circuit.

The local management is not likely to make the mistake it did last year and get a team that is too strong for the other teams in the league. The club still has a hold on Joe Wilkes and "Buck" Nolden and will be able to secure two or three of the other players if they are needed. Manager Van Praagh has not yet done anything toward signing players for next season and will not be likely to do so until he is assured that the league will again be in existence.

The Winnipeg and Duluth clubs are the only ones that are anxious to see the league reorganized. The other clubs are, apparently, passive in the management. Winnipeg was the only team to make money last year. Duluth was one of the heaviest losers, but the management believe it can win back what it lost last season, if conditions are favorable. The other clubs, especially the Superior and Crookston clubs, have apparently had enough of the game, and if Superior is to be again represented, it will be under a new management.

Minor Leagues, Says Murnane.

The Minors Are Gradually Learning Their Own Strength.

Only a few days ago, says "Tim" Murnane in a Boston letter to a Cleveland newspaper devoted a page to the minor leagues and their fight for a few concessions from the major leagues. The article had the earmarks of having been written by Secretary Barnard, of the Cleveland American league club, and showed a pretty fair knowledge of minor league affairs, especially where it is recalled that three years ago Secretary Barnard was writing some raw things of minor leagues which refused to stand for the work of the American association.

At that time Barnard was on a Cumber paper. Soon after Thomas Hickey left the association and Barnard quit the newspaper business to take a place with Charles Somers' Cleveland club. The minors are not in need of advice from the outside, but the guidance given by Secretary Barnard, of the Cleveland American league club, and showed a pretty fair knowledge of minor league affairs, especially where it is recalled that three years ago Secretary Barnard was writing some raw things of minor leagues which refused to stand for the work of the American association.

There is a force in the minor league organization that is stronger than the good of the game, and that force will come to the front if necessary. This Cleveland article is about the work of the Brooklyn-Baltimore committee, of the Jersey City club, and president of the Jersey City club, and unless the whole body comes to their way of thinking, it is a matter of time before the minor league association is pictured as being ambitious to stifle the light of the major leagues.

It seems natural for each league to want to look good to its patrons, and the major leagues should never attempt to clip the wings of the minors, but the ten to one that is not connected with the minor leagues has the least idea of what is going on.

I have maintained for the last three years that the minors were gradually learning their own strength, and that the major leagues should never attempt to clip the wings of the minors, but the ten to one that is not connected with the minor leagues has the least idea of what is going on.

Brainerd

Brainerd, Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Guy C. Stratton, formerly of Brainerd, and Miss Mary M. March, of Duluth, were united in marriage at the home of the bride on Wednesday last. Mrs. Jerry M. Gunt, while on her way to the depot for a few weeks pleasure trip to the coast with her husband and daughter, had the misfortune to fall off the platform along the freight depot down on the railroad track and sprained her ankle, broke her leg above the knee and also her ribs.

The Misses Violet and Anna Murphy entertained a large number of their schoolmates on Thursday afternoon last. The room was decorated with red and green ribbons and holly and mistletoe. After a brief illness at St. Joseph's hospital, the remains were taken to Elliptical Sunday morning where Mr. Randall resided.

Miss Thompson, school teacher at Staples, spent the holidays at Brainerd with Mrs. Mayne O'Connell.

Mrs. W. E. Nicksch, who was operated on for appendicitis is now improving fast, and will soon be able to be around again.

Mrs. Harley, wife of Capt. Harley, of the public schools, and her husband, who were spending the holidays here with her husband.

The following officers have been elected by the Sons of Herman for the coming year: President, Herman Fletcher; vice president, Aug. Schultz; secretary, John and John; treasurer, Gustaf Monz; trustees, Henry Arling and Valentine Fournier; representative to the grand lodge at St. Paul, Richard Lee.

Harry McKay, who is attending the state university has been spending the holidays with his parents.

HAD TO HIDE IT

A mother wrote us recently that she had to keep Scott's Emulsion under lock and key —her children used to drink it whenever her back was turned. Strange that children should like something that is so good for them. It's usually the other way. Scott's Emulsion makes children comfortable, makes them fat and rosy-cheeked. Perhaps that's why they like it so much—they know it makes them feel good.

OUR YOUNG FOLKS CORNER

Frank Clark's Burglar and the Way He Was Caught.

By MAUD WALKER.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark had gone South for a little winter trip, leaving their home in charge of their three children, Frank, a big fellow of 16; Madge, of 14, and Annabelle, of 12. Bridget, the trusted old servant, was the only other member of the household.

Just across the street lived Mr. and Mrs. Scott, intimate friends of the Clarks, who promised to look after the three children during the absence of the parents.

"If a burglar breaks in, Frank," Mr. Scott had said to that young man the day of his mother's and father's departure, "just ring a bell and blow a whistle and I'll come to your assistance. I've a six-shooter that's rusting for need of practice."

"Thank you, sir," Frank answered, "but there'll be no fear of that happening. In the first place I shall take all necessary precautions against such an intruder by the use of extra bolts and locks. But should one succeed in forcing an entrance I feel quite sure I'd be equal to meet the emergency. I am not afraid of such lawbreakers, for they are always cowards when brought face to face with a good gun. I'll keep my father's revolver close at hand, sir."

Now Frank had only come face to face with danger in his own imagination, and like a great many other young fellows he felt very brave, and often ridiculed people who were so foolish as to hand over their valuables to some burglar or footpad just because the miscreant had ordered them to do so.

One day, when thinking of burglars, "I'd give them more than they would be looking for. There's nothing like bluffing a bluff at his own game."

A few nights after Mr. and Mrs. Clark's departure Madge and Annabelle became alarmed at certain queer noises coming from the rooms below, as if someone was stealthily creeping about the hall and dining-room. They were all ready to jump into bed when the sounds reached them. Quickly dressing on their slippers and bathrobes, they ran lightly across the hall to their brother's room. He, likewise, was preparing for bed, but called "come in" in response to the knock on his door.

"There must be a burglar in the house," he heard, whispered Madge, while Annabelle stood by and trembled. "We heard the queerest noises, as of someone moving about the rooms down stairs. Don't you think you'd better go down, Frank, and see?"

"Yes, he might get mamma's new solid

"Yes, and he'd take all the silver with him," said Madge. "No, I for one don't want mamma and papa to come home and find that the house has been burglarized. If Frank doesn't want to go down—" And Madge looked at her brother inquisitively.

"Well, I'll go—just to satisfy you that I'm not afraid of," said Frank, pulling on his coat, which he had thrown off just as the girls entered his room.

"There's no one in the house that don't belong here," he went on, putting his feet into a pair of soft, soundless slippers.

"If you don't hurry up about it the burglar will have helped himself to what he wants and gone," said Annabelle, with some anxiety.

Frank grabbed up his father's revolver and opened the door with a loud noise, coughing as he stepped into the hall.

Then, as he started down stairs, he called back to his sisters, raising his voice more than was necessary to be heard: "Say, you needn't be at all uneasy. I shall shoot if obliged to, and shoot to hit."

The truth of the matter was he was trembling in every limb with fear, and he desired to give the unwelcome visitor—if there be one below—a hint of his coming in time for him to make his escape.

When Frank reached the hall below and passed along till he got near to the door leading into the dining-room he paused and became cautious, for there, through the narrow crack beneath the door gleamed a streak of light, and the noise of some one moving about in the room was plainly heard. His heart already to jump into bed when the sounds reached them. Quickly dressing on their slippers and bathrobes, they ran lightly across the hall to their brother's room. He, likewise, was preparing for bed, but called "come in" in response to the knock on his door.

Rhyming Rebus.

most leaped over to his right side, and beat so loudly that he feared the burglar on the other side the door would hear it.

A portiere curtain hung at one side the closed door, and behind it Frank quickly and stealthily crept as noiselessly as possible. Then he laid his ear close against the door near the side where it hung to the hinges and listened. The reason Frank took this position under the friendly curtain and at this particular side of the door was that should the burglar decide to come into the hall he would not be obliged to confront him. All this the frightened fellow admitted to himself, but he would not have had any other person know it for the world.

He had scarcely taken his listening attitude when he distinctly heard the noise of rattling silver. No, there was no mistake, the thief was piling up the ware on the table, taking not the least pains to quiet the sound of his work, for Frank could hear him moving about freely, pitching with a careless hand the knives, forks and spoons into a heap. Then came the sound as if he were trying the whole into a cloth, preparing, of course, to carry it off. Frank's heart stopped its violent commotion and stood still. If the robber was so bold as to take no precautions against unnecessary noise he must, indeed, be a desperate character—one fully prepared to he heard the door open and heard the person go into Bridget's room, closing gently the door behind him. With two bounds Frank reached the stairs, and with as few more he gained the hall above, still carrying the revolver. When he rushed madly into his own room, where his sisters awaited him breathlessly, he was a sight to call forth pity. His hair stood up over his head like hog's bristles, while his eyes stared full of terror—from an ashen countenance. On seeing him Madge and Annabelle threw up their hands excitedly, but neither could find breath to speak.

"Come, quick," panted Frank, throwing the revolver on the bed and making a dart for a front window. "He's in Bridget's room and the Lord only knows what will happen. Come—we must get out on top the bay window for he may come up here the minute he's finished poor Bridget. We'll call to the first passerby to go for the police."

"Heavens, what can he want in Bridget's room?" hoarsely asked Madge.

"Don't you ask questions," said Frank, raising the window and stepping out on the shining, small roof. The girls, feeling the cold air rush in from the open window, thought themselves to grab the blankets from Frank's bed to use as a protection against the severity of the weather. As soon as the three were huddled together on top the bay window, Frank first pulled down gone."

"A—hem," coughed Frank, very loudly, hoping to attract the policeman's attention. But this falling he was obliged to call. "Oh, say there, officer—we are on the roof."

The blue coat stopped and looked up, recognizing the children. In he came through the gate and paused under the bay window. "Begorry, plivast be you kids a-doin' up there, eh?"

"Papa and mama are away from home," explained Frank, leaning over the edge of the roof and speaking in a low voice so as to not notify the burglar indoors of the policeman's presence, "and there's a burglar in the house."

"Bedad you say," remarked the blue-coat. "Be you sure on that plint?"

"Yes, sir; I heard him, and felt him, too," answered Frank. "He is now in Bridget's room. I wish you'd hurry and get him, officer, before he kills her and gets away with the silver."

"Sure, and I'll attend to his bacon," declared the burly policeman. "First I'll round up the outside and see if there are any pals to help him off."

So away went the officer round the house, returning to report "Nothin' doin' on the outside; not even a track in the snow. The devil must a-bin playin' truant Santa Claus an' at the door," answered Frank. "Anyhow, he's in there all right. You'd better go kill any one who should interfere with him. Thus Frank figured it out as he stood quaking behind the curtain, and he determined to move from his place of concealment till the burglar should take his leave—and the silver, too. What did the silver amount to, anyway, when placed on the balance against his life? Would not his parents advise him never to be foolishly by thrusting himself into real danger? Would they value the silver more if he saved it at the cost of his own life? He then only son, the heir to the name of Clark? And, besides all this, wasn't it his duty to save his sisters—who should they hear a light going on down stairs, would run to his assistance and receive bodily injury also?

As these thoughts flew like lightning through Frank's mind he heard the robber approach the door behind whose curtain he was secreted. In another moment a hand was laid on the knob, the door turned on its hinges and he could hear the breathing of the person who stepped into the hall close beside him. Frank's blood seemed to freeze in his veins, his flesh to creep as though a hundred slimy serpents crawled up his spine and wrapped themselves about his throat. Involuntarily he held his breath and pressed his left hand tight still clutching the revolver over his heart to still it, for it had suddenly set up a beating that sounded in his own ears like the clapping of heavy thunder.

It was plain that the burglar had put out the light in the dining-room before leaving it, for Frank could see that none was admitted to the hall when the door was opened. One step, heavy, slow, and the breathing figure stopped—stopped right beside the curtain! And Frank felt the corner of an elbow—punch into his side as the person seemed trying to adjust a heavy burden. A satisfied grunt told Frank's ears with horror as on across the hall the thief could make his plans of escape. Instead of going toward the front hall door he went directly to a door at the rear end of the hall—a door which led into Bridget's room. Frank's terror now reached its climax. What if the burglar should get into Bridget's room? Knowing their Irish cook so well, Frank could cause a terrible battle which would end by a horrible death for Bridget, for no person on this planet of ours could make that worthy and fearless woman show the white feather. She would fight to the death, even though she knew the odds were against her. At the door a breath paused, and Frank drew a long breath of hope. Then the shade and then closed the sash, doing this to prevent the robbers and he venture upstairs—from seeing them.

"Now," said Frank, "the minute someone appears we'll call for assistance. It's early yet and many of the men living out in this part of town haven't gone home."

"Won't the burglar go?" asked Annabelle, shivering and drawing the blanket closer about her. "Surely, he's got the ground all to himself and can take what he wants and escape."

"He can go out by the kitchen door and climb over that high fence into the alley, or he can depart by the front door, right down here by the bay window where we can see him. But I am sure he won't attempt the back fence with his tremendous load. He'll probably go out at the front."

"I'd think he'd be afraid of being seen in front," said Madge.

"Afraid of nothing!" answered Frank. "He's the nervous character I ever heard of. W'y, he walked about the dining-room leisurely and with the tread of an elephant. And he hit me with his elbow as he came out of the room."

"H'r'y on us!" exclaimed Madge in a hoarse whisper. "Heaven's!"

"Herey on us!" said Frank, hesitatingly. "You see I was—or I was behind the portiere curtain, you know. I stepped back there to listen through the door. I could hear him packing up my things. Before I had time to make up my mind what to do he came and struck me down. Of course, he didn't know I was there. For the sake of you girls I thought it would be a foolish move for me to open fire on him in the dark, for he was armed to the teeth and is an old pros. And with weapons, I am not an expert in that line. Had he tackled me with his fists—well, I am sure I'd have done him up in short order."

"Frank goodness! there's someone coming!" exclaimed Madge, pointing down the pavement. And sure enough the policeman who walked that beat, "Thank heaven," said Annabelle from her very high perch.

"Who'll call him?" ventured Frank, beginning to feel a little ashamed of their position. He shrank from being thought of a coward.

"Why, you'll call him," answered Madge. "Call him quick or he'll be in and capture him."

"Why not go round to Bridget's window and call to her? It is the last one on the south side. It isn't very far above the ground and you can look in and see if the fellow is still there. It may be he hasn't killed her yet."

The policeman followed Frank's suggestion and went round to Bridget's window. For a moment he stood near it listening. To his ears came the sound of slow, regular snoring, and he made bold to go close to the window and flatten his nose against the pane, taking a survey of the room. The moonlight flooded it and every article of furniture was plainly visible. "Nobody in there but the cook," he said to himself. "And she ain't passed from this mortal coil, for dead ones don't snore to beat the band. But maybe the devil is in another part of the mansion. I'll just call Bridget from her nightmare and demand entrance. Sure, an' I'll kids will be friz to leebegs if they stay on that roof much longer. Then he rapped on the window pane with his hard knuckles. In quick response a head popped up from the pillow and a fat rubbed a pair of startled eyes wide open, while a loud voice cried out: "What's wantin'—who be yez a-standin' at me windy? Away wid yez or I'll knock off yer pate."

"Sure, Bridgie, me foline woman, it's none other thin meself—the town's prospector, bedad. The kids of this family, what's settin' freeze on top the bay windy, says you've a burglar in the house. I'm sure, an' I'll be a-standin' at me windy? Away wid yez or I'll knock off yer pate."

"Holy Mary! what are you sayin'?" exclaimed Bridget, sitting up in bed. "I've no time to repeat me remarks. Be movin' the Sing Sing locks an' ad-dress the other prospector, or open your mansion so I can be after gittin' at the devil."
